FriendsNew Year Hospitality, Following
Charming Custom, Offered by Doctor and Wife.

By Helen M. Hutchison

IN PERPETUATION of a charming old custom which has made the first day of the new year the most appropriate of all the days that follow to offer hospitality to friends, Dr. and Mrs. Noble Wiley Jones are receiving this afternoon and evening at their home on Market street drive. Cards have been sent out to more than 150 of their friends, and the receiving hours are from 2 until 10 o'clock.

During the evening Mrs. Elsie Sturdevant, mother of Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. Mary E. Jones, mother of Dr. Jones, will preside at the supper table. This afternoon those who were asked to pour included Mrs. Gwyllyn Jones, Mrs. Hubert G. Colton, Mrs. John Archie Bell and Mrs. Wilson Johnston.

Those who were asked to assist about the rooms include Mrs. Charles Edwin Sears, Mrs. Thomas M. Joyce, Mrs. P. Ernest Jones, Miss Evelyn Jones, Miss Allie Grauchet and Miss Gretchen Colton.

As a farewell event for college folks from Oregon Agricultural college the greater O. A. C. official dance will be given Friday night at Hotel Multnomah. Student body officers, and prominent students are arranging the affair to which alumni and prospective students have been invited. The greater O. A. C. committee is a student body organization, which has been active in homecoming, junior week end and other important functions on the O. A. C. campus. The dance Friday will be the first affair off the campus to be sponsored by the committee. Hood River, Pendleton, Medford and several other Oregon towns are also giving such dances under the direction of the committee.

The committee in charge of the party follows: George Alstad, chairman; Misses Florence Holmes, Mary Holmes, Hazel Strief, Berice Haines, Ethel Wheeler, Agnes Housh, Marlin West, Georgine Hutchins, Edna Holcomb, Alma Scharpf, Arline Scanlon, Helen Harbke, Dora Finch and Lloyd Carter, George Powell, Cammie Smith, Charles Crowell, Cecil Dunn, Burdette Emery, Verne Everett, Carl Lodel, Albert Bauer, Alfred Clough, Maurice Snook, Gus Hixon and Ransom Cook.

The Lincoln Garfield Relief Corps No. 19, and post, will hold their joint installation of officers at the court house at 8 o'clock, January 2. A dinner will be served at 6 o'clock in the evening. All those celebrating birthday anniversaries the past four months will be considered honor guests. A short program will be arranged.

Cards are being sent out for the first reception to be given by the faculty of Ellison-White conservatory in their new quarters at 544 Everett street, which is the former home of Mrs. Charles Gauld. The affair will be an event of Tuesday evening, January 6. The invitation will be sent to all friends of the conservatory and members of musical circles in the city.

Mrs. Meredith Bailey Sr. of Philadelphia, who came to Portland recently to make her home, was the inspiration for an informal tea given at the home of Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Wednesday afternoon.

An informal tea will be given Friday afternoon by Eta Alpha of Chi Omega at the home of Miss Edna Holcomb. The guest list includes alumni, Oregon and Washington chapter members and friends of the sorority.

Mrs. Frank G. Waterhouse was hostess for a delightful tea Friday afternoon, honoring her mother, Mrs. George Monroe Swatbough, and sister, Miss Emma Swatbough of Seattle, who are her guests ever the holidays.

Madame Lucie Valair's New Year's reception for students of the Conservatoire de Musique et d'Art Dramatique is being held this afternoon at the conservatory.

A happy gathering of old friends was an event of this week at Hotel Clyde, for which O. F. Ogden, a permanent guest at the Clyde, was host. Guests included Henry Dedman, son of a leading hotel man of Alaska, and Michael Mc-

Brien, recently returned from service. Both men are former associates of Mr. Ogden in the North and came to Portland to tour the Northwest by motor during the fall and winter. Today they will be joined in holiday festivities by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Allen and Mr. and Mrs. William Blanchard. Mr. Allen is a well known commercial man, representing a local firm in Alaskan territory. Mr. Blanchard until a few months ago was associated with the White Pass & Yukon railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Warren entertained at a costume dance at their home on Kearney street New Year's eve. Guests for the occasion included Mr. and Mrs. Irving Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Antoine G. Labbe, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. George Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Fallings, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. L. Johnson, Howard Charlton, Hamilton Corbett, Lester Hodson, Philip Fry, James Mille, Jordan Zan, Miss Cornelia Cook, Miss Marjorie Dillingham, Mrs. Frederick Green, Mrs. Greenville Vernon and Albert Clark.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Waterhouse gave an informal dancing party in honor of Mrs. Waterhouse's sister, Miss Emma Swatbough, who is their guest from Seattle.

The Christmas room of the Portland Art Museum will be open to visitors until January 8. On the following day a display of the work of pictorial photographers of America will be shown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Haddon Manners of Underwood, Wash., are being felicitated on the arrival of a daughter, born Sunday. Mrs. Manners will be remembered as Miss Delberta Stuart.

Marguerite Royal Neighbors of America held a basket social and dance at the hall of the East Side Business Men's club Tuesday night that was greatly enjoyed by members and guests.

Mrs. David C. Lewis and Mrs. Thomas Honeyman will leave Portland this evening for New York, to be gone about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett are receiving friends in their home at Dunthorpe this afternoon and evening.

JUST what the 1920 outlook may be for these two young women, as they peek over the rim of the new year, one can't tell from their expression, but it's a safe bet that it will be a kindly year at that. These demure looking persons are Lillian Hall and Helen Ferguson of the California cinema colony, who expect some day to be "stars."

Journal Helps Solve Problem

Household economy. These two words mean much. It is the housewife who first feels the growing demands of higher living cost. She it is who must devise means of making the money go around that her family can be well housed, properly clad and well nourished.

The doctrine of household thrift lends itself admirably to a New Year resolution. A budget of household expense makes an admirable working plan. Many housewives have kept books on living costs as far back as the pre-war period. They can render a special service to other housewives who would undertake such a plan.

The Journal is anxious to help. To this end it has prepared a series of brief facts and figures covering fundamental living costs—rent, food, clothing, etc.—for a period of years that their systematic management may be a help to others. Address Household Editor, The Journal.

Herewith are reproduced some experiences of Portland housewives in the matter of household expenses:

Mrs. Eugene Palmer: "It is impossible to live on what one lived on four years ago and still be properly nourished, unless one was recklessly extravagant in the pre-war days. I am never extravagant and always pay cash, yet my bills are considerably higher than they were four years ago. I must say, however, that I know many wives of wage earning husbands, who fritter away their money; they buy things that they do not need and usually high priced things, food that is out of season and clothes that are not practical. Most of them run bills which I regard as the first step toward extravagance.

Mrs. U. G. Smith: "I watch my bills very closely and I know they are very much bigger than they were four years ago, although I do not keep an itemized account of my expenditures. It is impossible to live on what we did four years ago."

Mrs. C. A. Jackson: "I keep a strict account of what I spend for the house. I have not added and compared my bills four years ago and now, so I could not give the average increase, but I know some things have doubled in cost, some even more than doubled, namely laundry bills; fuel is 25 per cent higher and food is 33-1/3 per cent higher. Gas and electricity are no higher. The cost of domestic help has more than doubled. We are taking a little more than half the milk and cream we took four years ago, yet our bill is more than doubled. I do wish something could be done to put the profiteering merchant out of business."

I went through the market the other day looking for a T bone steak; I discovered them for from 22 to 45 cents. I finally got a very good one for 28 cents, and when I told the butcher that they were 45 cents some places he said that anyone who was charging that was a shameless profiteer, because he was making a fair profit at 28 cents."

Women Meet; 40 Are Present at Dinner.

By Vella Winner

THE Oregon Council of Administrative Women in Education met for dinner Tuesday evening in the crystal room of the Hotel Benson with 40 present. Miss Lillian Tingle of the University of Oregon presided and outlined the work of the association as prescribed by the National Council. Dr. B. W. DeBuck, chairman of the child welfare commission, spoke on how the council could cooperate with the commission. Miss Elizabeth Fox, dean of women at the University of Oregon, advocated the exchange of both teachers and pupils between American and European educational institutions.

The roll call included women in many types of administrative work including principals of schools, supervisors, county superintendents of departments and women regents.

Short addresses were given by Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, regent of the University of Oregon; Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett, regent of the University of Oregon; Mrs. B. Milam, head of the department of domestic science at the Oregon Agricultural college.

A constitution and bylaws was adopted. Miss G. G. Gillette being chairman of this committee. The nominating committee consisted of Miss Ruth Catlin, Miss Grace Johnson and Miss Emma Grubel. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Lillian Tingle; Eugene, vice president, Mrs. Mary Fawcett; Corvallis, secretary, Miss Elizabeth Fox; Eugene, treasurer, Mrs. L. D. Thomas, Portland. Miss Edna Groves was chairman of arrangements for the dinner. The affair proved interesting and inspiring.

Mrs. G. L. Buland, chairman of the legislative committee of the Portland Women's Research club, has called a legislative conference for Friday at 2:30 o'clock in the balcony of the Benson Hotel. The legislative committee of other clubs will be welcome and any members of the Research club interested in the subject may attend. The members of the legislative committee are Mrs. Buland and Mrs. Alexander Thompson and Mrs. Joseph A. Hill. An effort will be made to encourage cooperation in legislative matters and to eliminate all unnecessary bills or involved legislation being introduced.

ConcertSymphony Orchestra Presents
Finely Balanced Program on New Year's Eve.

By J. L. Wallis

OF THE four conventional movements that go to make a symphony, the andante invariably attracts the greatest admiration, because it appeals to the emotions rather than to the sense of rhythm, or to the heart rather than to the feet.

Tchekowsky, the great Russian composer, in his andantes, paints pictures bold and powerful in their tenderness, that all seem to understand and appreciate. The andante cantabile of his Fifth Symphony in E minor is one of the most beautiful ever conceived and penned for an orchestra. It was the gem of the concert given New Year's eve by the Portland Symphony orchestra at the Heilig and drew spontaneous and genuine applause.

The entire program, conducted by Carl Denton, chosen, well balanced and well presented.

The second half of the program contained five numbers, the Delibes overture, "Le Roi L. D. L.," and "Omaha Indian Love Song," by Carl Busch, conductor of the Kansas City Symphony orchestra, both played here for the first time; two works by the Finnish composer, Jarnfelt, "Prelude" and "Berceuse," and Gounod's magnificent grand professional, "Queen of Sheba." The Jarnfelt prelude took so well that it had to be repeated. It is scored for strings and woodwind. Busch's "Indian Love Song" is a delightful bit of composition, with a very interesting dialogue for violins and cellos. The Jarnfelt "Berceuse" perhaps would have been more characteristic if the synopetized accompaniment had been less subdued. The French numbers were brilliant and splendid vehicles for opening and closing the second half of the program.

The attendance was excellent, practically equal to the capacity of the theatre.

The next and fourth program will consist of Beethoven's symphony in A major, Bizet's suite "Adrienne" No. 1, the overture to Wagner's "Lohengrin," and the introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin."

That though a lot of girls think otherwise, paint and powder will never take the place of soap and water.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES
BY CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMBEThe King Calls for Help
KING TINKER BOB had all planned in his mind the way he wanted to surprise the good birds of the great forest. First he went to find Major Pole Cat and O. Possum. It was necessary that he explain his plan and get some help from the forest Council. Major Pole Cat was snoring quietly in his home at the base of a hollow tree.

"Come out, Major Pole Cat," cried Tinker Bob. "I have something important to say to you."

Major came out. "What is it?" he asked.

"The snow has covered the food and makes it hard for the forest birds to find a living. We must act quickly."

"Is that saucy Jay bird among those that cannot find food?" asked Major Pole Cat.

"Yes, he is the first one to complain and call the other birds thieves," said the King.

"Tut-tut," cried Major. "He's the biggest thief of all and I don't care if he does starve to death. Why didn't he go south with the other Jays? He was too lazy to fly." Major Pole Cat never did feel very friendly toward Jerry the Jay because he always told everything he knew to everybody he saw. And that isn't a good thing for anyone to do.

"But we must do something as we would like others to do unto us," said the King. "You see, if all of your food was covered with snow and you couldn't find any, I know you would like someone to help you find food."

"Yes, I'll help, but that Jay bird ought to starve," said Major. "What shall we do first?"

"First you go fetch Chief Porky and I will return and prepare something special for our bird friends."

Major Pole Cat started away in search for Chief Porky while Tinker Bob returned to his house.

Now King Tinker Bob knew what these little feathered friends enjoyed in the winter time and he had arranged to supply them with this food, but never did he tell them about it. He had seen the Hunter early in the fall and from him obtained a supply of tallow. The birds never thought of the King preparing food for them. But he was thoughtful and kind and planned for the welfare of the forest dwellers without their knowing anything about it.

Tinker Bob took four sticks and tied a piece of tallow on each of them, then waited for the arrival of Chief Porky and Major Pole Cat.

The birds that stay with us in the winter time will be very glad for our assistance when the ground is covered with snow. Tomorrow we will see how the good King of the Forest treated the birds and what the birds did to return his kindness.

Alcazar Company
To Finish Season

Activities on the part of the Chamber of Commerce and local civic organizations in behalf of the Alcazar Musical Comedy company, which was to have been disbanded this week because of lack of money, have been successful. That Manager C. V. Everett announces that the season of the musical players will be continued. Because a road show, "Revelations of a Wife," has been booked for next week, when it was believed that the musical season would end, the Alcazar players will lay off after this week's show until January 12, when they will open in "The Flamingo."

James Stewart, member of the lower house in the state legislature and state manager of Governor Hiram Johnson's presidential campaign, is at the Imperial following a meeting to organize the campaign and to elect officers. He announced that the newly-made officers are as follows: Coy Burnett, treasurer, and Tom Mannix, secretary. He said offices would be opened in the Beck building.

A. E. Myers, dining car manager on the Northern Pacific railroad, whose headquarters are in St. Paul, is at the Multnomah.

R. W. Fenton of Goldendale, Wash., is at the Seward.

Lester Wade of Condon and Miss Lucile Brown of Portland married at the Portland today. Many friends had been invited to the ceremony, and in anticipation of the event numerous congratulatory telegrams were received.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Meacham, who moved from their home at Hood River, are at the Benson.

Leo Schmidt of Salem, loganberry juice man, is at the Benson, accompanied by his family.
