

42 PASSENGERS ARE CUT AND BRUISED IN SEATTLE CAR CRASH

Miraculous Escape From Death Features Accident Which Occurs When Car Leaps Off Track

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 5.—(U. P.)—Forty-two men, women and girls received cut heads, broken arms and bruises at 7:15 o'clock this morning when a Green Lake street car left the tracks and crashed into a telephone pole at North Thirty-ninth and Woodlawn Park avenue.

ONE IS UNIDENTIFIED

All but one of the injured have been identified at the various hospitals to which they were taken. One woman with a crushed skull lies at the City hospital awaiting identification.

Several fractured arms were reported among those injured, but the majority of the passengers were cut by flying glass.

According to Motorman M. R. Fullerton and Conductor A. F. Corbin, the accident occurred shortly after Fullerton lost control of the street car as it was running cityward along the North Thirty-ninth street curve.

IMPACT IS TERRIFIC

The street car crashed into the right angle curve at Woodlawn Park avenue, headed for a telephone pole at that point but slewed dizzily as it struck. The wheels struck the curb and smashed broadside into the pole. So terrific was the impact that the pole snapped off short and the street car was fairly cut in two.

That no one was killed outright is considered miraculous.

According to the injured the car was not running at high rate when it left the tracks, but the majority of those who were injured were wearing more than 100 passengers, who filled every seat and passageway.

WRITER LEAVES IRON RING OF RUSSIA

workmen, who are in the majority in the theatres.

The son is probably in the rear of the army, as a merchant's son would not be taken to the front. He is a bourgeois and they have to be fought, unless they are unless they have proven unusually courageous. He is probably doing office work. He would hardly go to the college or university. Some of the universities are very poorly attended, as the Red army and the factories and offices, which are on a war footing, have swallowed up all the young men. The law departments of the colleges have been abolished.

POOR HIGHER EDUCATION

The best attended of the higher schools in Russia are the medical schools. They are not larger than before, but they are more numerous. Some universities that previously had 10 medical schools have them now and new medical schools have been opened.

The poorer schools are the higher ones and the best are the lower ones. This is due to the fact that grownup young men and women are filled with unrest and cannot settle down to study. They are only interested in the events of the day. As soon as a youth becomes of age he gets to work and cannot think of a career, as nothing is permanent in Russia. He thinks of politics and the future of Russia. He thinks of the fighting and revolution and how soon it will end. That fronts dominate everything. Everybody reads the summary of the military situation. Nearly all families have members at the front, but it is not so much the personal interest in these members as the suffering the war brings and the hope of the ending of the war that brings the war home to all classes alike.

It is not true that young men are being kept in the army by threats that their families would be exterminated if they deserted. Only the old officers are under the threat of persecution of their families in case they betray the Red armies.

NEED EXPERIENCED MEN

The soviet needs officers of the old regime. They profess loyalty, but some desert, and the Red command makes those threats to prevent this. The officers are needed for staff work mainly, because the commands in the field are largely graduates of the new military schools.

The average family has never enough to eat. There are markets in Petrograd, but officially they are under the government ban. The traders and speculators, most of whom come from the country, are arrested and fined and released again and the following day they reappear. The demand for food is terrific.

INCREASE SHOWN IN STATE OUTPUT OF SILVER, COPPER

Government's Estimate Shows Decrease in Gold and Lead Production, However.

A preliminary estimate of the production of metals in Oregon in 1919, compiled by Charles G. Yale, of the San Francisco office of the United States geological survey, department of the interior, shows a decrease in the gold and lead produced but an increase in the silver and copper.

According to the mines report the output of gold in 1918 was $1,270,465 and the estimated output in 1919 is $4,072,861, a decrease of about $107,804. The output of silver in 1918 was 107,323 fine ounces, valued at $1,072,323; in 1919 it was 211,523 fine ounces, valued at $2,434,790. The output of copper in 1918 was 2,451,018 pounds, valued at $60,401; in 1919 it was 2,833,714 pounds, valued at $601,355, an increase in quantity of 187,698 pounds and a decrease in value of $104,046. The output of lead in 1918 was 10,000 pounds, valued at $153; the output in 1919, 20,000 pounds, valued at $114, a decrease in quantity of 800 pounds and in value of $69.

LOW WATER CUTS POWER

The decrease in the gold output of the state was due to some extent to the scarcity of skilled labor and the increase in its cost and to war conditions generally but was due mainly to scarcity of water and power for hydraulic, dredge, and deep mines. The water in the streams of the state was so low during the last two months of the year that hydroelectric power was entirely cut off from large properties, including the dredges, being furnished for domestic use only. The larger dredges were shut down in November and December for lack of power, so that the dredges of the state, which ordinarily produce 57 per cent of the placer gold and 25 per cent of the total gold produced, combined, only $301,900, or $85,840 less than in 1918, a decrease of 22 per cent. The larger deep mines were similarly affected. Direct returns from all the dredging companies and the larger deep mines of the state show a general falling off in the output of gold for the year.

MINES IDLE

Returns from inquiries to postmasters, merchants and every body, male and female, devotees of a day or a couple of evenings every week to drilling. Even people who are physically unfit drill just the same. On account of this, the first impression the new arrivals get of Russia is one of a vast military camp. Civilian dress is rare in the cities, although the military dress is not always uniform.

Iron Works to Pay Bonus to Employees Over Year's Salary

Eighty or more employees of the Multnomah iron works will receive bonuses for the past year in proportion to the length of time they have been employed, according to announcement made by the officers of the company.

Child Has Narrow Escape From Death Under Truck Wheel

Gold Hill, Jan. 5.—Aileen Guy, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Guy, living about three miles west of Gold Hill, was run down and badly crushed by a motor truck driven by Frank Guy, the child's uncle.

The little girl ran out to meet the homecoming truck, catching hold of the left front fender, where she hung, riding into the yard unseen by the driver. The child's father, seeing the child, signalled and the truck was stopped. As the brakes were applied the girl lost her hold and fell under the left front wheel, which ran over her leg and body to the chest. The heavy truck had to be backed off the child's body. No permanent injury is anticipated.

SORENSEN TAKING LOCAL REST CURE

Man Who Was Fined $500 for Reckless Driving Is Treating His Shattered Nerves.

Nels P. Sorensen, who was freed from the necessity of serving the jail sentence imposed by Municipal Judge Rosman by a majority of circuit court judges, has retired to a sanitarium for rest and nerve healing, according to announcement today by Ralph Wilbur, Sorensen's attorney.

Wilbur refused to say what sanitarium his client had sought out or who his physician is.

"My engagements and connection with the industrial conference and with relief in Europe," he says, "make it impossible for me to go to the Northwest at this time. Please accept the sincerity of my statement that I am not a candidate for the presidency, and a campaign to that end from any party would be entirely unwelcome to me."

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, also writes his regrets at being unable to address the Jackson club, saying that he is to be one of the speakers at the Washington dinner. He promises to telegraph a message to the Portland meeting, however.

Herbert Hoover will be unable to attend the Portland meeting, but an invitation tendered him by the Chamber of Commerce, according to a message received from Hoover, is being accepted this morning. The message says: "I will not be able to visit Oregon, as I must go direct to Washington on return East this week."

commercial interests and sportsmen, and with a small sporting club, the "fishermen" opened at the state house here at near the noon hour today in accordance with Governor Olcott's call.

REPORT "LOADED," RUMOR

Senator Thomas of Medford fired a fair sized bomb when he declared that it was the governor's duty to replace the present fish and game commission with a new commission before the opening of the special legislative session next Monday.

The personal records of the present commissioners should not be called into question during consideration of the legislation dividing the commission, he explained.

Governor Olcott also lent substantial significance to the possible contents of the report of the accountant, Roberts, appointed last June to audit fish and game commission records, by announcing that the report is to be released next Wednesday. It is said the report may contain "dynamite and possibly T. N. T."

BOTH SIDES REPRESENTED

Arthur K. Downs, president of the Oregon Sportsmen's league and Richard Price, president of the Multnomah Anglers' club, and George A. Mansfield spoke for the sportsmen. Thomas Nelson of Astoria was the spokesman of the commercial interests, and F. A. Seufert, Roderick Macleay, F. A. Burke, E. P. Kendall, George Warren and others identified with the commercial interests were present. The Southern Oregon section consists of A. C. Marsters and D. B. Dubar of Roseburg, F. E. Daniels and F. Mansfield of Medford.

The conference called the attendance of Representatives H. N. Hurd, S. A. Hughes, E. L. Ballagh, Harvey Cross, J. E. Roman, E. C. Norblad (who presided), F. H. Hedley, C. M. Thomas, R. S. Farrell, John R. Nickerson and Roy Rittner. Seymour Jones, speaker of the house, participated actively in the conference. Thomas declared that the fish and game administration should be divided and that it is the only solution of the problem.

LONG SESSION IN VIEW

"We have been accused of being a disturbing factor in fish and game affairs. Why not, now that we desire it, let us go our way and commercial interests go theirs?" questioned President Price of the Anglers' club, when Nelson opposed the division. A prolonged afternoon session was the forecast at the time of the noon recess.

After pocketing his fee the congratulations of the minister officiating at a wedding were genuine.

BRYAN WRESHE JACKSON BANQUET

Commoner Says "He Plans to Speak 'More Fully'"; Urges Compromise Treaty Ratification

William Jennings Bryan can not come to Portland to address the Jackson club January 8, when it has its Jackson day dinner, but he intends to speak "more fully" of what is in his mind at Washington on that date and occasion, according to a telegram received this morning by Elton Watkins, president of the local organization.

An invitation was extended to Mr. Bryan to deliver an address in Portland on the evening of the Jackson day celebration and banquet, now being arranged by the Jackson club. In answer to that invitation, he writes:

FAYORS TREATY COMPROMISE

"I appreciate the invitation and am sorry I cannot attend the banquet. The Democratic party has a great opportunity to be ratified by compromise and all Democratic issues squarely met. I will speak more fully at Washington."

Mr. Watkins has also received a telegram from Herbert Hoover, who was invited to address the Jackson club, in which Hoover makes definite announcement of the fact that he will not be a candidate for president, as the nominee of any party.

HOOPER NOT A CANDIDATE

"My engagements and connection with the industrial conference and with relief in Europe," he says, "make it impossible for me to go to the Northwest at this time. Please accept the sincerity of my statement that I am not a candidate for the presidency, and a campaign to that end from any party would be entirely unwelcome to me."

Suspect Held in Connection With Youth's Murder

Yakima, Wash., Jan. 5.—Frank Putcamp was arrested here in connection with the murder of William Crawford at Mabton, November 23. Crawford, a lad of 17, was shot down by a man who held him up and robbed him. In a dying statement he described his assailant and the description fitted a man seen in the fields near Mabton the day of the murder, shooting at a mark. Putcamp asserts he was in Kennewick on the day of the murder. He is nervous and gives evidence of breaking under the strain. He talked to Tom Lahar of Mabton before the arrest, inquiring as to what the officers had done in the case.

Yakima will celebrate home products week with a home products banquet given Wednesday night in the armory by the Commercial club as a feature of the meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce.

QUARTERMASTER'S COSTS HERE HIGH

Reduction Is Asked in Rent Paid for U. S. Army Depot Maintained in Portland.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—The quartermaster general of the army has furnished Senator Chamberlain with a report on the costs of the Pacific coast quartermaster depots, declaring the cost of operating is comparatively high at Portland.

Discontinuance of the Portland depot, he says, is suspended, pending definite reorganization of the army. He suggests the government would be pleased if the rental costs at Portland are reduced. He reports the cost per ton for handling supplies at Portland are $18.40, at Seattle $9.60, at Los Angeles $16.20. Average storage cost at Portland per square foot per month is 1 1/2 cents, at Seattle 2 1/2 cents, at Los Angeles 14 1/2 cents.
