

VACCINATION OR STAY FROM SCHOOL, ASSERT DIRECTORS

Board Says Children Must Submit to Preventive Infection or Be Absent During Epidemic.

To submit to vaccination or remain away from school 21 days in the choice presented to Portland public school teachers and pupils who have been exposed to smallpox. In cooperating with City Health Officer Parrish and Thornton T. Munger, secretary of the City club, this action was decided on by the school board Thursday.

The extent to which the board has jurisdiction over compulsory vaccination was investigated by Dr. E. A. Sommer.

"There is no law which gives us the right to force vaccination," said Dr. Sommer, "but we have the right, if children are exposed to smallpox and refuse to be vaccinated, to request them to stay away from school until the danger is passed."

A motion by Dr. Sommer, unanimously passed by the board, was, in effect, that the board would comply with the rules and regulations set down by the state, county and city boards of health by keeping children away from school who refuse vaccination. It was agreed that in future doctors and nurses will be sent to the schools to vaccinate applicants.

RELIGION BOBS UP
The question of employing graduates of Roman Catholic normal schools started a hot argument, when the names of 18 new teachers were put before the board for election. Director George B. Thomas objected in the case of Josephine Shaw, now attending the Holy Names Normal school, near Oswego, stating that the question has been called to his attention frequently.

Firmly expressing his opinion on the subject, he said "those are my views, and I am glad to have this opportunity to voice them." Professor A. C. Newell said he believed elections should depend on efficiency only, which seemed to be the sentiment of Chairman O. M. Plummer and other members of the board. Dr. Sommer said that he had personally investigated a rumor that 50 per cent of Portland teachers were Catholic and he found that actually less than 8 1/2 per cent were of that faith.

With only one vote in opposition to her election, Miss Shaw was elected. The other teachers were accepted by unanimous vote.

PROUD OF MISS GARRISON
That the attainment of Miss Margaret Garrison in winning the national prize in oratory might become school history, Superintendent Grout suggested that the board provide a tablet or other memorial to be placed in Franklin high school as a memento. Provision was made by the board for a suitable memorial. Superintendent Grout appointed E. F. Stuart supervisor of operation at a salary of $250 per month. It was recommended that Stuart select the personnel under his supervision. Grout's recommendations were approved by the board. Principals were transferred as follows: A. F. Herdinger from Lents to Creston, B. H. Huggison from Holladay to Lents, J. O. Hall from Creston to Holladay.

Resignations were received from Camille F. Allen, A. F. Bittner, Agatha Grondahl, Alice V. Joyce and Blanch Mickey.

The following grade teachers were elected to refill vacancies and replace substitutes now teaching:

Elementary—Ethel Cobb Brown, Vivian Gorman, Jennie Hunter, Mrs. Mabel E. O'Dell, Ida Olson, Thora A. Paulson, Norma Reid, Emily R. Spoth, Letta M. Tyrrier, Lillie A. Walters, D. J. Williams, principal east school; Alice A. Armstrong, Florence H. Dawson, Sarah Harely, Clara Winslow Landon, Cella C. Landon, Josephine Shaw, Frances C. Toney.

Elections for secondary schools are as follows: Benson, Polytechnic—C. J. Allen, Electric shop; Robertson Cook, science; Gless A. Mesing, machine shop; Beale Ruth Smith, English. High School of Commerce—Agnes Frances Newell, English; Sylvia Wheeler, typewriting. Jefferson—Mary E. Elder, English; Sarah Ruby, promoted to head of mathematics department.

Lincoln—Ada C. McCown, pedagogy.

Y. M. C. A. Launches Vast Occupational Readjustment Plan

Announcement was made today of a plan, national in scope and to be applied in Portland at once, whereby the Y. M. C. A. will give counsel and advice as to occupational readjustment, also obtaining positions for former service men of the United States and its allies without a cent of cost to them.

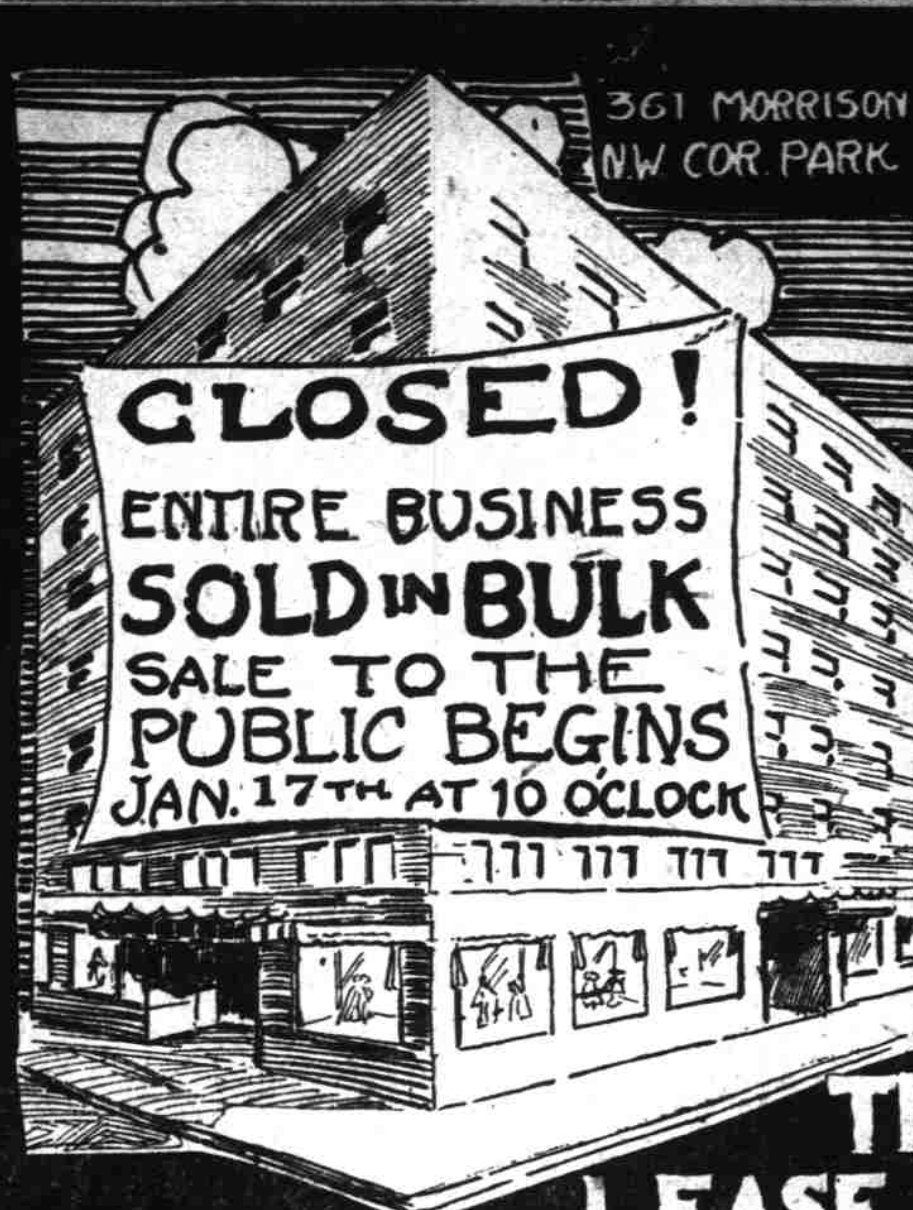

Raymond Van Valin, secretary in charge of the department of employment and occupational readjustment for the Portland Y. M. C. A., will have general direction of the work, with the cooperation of the national war work council. General Secretary H. W. Stone is also head of the educational council of the association and had a big place in bringing about the action which will mean so much to those who gave their services during the world war.

In making the announcement, Van Valin explained that large numbers of young men who went to war, in this country and others, have returned without being properly placed. Many, he declares, are without anything like adequate employment, and it is to render prompt assistance, both in determining what they should do in life and in placing them, that the Y. M. C. A. has decided upon this plan.

Occupational self analysis blanks have been provided to assist applicants compile such data as will help individually. This is to be strictly confidential.

Aliens Waste Bids On Municipal Work

Bids entered by alien contractors in competition with Americans for city work will be rejected, entirely said Commissioner Barbur this morning, in outlining his new plan of recognizing Americans only in handling city construction. Contractors who secure city work must likewise employ American laborers, according to Barbur's program.

THE NEW OWNERS BOUGHT OUTRIGHT THE LEASE AND FIXTURES AND THE ENTIRE STOCK
WE PAID FOR THE STOCK 55¢ ON THE DOLLAR

From the standpoint of prominence of this store we believe this is one of the greatest deals in business changes recorded in Portland's history. The new owners have determined to sell the stock now on hand for whatever cash it will bring.

The Lease Was Secured at the Old Rental

The beautiful fixtures and equipment were lumped off at a very low figure, and for this fine stock of apparel we paid exactly 55c on the dollar of invoice price and not a cent for freight or express. If we had secured only the cases and fixtures for the cash paid, including the stock, we would even then have good value for our money. That means we could give the stock away and still feel that we had made a good bargain.

Therefore
the entire stock is going on sale to the public at such terribly low prices that they will Sound Like a Song

The United Apparel Shop And What It Stood For!

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY
This store when originally opened was created by a company of capitalists for the purpose of conducting a refined high-grade shop for women. Local as well as outside capital was interested in the venture. No expense was spared in equipping the store with the result that when completed it was the admiration of all Portland. The stocks selected for merchandising the store were secured from the most reliable and strictly first-class fashionable designers. The management was placed in expert competent hands for the purpose of running a strictly high-class institution. It was not opened for a day or a year, but for the long future. It was established for the purpose of building a solid business that would add to its power as the years went by. And so it was maintained on clean-cut legitimate lines, always catering to the good trade and selling merchandise of the better kind at full value to the purchaser. It is a generally known fact that a price here was a price. Not one dollar could be deducted from the price, no matter how large the purchase. No one can question the integrity and good name of this store. With all things considered, that is why we consider this event so remarkable and such a wonderful opportunity to the public.

The Stock

To those who are not familiar with this store it is necessary that we say a few words. The foregoing statement as to what this store stood for should really give one an idea as to the character of the merchandise carried here. Every suit, every coat, every dress is strictly first class. The merchandise is practically all the newest modes. It would take too much space to describe all the different names of all the qualities. Suffice to say that you will find here the best in silks, satins and tricolettes; the best in serges, poplins and velours as well as poiret twill. Sizes for misses, little women, regular sizes and sizes for stout up to 50 and over. Garments of beautiful fabrics and most exquisite styles. And all this high-grade stock is to be actually sacrificed and sacrificed quick. And because the new owners are already making arrangements for complete new stocks, it is necessary that every garment now on hand must be sold and no time lost.

Extensive and large arrangements have been made to sell out the stock quick. A large force of extra salespeople will be on the floor to give everyone attention. The keynote of this event is to wipe out the stock and do it quick.

A Thrift Year

Uncle Sam is saying to all his nephews and nieces "thrift, children, thrift," and to that end has established a National Thrift Week, beginning January 17, the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin.

But without the cooperation of the banks throughout the country Uncle Sam would be almost helpless to spread the message. Any real program of saving must center in the banks, just as the sales of Liberty Bonds did.

The Ladd & Tilton Bank offers its services as an apostle of thrift, and an evangelist of consistent saving, rather than fast and furious spending. Saving is an effective antidote to the extravagance which has produced national unrest.

For threescore years this bank has encouraged thrift in this community, and is lending all its efforts to make 1920 a real Thrift Year for everybody. Let's begin in dead earnest on January 17.
