

Portland Gun Club Plans Busy Season—Famous Coach Turns Down Offer to Return

NEWLAND IS HEAD OF GUN CLUB

Three Registered Tournaments to Be Held in 1920; Outlook Is Promising.

PLANS for one of the biggest trapshooting seasons in the history of the Portland Gun Club are being mapped out by the newly elected board of directors. Sanction for three registered tournaments, including the Oregon State Sportsman's association championship, have been requested of the American Amateur Trapshooting association.

In addition to these tournaments, a series of merchandise events, as well as competition for the directors' and president's cups, will be scheduled.

STATE SHOOT IN MAY
The registered tournament season will open March 30 and 31. The state championship event will be staged May 23, 24 and 25 and the annual fall championship tournament will be held August 23 and 24. A total of 1500 registered targets will be thrown in the three shoots, which will give the Oregon shooters a chance to get consideration in compiling the season's averages, based on 2000 targets.

The Director's Cup will be awarded to the high man on 500 targets in a series of merchandise events. The details of the shoot for the president's trophy, offered by Charles B. Preston, are yet to be arranged. The John G. Clumson trophy shoot will be staged some time in June, probably during the Shrine convention.

NEWLAND IS PRESIDENT
Herbert B. Newland, former secretary of the club, was elected to presidency, succeeding Felix Friedlander. Arthur E. Downer, former president, was chosen vice president and E. H. Keller was elected secretary. Frank Templeton and J. C. Morris were elected directors. Frank Van der Vliet, who is the superintendent of the club grounds; C. B. Preston and President Newland comprise the tournament committee. Other committees will be selected in the near future.

The club members went on record as behind the Oregon Sportsman's league. Initiation fee during the first three months of 1920 will be $25, and at the expiration of this period it will be raised to $50.

BRISTOL REMEMBERED
The club voted to give W. C. Bristol a gold membership card for services rendered the club.

There is new life in the doings of the club at the present time and all indications point to a very successful year. A large number of new shooters are expected to take to the traps this coming season. The club enjoyed a very successful season during 1919.

SWIMMING
CORNELL has 32 indoor rowing machines for practice. Coach Courtney has 200 applications for positions on his crews. All the varsity crew which rowed against Princeton last summer, in the Ithaca's only race, are in the squads.

Union Boat club of Boston, also Harvard and Yale may be represented in the Royal English Henley regatta on the Thames next summer with varsity eight oared shell crews.

Arundel Boat club of Baltimore lost its clubhouse, shells and trophies in the recent fire in that city. The club plans to continue aquatics and is planning to secure a site and rebuild.

A new rowing association, to be known as the Great Lakes Rowing Association, is to grow out of a meeting in Grand Rapids.

Rutgers college has a strong swimming squad including: Ross, the Inter-scholastic 220 yard champion, and Gabel, the former 10 mile national champion.

Parl-Mutual Machines Thrive
During May, June and July the parl-mutual machines which handle bets on French race tracks took in the sum of $17,000,000 francs, of which $3,000,000 francs went to the three big clubs which govern the sport in France.

J. WILLARD PLANS TO RE-ENTER RING IN NEAR FUTURE

Fox Rickard Says Ex-Champion Preparing; Suggests Battle With Fred Fulton.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(U. P.)—"No man in the world can whip me." Previous to the fight in Toledo last July Jess Willard went even further and told Fox Rickard he could stick out his jaw with perfect safety to any man living.

Rickard told the other day in support of his belief that the supreme arrogance of the former champion was not killed in the Fourth of July tragedy and that he wants to come back to prove it.

Willard also spoke of a little conference that took place in Willard's training camp the night before the fight. In response to a message from the huge Kansas, he went to the champion's quarters and found him stretched lazily in a big chair.

WAS CONFIDENT
"Tex, I want you to go with me on a big movie deal. It would be better to talk it over tonight, because you'll be busy tomorrow and I want to get away just as soon as I can after I finish that bird," he said.

There wasn't a doubt in his mind that the crowd was anything but a quick victory for him, Rickard said. He laughed at the fears expressed by his friends that he hadn't conditioned himself.

"Why should I run the risk of the road, I won't need my legs. I can stand and take all he's got," Willard said.

In reminiscing, Rickard brought out a point in the fight he believes was generally overlooked. He declared Willard was just as close to being knocked out in the third round as he was in the first round, when the bell saved him.

WANTS EARLY DATE
"The gong saved him again in the third round," the promoter said. "He was so near gone when he reached his corner that he flopped down before his seconds could get the chair under him. Why should I run the risk of the road, I won't need my legs. I can stand and take all he's got," Willard said.

He then ran his hands in his pockets and fished out a small pile of letters and telegrams from Willard and his former manager, Ray Archer, asking for an early date to talk over a return to the ring.

"Willard can't demand a match with Dempsey," Tex said. "If he wants to get back in the game he might try a match with Fred Fulton, who is returning from England. That would be a good match, but I don't know that I would care to handle it."

Reports from the Kansas home of the former champion some time ago carried hunches that it big "cowboy" wasn't content with his lot. It seems from later reports that he is really training himself in the near future.

One of his messages to Rickard said he was getting himself into first class condition and he believed he is unbeatable when he is in top-top shape.

Hoblitzel Named West Point Coach

Lieutenant Dick Hoblitzel, United States army dental corps, late star first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, has signed a contract to act as head coach of the West Point baseball club. He succeeds Hans Lobert, former Giant third baseman. Hoblitzel has signed for one year. However, if successful, it is likely that a three or five-year contract will be offered him. Hoblitzel served through the war and at its close received a feature of the team's playing. No team was so weak on the defense that an opponent could gain at will. Very few large scores were tallied.

DOBBIE'S TEAM SETS MARK
To the Navy ball the honor of running up the largest score. Gil Dobbie's Annapolis lads vanquished Colby, considered in former seasons a strong eleven, by the one-sided score of 125 to 0. This was the only instance where the defense was so poor that it crumbled.

The strength of the defense speaks volumes for the grade of coaching that the candidates for the run lines and extremity positions received. Most of the football authorities contend that a team's defense is the key to its success. It has been years since either of the service school teams mustered enough strength to shut out an opponent by a single yard.

The Navy forwards compiled the best record of the season by the fine stonewall defense that they put up against their army rivals at the United States grounds recently. It has been years since either of the service school teams mustered enough strength to shut out an opponent by a single yard.

MANY TEAMS WERE BRILLIANT
Pittsburgh, Lehigh, Lafayette, Colgate, West Virginia, Rutgers, Wesleyan, Williams, Stevens, Bucknell, Cornell, and White followed. Yale, Boston College, Washington and Jefferson, Swarthmore, Brown and New Hampshire all showed brilliant defenses.

Columbia came through in its final game against Brown to flash the sort of defensive strength that Blue and White followers feel will win back for the Morningstar Heights seat of learning a place among the gridiron leaders of the East next season.

Chicago bowling tourney now in progress drew an entry of 480 five men teams of 23 in doubles and 2377 in singles. It is record entry.

WORTHY MAN FOR DEMPSEY

Little Hope, However, That Carpenter Will Hold Up Against World's Champion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Georges Carpenter's stock as a heavy-weight batter of class has risen skyward since he flattened Joe Beckett in 50 seconds.

The shifty Frenchman proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that he is a long, long way from the pugilistic boneyard, and he deserves the praises that are being showered upon him.

His victory was popular because he was the underdog. He was outwitted by Beckett and the ring a second choice in the betting. Then, before a minute of the first round had passed, he delivered the punch that put Beckett down and out and kept Georges' crown as heavy-weight champion of Europe nicely balanced on his brow.

WAS NOT TEST
The battle, however, sensational as it was, did not furnish anything that looked like a test for the Frenchman. Beckett might just as well have been occupying a seat at the ringside for all the opposition he furnished for him.

Georges, therefore, cannot be hailed as a world-beater; and so far as the American fight fan is concerned he stands just about where he did before the fact that he proved that he is not in the has-been class is a source of satisfaction to the bugs on this side of the water. The public can now feel reasonably sure that Jack Dempsey will meet a worthy opponent in the Frenchman, regardless of whether or not he sizes up an opponent of dangerous capability.

K. O'ED GODDARD
Joe Beckett's showing against the French idol indicates that England must look long and hard for a worthy successor to the British heavy-weight title. He won his right to the British title by knocking out Frank Goddard, an even slower pugilist than himself, who was proved as putty in the hands of the fast-moving, hard-hitting Frenchman.

When Carpenter ultimately faces Jack Dempsey, he will come in contact with a veritable whirlwind of action embodied in a fighter who is taller and stronger than Dempsey, a better boxer than Dempsey, as some contend. He may have more science. Yet the fact remains that Dempsey has never been marked up by any of his opponents and his style of attack is so terrific that science on Carpenter's part will very probably be devoted to protecting himself against the rushing whirlwind from Salt Lake.

ACCURATE WITH PUNCH
Can Carpenter stand the fast pace that Dempsey will set? After four years of being a slugger, it is not surprising that Georges is not as fast as he was before the war; yet how far he can go is still a question in doubt. His fight with Beckett proved nothing along this line.

Dempsey, though essentially a fighter, is no slouch for cleverness. His defense is a single study into effect. He does not give ground. Neither does he lose his balance for attack. His timing, ranging from being something altogether new to Carpenter, is, in fact, new to heavy-weight boxing, for there has never been a heavy-weight pugilist whose style so completely dominated the other as Dempsey's. The deep studies of boxing tell us that the fellow who is a sixteenth of an inch shorter than his opponent is the man who generally climbs to the heights of fame in pugilism. So far Dempsey has displayed that sixteenth of an inch of lead. Neither fighter was in the best of shape for this battle, but Maher was the worse for wear after being driven from pillar to post by the authorities of a number of towns. Fitz waded right into his man with the first tap of the gong, dropping him for the count after delivering several stiff jolts to the jaw.

MAHER'S RISE TO FAME
Peter Maher, who, like Dempsey, had risen to fame through a series of one-round victories, defeating such men as Steve O'Donnell, Joe Godfrey, Gus Lambert and Mike Morrison, was matched to meet Bob Fitzsimmons in 1896 and the bout was originally slated for Hot Springs, Ark. Later, owing to a clash with the authorities, it was transferred to Mexican soil, across the border from Langtry, Texas, where the men got together on the same night. Neither fighter was in the best of shape for this battle, but Maher was the worse for wear after being driven from pillar to post by the authorities of a number of towns. Fitz waded right into his man with the first tap of the gong, dropping him for the count after delivering several stiff jolts to the jaw.

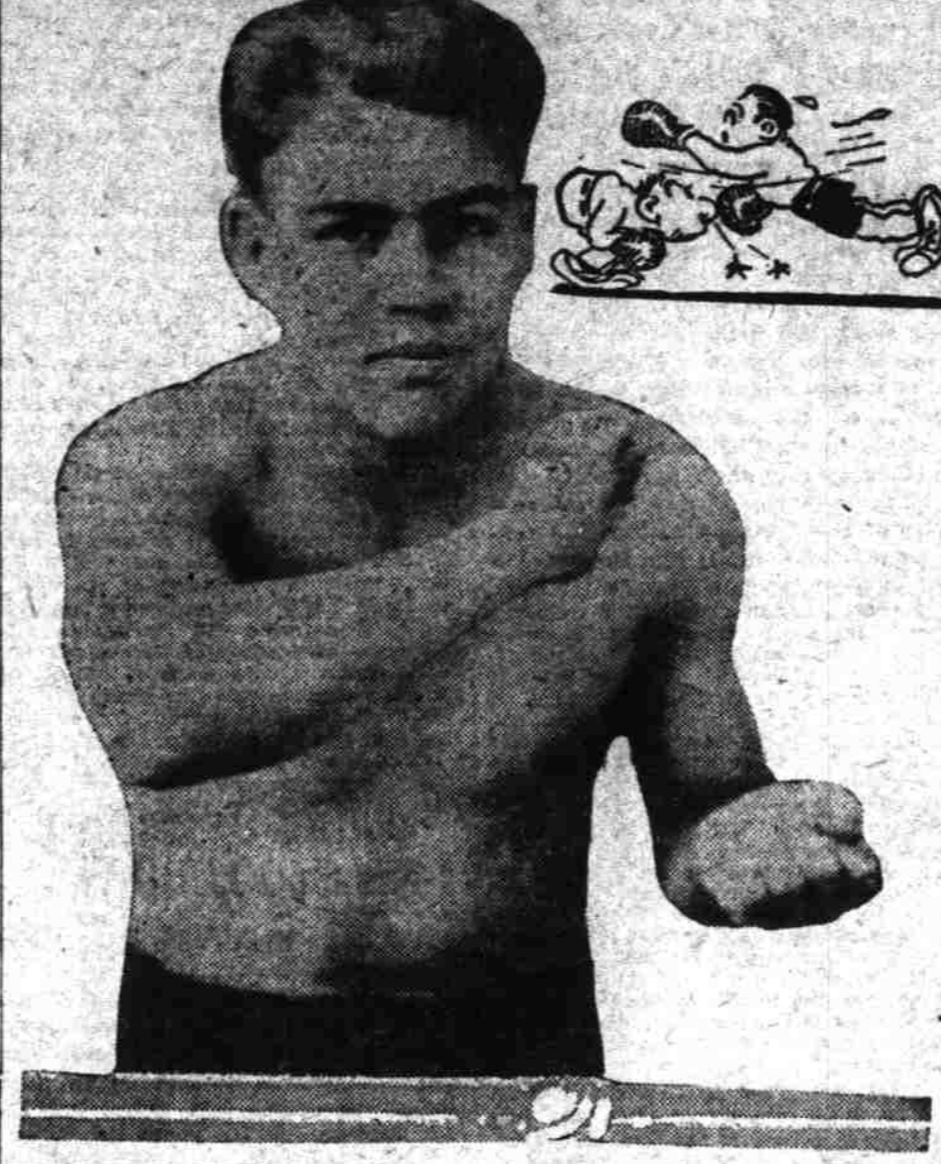

In 1897, as a preliminary to the Fitzsimmons-Corbett battle at Carson City, Dal Hawkins and Marty Flaherty, both of whom were in the fight for lightweight honors and as both were rated among the foremost 135-pounders of their day, interested in this preliminary bout was widespread. Hawkins had one punch that was a dandy—a left-hander to the jaw. With the clanging of the bell they exchanged a few wallops, when Hawkins suddenly whipped his coin-getting left.

SEVERAL COACHES BEING CONSIDERED
Famous athletic coaches mentioned as possibilities to guide the preparation of the United States athletes for the Olympic games at Antwerp next year are: Lawson Robertson, University of Pennsylvania; Coach Jack Mackley, who holds a similar position at Cornell, and Captain Moloney of California, who coached the American athletes that competed in the inter-allied games at Paris last June.

REED COLLEGE WILL SCHEDULE SIX GAMES
Six games will be played on the intercollegiate basis by the Reed college basketball quintet if the athletic council's present plans materialize. The outside game season will be late in starting owing to the delays in the interclass schedule caused by weather conditions, but efforts will be made after the Christmas holidays to rush the intramural schedule. Carl Wilson was elected captain of the dormitory team last week.

PENINSULA SOCCER ELEVEN

"BATTLING" ORTEGA, the sensational San Francisco ring star, who will appear in a 10 round contest here Tuesday night against Jimmy Darcy. This will be Ortega's second fight in Portland, his first over the long route.

One Round Knockouts Not Popular Fans Want Money's Worth in Bouts

By Jack Velock, International News Service Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—One-round knockouts in fight battles of first importance have not been frequent, and it goes without saying that they are highly unsatisfactory from the standpoint of the spectator.

In modern ring history, during a period of the last 30 years or so, there have been a few one-round victories in bouts that meant much to the pugilists who answered the bell.

Back in 1895 Joe Walcott, undoubtedly one of the best welterweights that ever lived, got his chance at the title when he met Mitty Mathews. Mathews was a rugged fighter. So was Walcott, though the other was also crafty and packed a wallop that carried untroubled slumber in its wake whenever the shony boy was able to land it fairly. Mathews and Walcott met for the world's welter title and in less than three minutes Walcott's front teeth were in the cold as a mackerel.

MAHER'S RISE TO FAME
Peter Maher, who, like Dempsey, had risen to fame through a series of one-round victories, defeating such men as Steve O'Donnell, Joe Godfrey, Gus Lambert and Mike Morrison, was matched to meet Bob Fitzsimmons in 1896 and the bout was originally slated for Hot Springs, Ark. Later, owing to a clash with the authorities, it was transferred to Mexican soil, across the border from Langtry, Texas, where the men got together on the same night. Neither fighter was in the best of shape for this battle, but Maher was the worse for wear after being driven from pillar to post by the authorities of a number of towns. Fitz waded right into his man with the first tap of the gong, dropping him for the count after delivering several stiff jolts to the jaw.

WELLS TAKES COUNT
Georges Carpenter, who recently disposed of Joe Beckett in 50 seconds, treated another British champion in the same manner. At Ghent, Belgium, in 1912, Carpenter won the European title from Bombardier Wells in four rounds. In December of the same year he gave Wells a return match in London and disposed of him in one round.

Jack Dempsey, the present world's champion, earned the undeliable right to meet Jess Willard for the title when he checked Fred Fulton under the chin at Newark, N. J., a little over a year ago, and swept the last obstacle from his pathway to Willard's front door. The writer recalls that a ring-side spectator who turned to a man behind him to borrow a match missed the knockout on this occasion. He was one sore bird.

A one round knockout that resulted fatally occurred in 1911 when Art Pecky met Luther McCarty at Calgary, Alberta. McCarty was just blooming forth as a likely opponent for Jack Johnson when he met his untimely end, for he never regained consciousness after Pecky dropped him with a blow to the jaw.

ORTEGA IS IN SHAPE FOR BOUT

San Francisco Battler to Put Up Best Possible Against Local Boxer.

"BATTLING" ORTEGA, the San Francisco middleweight boxer, and Jimmy Darcy, the local battler, will settle their differences Tuesday night when they meet in the main event of the Portland Boxing commission smoker in the Armory.

The contest is scheduled to go ten rounds and should be one of the best of the present of the Middleweight division. Darcy lost to Tommy Gibbons last week in the main event of the Milwaukee smoker.

IS THIRD MEETING
This will be the third meeting between the two ringsters. The Mexican has beaten Darcy twice in his career. Darcy will be in better shape when he faces Ortega this time than he was in the bouts staged in the southland. In his last bout with Ortega, Darcy started out like a whirlwind, but weakened near the close of the second round and lost.

Darcy demonstrated that he was in great shape for a pretty tough bout in the manner in which he finished the contest. Eddie Kana, manager of Gibbons, spoke very highly of Darcy after the Milwaukee smoker. "Darcy is a pretty tough battler," said Eddie and he ought to know for he has been mixed in the ring game for 17 years.

SHOULD BE GREAT BOUT
This bout will be a different kind of a battle than the Gibbons-Darcy affair. Darcy knows Ortega's style pretty good and is willing to take a chance at mixing it with the Mexican, who, it is said, likes the going when it is the roughest. No boxer has been able to make Ortega back up yet, which is saying quite a bit when it is taken into consideration that a number of other Mexicans have been in the ring were rather timid. This is especially true in the case of Aurelia Herrera.

Ortega's style is a treat to watch. He is willing to take a punch or two in order to land one. He is an aggressive fighter and is up and going all the time. He needs a little work to put him on edge for the contest.

MITCHELL READY FOR BELL
The semi-wind-up between Freddie Anderson and Peter Mitchell should be a bear of a ten-round event. This will be Mitchell's first appearance in two months, and it is said that he is ready to put up the battle of his life. Anderson has been training steadily and is in grand condition, according to Ad Garver, K. O. Williams a Seattle featherweight, and Neal Zimmerman, the latest local ring sensation, will meet in a six-round special event. Zimmerman's willingness to battle has won him a great many friends in the past few weeks and the fans are pulling for him to beat the Seattle boy.

Two football battles are billed, Sallie Hansen, who hails from Vallejo and Johnny Boscovich of Portland. The curtain raiser will be between "Kid" Rocco and Leo Bell. Rocco is a very likely looking youngster.

ALL KINDS OF GAMES Will Now Be Taught
With the completion of the new freshman athletic building at Cambridge the building on the Harvard campus will be available in the program of winter athletics which teach students how to play games which they can play and enjoy after leaving college. About $55,000 has been expended constructing a new gymnasium and in improvements to buildings. The exercises include basketball, bowling, fencing, swimming, squash ball, squash racquets, handball, gymnastics and corrective exercises.

Memorial to Be Erected
The 10th Infantry post, American Legion, of New York, will hold an indoor athletic meet in the Twenty-third regiment armory, Brooklyn, January 24, the proceeds being used to erect a building to serve as a memorial to those of the regiment who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war and as a meeting place for the living members.

Europe's Champion May Compete
Miss Langdon, the champion woman tennis player of Europe, may be a contender for the United States title at the annual championship to be held on the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket club next June.

CHALLENGES ARE HURLED AT THYE, LOCAL MAT ARTIST

Claimant for Middleweight Championship Will Meet O'Connell in Vancouver, B. C., Monday.

THYE Thye, claimant of the world's middleweight wrestling crown, is a much challenged bone crusher these days.

Following his victory over Mike Yekel, the Salt Lake grappler, last week in Spokane, Thye was hurled at him by Walter Miller, Young Gotch and Ad Gustavo, the Bend middleweight.

Thye has two matches scheduled, the first being for New Year's day with Basanta Singh in Spokane and the other with Eddie O'Connell, the Bend coach, in Vancouver, B. C., Monday night.

Miller, whom Thye defeated in Portland last spring, is particularly anxious for a return engagement. Miller claims that the Los Angeles apocryphal will back the match and it may be possible that such an event will be arranged in the spring.

W. A. Spangler, who is managing Gustavo, is willing to back his protégé for $100 against Thye and is willing to post a forfeit of $500 to stand the match. In his last two matches Gustavo beat Paul Tange and Gus Mycolow, who claims that his home is in Salt Lake. Thye beat Gustavo in La Grande last spring.

'Dutch' Garver Is Whitman Grid Boss
Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., Dec. 20.—Leonard "Dutch" Garver, full-back on Whitman's football squad for the last two seasons, was elected this morning as captain to pilot the varsity on the gridiron next season.

Garver is one of the best all-around athletes in the Northwest. In the past two years he has held down center on the basketball team, and also occupied the pitcher's mound during baseball season, as well as being a member of the Whitman tennis team playing in intercollegiate matches.

Ten football letters were presented this week by Coach Borkes, including: Maurice Smith, tackle; Carl Gensel, end; Leonard Garver, fullback; William Boyd, guard; Harper, tackle; William Leucht, guard; Cordeiro, center; Corkum, quarterback; and George Yancey, halfback. Captain Wiley, a Portland player, barely missed his letter, due to injuries in the U. H. W. and Gonsara game, which kept him out of the Gonsara game.

HUNTINGTON TO REMAIN
Huntington will, in all probability, be retained as Oregon next year. In fact, reports were circulated prior to the departure of the team that he had been offered the contract for 1920.

Huntington's work as a player season entitled him to another year of the position and should he succeed in piloting the Oregon team to a victory over Harvard there is no doubt that he will be retained.

SEEK HOOP COACH
The question of a basketball coach at Oregon is still undecided. Dean Walker, it has been learned, will not accept the position because of a fractional strike at the university. Huntington is not anxious to handle the team and it is likely that some outsider will be selected.

West Virginia Star Great Ground Gainer
Captain Ira E. Rodgers, fullback of West Virginia, in the games with Princeton, Rutgers and Washington, Jefferson made what is believed to be a record for yards gained.

In these three contests in November, the men figured in gaining no less than 788 yards.

Against Princeton he rushed the ball 34 yards, returned punts and kickoffs 21 yards and threw forward passes for net gains of 124 yards. This gave him a total of 229 yards against Princeton. Against Rutgers he rushed the ball 128 yards, returned punts and kickoffs 37 yards and threw passes to his teammates for 127 yards. Against Washington and Jefferson he rushed the ball 64 yards, returned punts and kickoffs 62 yards and threw passes to King and Hite for net gains of 116 yards.

People to Be Enlightened
Hamilton (Ontario) Athletic associations are raising a fund of $500 to be used in advertising a by-law which will be submitted to the city council in January, providing for the erection and maintenance of an athletic stadium costing $100,000; also spending $40,000 improving public parks used as athletic fields.

Jay Has 250 Raquets
Jay Gould had 250 raquets to select from in his recent court tennis contest with Walter Kissella, whom he defeated in his recent match at Philadelphia. The raquets cost $10 each.

H. BEZDEK DECLINES "O" OFFER

'Leak' Says Proposition Made and Rejected; Walker Will Not Coach Hoop Squad.

HUGO BEZDEK, coach of the famous 1910 University of Oregon football team, recently rejected an offer to return to the Eugene institution.

While no publicity was given the reported offer and its rejection, it has been learned on good authority that the athletic council was authorized to make an attempt to secure Bezdek's services as football manager.

Bezdek's refusal to consider the offer was no great surprise, and neither was the fact that Oregon made its attempt to secure his services, for it had been whispered around that "Bez" would return.

QUITS BALL FIELD
The former Lemon-Yellow coach refused to leave the Penn State college for the management of the Pittsburgh National league team, a position he held last season and a part of the previous year. Bezdek had a very successful season at Penn State, losing but one game—and that by one-point margin—out of a hard schedule. The Steelers capped the season with a victory over the strong Pittsburgh aggregation.

"Bez" Huntington, a Besdek pupil, had a remarkably successful year. It was his first as a coach in the Pacific coast conference and he succeeded in coaching the Lemon-Yellow players to two victories in three conference games, the team losing to the Washington State college team by a touchdown.

Huntington will, in all probability, be retained as Oregon next year. In fact, reports were circulated prior to the departure of the team that he had been offered the contract for 1920.

Huntington's work as a player season entitled him to another year of the position and should he succeed in piloting the Oregon team to a victory over Harvard there is no doubt that he will be retained.

Tennis Stars From Britain Are Ready
The British team which will arrive to defeat the Australians in the Davis cup matches at Sydney January 16 to 18 next will have a month to become acclimated before playing. England was the preliminary matches in which France, Belgium and South Africa took part. This country did not compete. It will likely challenge for next season's play. England and Australia have won the trophy five times apiece and the United States three times since the cup was put in competition in 1900 by Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis.
