

WIFE SEES FOR CUSTODY OF HER MINOR CHILDREN

Woman Virtually Accuses Husband of Kidnaping 6-Year-Old Son; Man Is Army Officer.

The legal fight for the recovery of her 6-year-old son, Bernard, has begun by Mrs. Dorothy A. Jones, who asserts that her husband, Lieutenant Alexander A. Jones, virtually kidnaped the child and took him to the east.

The new battle takes the form of an amended complaint for divorce, wherein Mrs. Jones requests the custody of Bernard as well as Dorothy, aged 4, and Madeline, aged 2. With the complaint comes a request from her attorneys, who desire to enter into a stipulation with Jones' counsel which would allow the answer already filed to stand, thus hastening proceedings.

Mrs. Jones is said to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown because of the absence of her son, and her attorneys wish to have the matter settled with all possible speed.

Sensational charges were filed by Lieutenant Jones a few days ago, when he claimed that he arrived in Portland after serving in France for two years, only to find that his wife had been granted a default divorce by Judge Clatsop, without his knowledge. A letter was produced by Mrs. Jones in which the army officer advised her, if she wanted a divorce, to go ahead because he would not stand in the way. With the consent of both sides, however, Presiding Judge McCourt set aside the decree.

It was following the action of Judge McCourt that Jones is said to have departed for the East with Bernard. As he is stationed at an army camp there it is doubtful if he can put in a personal appearance to answer to the suit for divorce, and his testimony will probably be taken by deposition.

In her amended complaint Mrs. Jones charges cruel and inhuman treatment, claiming that Jones failed to support her properly, beat and abused her, never held a position more than three months and often visited a former wife. The taking of the boy is cited as an instance of cruelty. The sum of $15 a month for the support of each child is requested.

3 Alleged Dangerous Reds Arrested; Raid Made by Policemen

Declared by the police to be dangerous radicals, Joseph Thornton, 28; Ed Kimman, 34, and T. R. Speakman, 23, were arrested late Monday night and early this morning. They are charged with violation of the state syndicalism act.

All lived at 54 East Sixteenth street north. Patrolmen Drennen, Parker, Palmly and Meyers raided the place at 11 p. m. and took into custody Thornton and Speakman. Search of their rooms revealed I. W. W. membership cards hidden behind pictures hanging on the wall, it was said.

Kimman, alias Thomas, is said to be the head of the Soldiers' Union and Workmen's council which was recently raided here. He escaped after that raid, the officers say, but has been in town recently. They arrested him early this morning at Second and Burnside streets.

Thornton is an alleged I. W. W. delegate and among his effects was found a radical book, written by hand, it is said. It is believed he feared to have it published because of danger of arrest.

In Speakman's possession was a letter, written from I. W. W. comrades in Seattle.

The items recommended by the chief of United States engineers are mouth of Columbia, $185,000; Columbia and lower Willamette below Portland, $247,000 for new work and $65,000 for maintenance; Clatskanie river, $2500; Willamette and Yamhill above Portland, $45,500; no funds for the locks at Oregon City falls, $125,000; Siletz river, $7000; Situmokawa creek, $1000; Coos bay, $125,000; Coos river, $3000; Yaquina river, $3000; Yaquina river, $140,000; Tillamook and Siuslaw, nothing; Cello and Casado locks, nothing; Columbia river and tributaries between Celilo and mouth of Snake, $27,500; Snake river, $37,000.

RAE IS ACCUSED OF BEING HOUSEKEEPER, DECLARES AMME

Fear of Prosecution Under Mann White-Slave Act Led to Marriage, Witness Tells Court.

Further statements to the effect that the late George Rae had told him, prior to his marriage to his former housekeeper, that he was forced to take that step because he feared she would make trouble for him under the Mann white slave act, was offered before Judge Tazewell this morning by Edmond G. Amme, attorney and relative by marriage to Rae's first wife.

The testimony was introduced in the suit brought by his adopted daughter, Maude Rae Emerson, to break the will left by Rae, in which he gave the largest part of his $100,000 estate to his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Rae, leaving Mrs. Emerson but $10.

Rae and his housekeeper traveled over the United States and Europe previous to their marriage, and it is from these trips that Rae is said to have feared prosecution. Mrs. Rae spent about three days on the stand denying that their relations had ever been improper, or that she forced Rae to marry her.

Rae died February 12, 1918, leaving an estate valued at about $100,000, consisting largely of real estate. The late J. H. Poulson Lumber company, practically the entire estate was left to Mrs. Rae, but a few shares of stock were bequeathed to his nephew, James Rae, and to his daughter, Mrs. Emerson.

Under cross-examination this morning, Amme admitted that in her childhood Maude Rae, adopted daughter of George Rae and Amme, testified, was a constant of the will, had been "rather wild." Mrs. Rae, in the later years of her life, developed extreme nervousness and was finally committed to an asylum.

Maude Rae, Amme testified, was set to a convent at Salem and he saw her there many times while he was serving in the legislature.

It was following Maude Rae's marriage to Amme, that George Rae married his former housekeeper. There was some slight friction between Emerson and Rae over the administration of the estate left by the first Mrs. Rae, according to Amme, but the friction was settled by the fact that George Rae, who made many allowances because of his daughter, and, in the testimony of Amme, it was his first intention to leave the property and entire estate to Maude Rae Emerson.

IRON WORKS WINS IN ACTION

Employee's Test Case Is Non-Suited Under Macey Award.

A decree of non-suit was entered this morning by Circuit Judge Stapleton in the case of A. L. Fifield against the American Marine Iron works. The suit was a test case filed against the company by Fifield, an employe, to recover certain money he claimed due under the Macey award. Nineteen other employes, who claimed $1580 back wages, were represented by Fifield in the test.

The workers contended that during the war the company posted a notice that it would abide by the Macey award. Testimony introduced by the company showed that the poster said "in the event the Macey award was construed to include plants like the American Marine Iron works," which was merely an outfitting plant, it would abide by the Macey award. The notice also stated that outfitting plants were not included in the Macey award.

LEGISLATIVE ORGY TO COST STATE HANDSOME AMOUNT

Sales of the legislative orgy in which the lawmakers of the state engaged last week will cost the taxpayers of Oregon at least $17,000 in direct expenses incident to the session, and this sum may reach $20,000 before all the expenses are finally rounded up. Mileage and per diem of the legislators aggregate $6557.40, with clerk hire for the two houses amounting to $2789.40, and another $2789 to the expense account.

Printing bills and calendars for the session is estimated at a cost of $1000, which is included in the $17,000. The cost of the legislative orgy is already reaching a grand total of $15,800.

Supplies for the session cost approximately $600.

These items, together with the extra janitor service and numerous other expenses incident to the assembling of the lawmakers, already reached a grand total of $15,800.

Investigations instituted by the session, and which will be charged as part of the cost of the legislative orgy, are expected to bring the cost of operating the legislative mill for the six days and nights of the session to $20,000.

OREGON WOOD YARDS AWAIT SETTLEMENTS

Astoria, described the tribulations of that plant from the time war was declared. This differed from many other yards in that it was already building ships and was soon directed to hold itself for government business.

He enumerated the companies by reading a chronological summary of negotiations in connection with the contract for 10 Hough type ships, negotiations which began in 1917 and continued up in November, 1917. Interpersed with promises for sending plans and with amendments of the terms of the contract.

GOVERNMENT REDUCES PRICE

Among the interesting amendments was one reducing the price from the $300,000 bid by the company to $280,000 for each ship, and a demand that a guarantee be furnished by Max H. Houser. These requirements were complied with.

On two motor ships under construction for private account, said Wright, of which a profit of over $150,000 would have been made, the company lost about $140,000 through disorganization caused by the Macey wage scale and other adverse conditions created by the government. While the manager made no mention of labor losses, he has no expectation that it will ever be paid.

Soon the government came along and located the Grant Smith-Porter yard at St. Johns, the manager who made on 30 ships to the McEachern's 10, but where the cost of each ship, he asserted, was $40,000 to $70,000 more. He said it required $75,000 labor to build one ship in his plant, and $1,641 days' labor in the government yard.

FOUNDATION COMPANY CITED

He cited the permission given the Foundation company to build on private account a ship of 1000 tons, because that company was not held down by restrictions that held good in the government plant, which bid so attractively for skilled employes and materials that serious delays occurred.

Later, said Wright, when the McEachern concern was given a contract for 10 Ferris ships he was told by Charles White, manager of the Ferris corporation, that he would have a chance to make something, "and we would have made a profit of $50,000 on each Ferris ship if we had completed them," added the witness.

But the armistice came soon after, with the result that six ships were cancelled, three left on the ways and one restricted to construction of another type.

INDIVIDUAL SETTLEMENTS ASKED

Wright's conclusion was that the case of each yard should be dealt with individually, and some certainty reached that settlement will be made in reasonable time. He has been hanging around Philadelphia since the war, in the committee, trying to secure adjustment, and although settlement for $840,000 was agreed on in October, payment has not yet been made, with expenses for guarding property and overhead running the bill $5000 or $7000 higher every month.

PARKS ANGLE TO ZONING PLAN SCORED BY MAYOR

Realty Board Denied Use of Auditorium for Mere Purpose of One-Sided Attack on System.

Mayor Baker will not allow the realty board the use of The Auditorium for what he terms a "prejudiced meeting in opposition to the zoning ordinance," he announced this morning.

The mayor, however, will permit the board or any other organization use of The Auditorium to discuss the proposed zoning ordinance providing both sides of the question are fairly presented.

Request by the board for The Auditorium, signed by J. W. Crossley, secretary, states that the city administration has supplied the city planning commission with ample funds to carry on its "propaganda" to put over the zoning plan. The secretary said a meeting of all property owners would throw light on the plan of zoning "which few people understand." At this meeting he asked that the city planning commission enlighten a great number of owners on the measure.

"Such a meeting as the Realty board asks for is bound to be prejudiced," said the mayor. "I refuse to grant the building for such a purpose. If both sides are voiced fairly in open meeting I'm for allowing them The Auditorium."

"I favor this whole scheme of zoning. The opposition comes from real estate men who want to swing a few deals. I don't think the council should sit here arbitrarily, as we do at present, and deny a man the right to build as he sees fit because a few property owners object. The plan of zoning legislation is definitely and sanely. If the people are for it, the initiative and referendum are the weapons provided by law."

HOME OWNERSHIP ADDRESSES MADE

Necessity for Many More Homes in Portland Expressed at Meeting of Ad Club at Noon Today.

"Own Your Home Day" is being celebrated in Portland today as a portion of the national thrift week program. The necessity for thousands of additional homes in this city and the feasibility of financing building operations to the profit of the investor and on terms convenient to the home buyer furnished material for an address by H. B. Vay Duzer at the meeting of the Rotary club in the chamber of Commerce dining room at noon.

Home ownership was also discussed at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at 10:30 a. m., and O. H. Skotheim, manager of the "Own Your Home" movement, is scheduled to speak at a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock this evening.

Several schemes for financing home building operations have been outlined under Skotheim's direction and are said to meet with the approval of mortgage and loan companies and building contractors.

Members of the Portland Realty board will attend the meetings at the Chamber of Commerce and at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium and participate in the discussions on home ownership. The regular meeting of the board at the Benson hotel Friday will be devoted largely to the same subject.

Dealers and manufacturers of building materials declare that there will be no advantage to prospective home builders in delaying operations. Prices will not recede from present levels for several years, according to their statements.

Wednesday is designated as "Make Your Will" day in the national thrift week program. Arrangements for a proper observance of the day were completed at a meeting of representatives of banks and trust companies Tuesday afternoon in the directors' room of the Lumbermen's Trust company. W. P. Briggs acted as chairman of the meeting.

The importance of the will as an insurance against wasteful expense in the settlement of estates will be emphasized by speakers at the regular Ad club luncheon in the crystal room of the Benson hotel at noon and at meetings of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. Literature bearing on the subject will be distributed at these meetings and representatives of the trust companies and banks will be present to answer questions.

"Millions of dollars are wasted annually in the United States in the settlement of estates through neglect of property owners to make wills," said Briggs.

Court Fines Jones $75 for Driving His Machine Recklessly

William J. Jones was fined $75 on a charge of reckless driving Monday afternoon by Municipal Judge Roseman. Jones was arrested Saturday night at Eleventh and Stark streets by Patrolman R. A. Pratt, and charged on the police blotter with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

As the evidence the officer had was not considered sufficient, Deputy District Attorney Stader issued a complaint charging reckless driving. Jones was fined $20 on a similar charge, his trouble being at Third and Salmon streets with a machine in charge of Patrolman Stram, chauffeur for Chief Inspector John Clark.

Otto Bethke, arrested on the Terwilliger boulevard at 2:30 a. m. Sunday, pleaded guilty to a reckless-driving charge and was fined $25. Speeding on Division street cost Herbert Fagan $20.

LOCAL REGIMENTS WILL BE FORMED; ARMY PLAN NEW

Radical Changes in System Are Announced in Telegrams Received From Washington.

Radical change in organization of army units was announced today by the Portland army recruiting station on receipt of telegrams from Washington authorizing a great recruiting campaign.

Hereafter, the telegrams declare, regiments will be localized. Thus men from one state or one section of the country may all serve in one unit if they so choose.

Local regiments for Oregon, accordingly, will be the 35th infantry, 37th field artillery, 5th coast artillery, Eighth engineers and Fifteenth cavalry. Washington's units will be the First infantry, the 7th field artillery, 5th coast artillery, Eighth engineers and Fifteenth cavalry.

The regular army not only in theory but in fact a part of the nation and not a thing apart," the adjutant general of the army announces.

Not only will recruits be sought all over the country, but efforts will be made to solidify public opinion favorable to the army. Churches, schools, clubs and other organizations will be asked to help. A big newspaper campaign is also projected.

The recruiting and friendship campaign is now in effect, and will run until March 31.

Five parties of army officers and enlisted men are ready to leave Portland for a canvass of Oregon and Washington towns.

Through army sub-recruiting stations, and through the "flying squadrons," Colonel Stevens, in command of the army recruiting station here, hopes to enlist 743 men.

Y. M. C. A. Interstate Convention Will Be Held at McMinnville

The interstate convention of the Y. M. C. A. for Oregon and Idaho will be held in McMinnville January 30, 31 and February 1, according to an announcement from the office of W. W. Dillon, state secretary, with headquarters in Portland. Backed by the McMinnville Commercial club, the student association invited the convention and after its acceptance the whole community has lined up behind the plan.

Special speakers from other countries and states will include Harry N. Holmes, associate general secretary for England; B. C. Cirac of India national council; Chas. Seaman, George D. McGill and H. O. Stone of California. Others will be present from Oregon and Idaho.

Natural Selection

The publisher of a dog paper exerts every effort to make his publication of interest to dog fanciers. A pharmaceutical journal works for years to earn a great following among druggists. There are special periodicals for threshermen, for undertakers and for theatrical folk.

There are "slick paper" magazines for the socially elect and "news print" papers for the farmers. In every trade, profession, cult or social stratum, there are periodicals seeking to attract unto themselves a following of readers.

The process eventually becomes one of natural selection. "Birds of a feather flock together." If you want to sell sulphuric acid, advertise in a publication bought by fertilizer manufacturers. If you want to sell sheets or soap, food or children's books, to reach the housewife advertise in a woman's magazine. Advertising should parallel natural selection.

Advertising space in the Butterick publications is for sale through accredited advertising agencies.
