

1920 ROSE FIESTA WILL BE GREATEST IN HISTORY OF CITY

Festival Will Be Staged in Connection With Shrine Convention; Hauser Is President.

Portland's 1920 Rose Festival will be staged in cooperation with the great convention of the Shriners, Eric V. Hauser, president of the next show, Saturday began plans to make the 1920 festival the greatest ever, following his election Friday night.

Other new officers are: Harvey Wells, first vice president; Mrs. Elliott Corbett, second vice president; Frank E. Smith secretary; Fred E. Krause, treasurer.

Electrical and floral pageants will be made features of the festival, Hauser declares. Electrical parades were omitted from Rose Festivals three years ago, but will return next year.

Cooperating with the Shriners, who will hold their convention here next summer, will be H. R. Blauvelt, Walter J. Holman and Herman Winthrop. They will meet with a Shriners' committee next Thursday.

Ways and means committees selected Friday are: M. O. Wilkins, Walter E. Conklin and Fred E. Krause.

ALLIED GUNS NOW FROWN ON GERMANY

gov. declared the allies will use force to make the peace treaty effective if necessary.

The press in both London and Paris forecast drastic allied action if Germany refuses to accept the protocol.

CABINET MEETING CALLED

In London a special cabinet meeting was called for Monday to hear Field Marshal Wilson's report on the proposed military measures if Germany refuses to accede to the allied demand.

There was a decided tendency in both London and Paris to blame part of Germany's belligerent attitude upon the failure of the United States senate to accede to the opinion of many, has led action, in the opinion of many, has led Germany to believe she may be able to secure moderation of the admittedly harsh terms.

In Washington the American state department announced there were 12,000 Yankee doughboys along the Rhine, presumably available to Marshal Foch if he orders an advance into Germany.

GERMANS FACE READJUSTMENT

Berlin saw a possible readjustment of the German cabinet if the allies insist upon what the Germans call the "outstanding" territorial demands. Foreign Minister Mueller, it was reported, never will agree to surrender the German docks and shipping demanded in return for the sinking of the Scapa Flow fleet. Whether material for a readjusted cabinet could be found that would accept the protocol was not known.

The German admiralty issued a semi-official denial of the statement by the British admiralty that Admiral von Reuter was in communication with his government at the time he scuttled the interned fleet at Scapa Flow. The Germans charged the British officials with "misrepresenting" Germany in quoting from letters to Von Reuter found aboard the salvaged warship Emden.

France, the Germans declared, has wantonly refused to release Germans held as prisoners of war.

With all these preparations under way there was a tendency among many sober statesmen to believe Germany will accede to all the allies' demands. It was just another case of "calling the German bluff," they believed. Germany, in the opinion of these observers, is helpless and knows it. She saw a chance to take advantage of an apparent discord among the allies by failure of the American senate to ratify the treaty and attempted to benefit by it. She failed.

J. D. Brown Admirer, Not a Detractor, of President Wilson

The Dalles, Dec. 6.—J. D. Brown was placed in a false position in reports of his annual address before the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, published in the Portland papers of Thursday, The Journal included. He was represented as using language hostile to President Wilson, while, as a matter of fact, the manuscript of his address shows no such attitude. Speaking of big profiteers, Brown's language ran as follows:

"But no sooner had the last shot been fired in the Argonne than we began to hear the backfire of their enthusiasm for this new democracy. Our president, who had impressed the world as its greatest statesman, suddenly became a demagogue, an anarchist and a menace to the institutions of the country." The text clearly indicates, both in the quote above and in what follows, that Mr. Brown was saying that "in the eyes" of the profiteers our president, who had impressed the world as its greatest statesman, suddenly became a demagogue, etc., etc.

Mr. Brown is known to hold the belief that President Wilson is one of the greatest and best men in the world.

Italian Orphans in Need of Aid Now; Party Brings Word

New York, Dec. 6.—(U. P.)—Bringing an Italian delegation to raise funds in the United States for Italian war orphans and Colonel Vittorio Asinari de Brazzo, Italian military attache, the steamship Dante Alighieri docked at Jersey City this afternoon. The aid to the military attache who will be on duty at Washington is Captain C. H. Huntington, an American who served in the Italian army during the war.

The ship carried 1800 passengers, including 1200 steerage, many of whom were Italians returning to their American homes after serving in their native army.

Italian delegates included Dr. Giovanni Sembrini, professor of the Royal University of Turin; Count Umberto Morro di Lavriano, and Marquis Guisado Zaccaria. They will speak in various large cities to enlist the support both of Italians and Americans for the Italian children whose fathers died in the war.

Member of Pioneer Family Is Called

Mrs. Stella Walling Johnson, wife of Walter Johnson, died at her home, 571 East Ash street, November 30, following a brief illness. Mrs. Johnson was a member of a pioneer family which came to Oregon from the east in 1847. She was a native Oregonian and has made her home in Portland many years, where she was actively associated in community and church life. She was a member of Central Presbyterian church and also of the Eastern Star. She is survived by her husband, twin daughters, Elva and Eva, and four brothers and sisters. Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon, and interment was at Mount Scott cemetery.

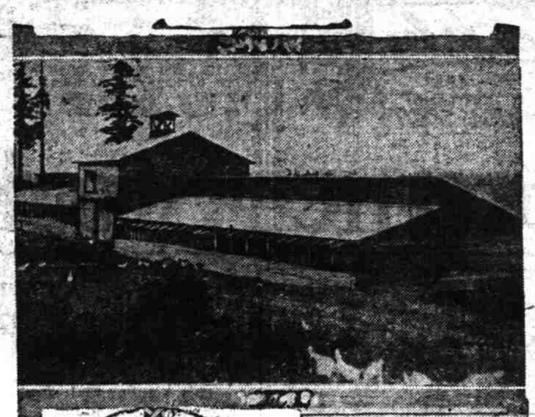

Workman Loses Finger

When his hand was caught in a rope and drawn into a block, C. S. Hobbs, Oregon Box factory employe, lost the third finger of his left hand Saturday afternoon. He lives at the Riverside hotel. He was taken to Good Samaritan hospital by the Ambulance Service company.

Cause Had Merit

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 6.—(U. P.)—William S. Brown was freed of an arson charge when he testified he accidentally set a house afire while burning his sweatshirt's wardrobe.

POLICEMAN IS VERSATILE

Above—Poultry house on the chicken farm of Patrolman Russell E. Butler at Jennings Lodge. Below—Butler's White Leghorn star layer, which has a 286-egg record. Patrolman Butler himself.

It is seldom a man can have three occupations and make good with them all, but Russell E. Butler of Jennings Lodge is accomplishing the unusual. Mr. Butler is a member of the Portland police and is at present in the licensing department; is owner and manager of one of the largest and most up-to-date poultry farms in the state; is a promising writer, having written several very successful sketches and short stories.

Butler has been a member of the Portland police for 10 years and has been employed in many of the various departments. Poultry raising was his hobby and writing his avocation. Three years ago he determined to turn his hobby into a business venture and accordingly bought three acres of land near Jennings Lodge, where he installed his flock of 24 thoroughbred White Leghorns. Later he purchased four acres more, erected modern buildings, installed an up-to-date lighting system and various conveniences and has developed the Butler strain of White Leghorns which has become famous throughout the west as has also his 286-egg hen.

Butler recently shipped eggs to Ketchikan, Alaska, 52 per cent of which hatched.

The Butler flock now consists of 500 brooding hens, 750 laying pullets and a large pen of cockerels.

Mr. Butler still has the 24 hens he started business with, but some of the "wisest ones" are growing a bit apprehensive as the holidays draw near.

SERGEANT CRANE IS TO BE IN CHARGE OF ST. JOHNS DISTRICT

Police Substation Will Have Enlarged Area to Watch; Motor Equipment in Use.

Sergeant R. L. Crane of the second night relief, formerly commanded by Chief of Police L. V. Jenkins, has been appointed by the chief to take command of the St. Johns substation beginning Monday morning. The district of the substation will also be enlarged to Alhina and Killingsworth avenues. Three additional men will be appointed to the station and motor equipment will be provided, including an automobile to be used in emergency cases and as a patrol wagon, and a motorcycle with sidecar attachment. Sergeant Crane has been going over the field for several days, and has mapped out a new system of reliefs. A special night relief will work from 7 p. m. until early in the morning. From 7 a. m. until 10 p. m. the St. Johns station will also guard Linnton. During the remainder of the night Linnton will be protected by two motorcycle men working from headquarters. One of these men will be expected to patrol the west end of Linnton road.

The St. Johns district is deserving of better police protection, Jenkins said. One of the first moves probably will be stringent enforcement of the curfew law, which heretofore had been neglected, owing to lack of men.

Reduction of War Time Taxes Is Not Feasible Just Now

Washington, Dec. 6.—(I. N. S.)—Reduction of income, excess profits and other war time taxes is considered impossible by senate leaders.

Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, in charge of financial legislation during the absence of Senator Penrose from Washington, said today demands for larger appropriations make reductions of taxes impossible.

Revision of the war time taxes to remove the levy on soft drinks, beer substitutes and other articles generally used by the general public will be given serious consideration by the committee.

The revenue derived from this source amounts to more than $185,000,000. Measures covering the repeal of taxes on these minor luxuries have passed the house. During the special session the senate committee refused to take up the measure.
