Factional Fight Enlivens Election Of Laurelhurst Club

Factional differences of opinion as to the logical candidates for the board of directors of the Laurelhurst club made the annual election of that organization last Tuesday evening somewhat exciting and resulted in a victory for the ticket proposed by the nominating committee over the names submitted from the floor and four proposed by the "Progressives."

The result of the election was the approval of the candidacies of A. C. Holmes, F. C. Bowker, Fred A. Burdard and Nelson R. Jacobsen.

At Reed college is a woman who strides from student to student with palm extended. She says, at regular intervals: "Your board bill!" or "Your tuition is due."

When Miss Belle Martin approached the students this morning, it was with a new message. "Please accept this $14.31 with the compliments of the government," she said, in effect.

Miss Martin was making the distribution of funds to the 45 ex-service men who are students, the money representing the fulfillment of the government's pledge to carry on the education of its soldiers.

When she reached the college this morning she had $2799. Most of this went into the coffers of the college to pay up back tuition charges.

Portland's Glad Hand Gets Praise From Easterners

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. McIntosh, Delhi, N. Y. have not forgotten Portland. Neither have they forgotten the way they were entertained in Portland at the time of the convention of the National Education association, two years ago.

To prove all of which, Mrs. McIntosh has addressed to J. P. Parker, 302 Oak street, a New Year's greeting that makes Parker happy to know he was of service to a guest of the city.

"From one of the party that you took for an afternoon drive while the N. E. A. was being entertained in your beautiful city. We will never forget Portland and the lavish entertainment you gave us," says the card sent by Mrs. McIntosh.

Since the recent advent of Chef Selby, in charge of cuisine, and Head Waiter Balda, in charge of service, we are making
