CALENDAR

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23

Boxing at Irvington club for members and their guests.
Company H. 162d infantry, dance and card party, East Side Business Men's club.

Junior Members
To Be Guests
At Dance

By Helen H. Hutchison
JUNIOR members of Laurelhurst club will be entertained at a dancing party at the clubhouse Friday evening. The event is most anticipated, as it is one of the few functions of the club social calendar devoted exclusively to the young folk of the community. Special music has been secured. Those in charge of the dance are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conover, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huseman, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kettanhoff.

This evening the regular card party for members will be held at the clubhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kluge will be hosts.

Mrs. W. C. Bristol was hostess for a luncheon at her home on Wednesday honoring Mrs. Orlino Donatello Ronchi of San Francisco, who is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mack for a short time. The luncheon table was centered with orchids and corsage bouquets of violets for each guest. Following the luncheon, the party attended the matinee at the Orpheum. Guests for the occasion included Mrs. James McCracken, Mrs. J. G. Mien, Mrs. Charles McCarger, Mrs. Frederick Morris and Mrs. Ronchi. In the evening the California visitor was entertained as the guest of honor at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Noyes at the Portland hotel. Following the dinner the party witnessed the performance at the Alcazar.

Lieutenant and Mrs. A. D. Struble (Hazel Ralston) left Portland early in the week to make their home in California. Lieutenant Struble has been the guest of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lonner Owen Ralston, for the past month, during which he has been assisted in his duties as a lieutenant in the 162d Infantry. He will be stationed in San Diego, where the former is to be stationed.

Iota Alpha club will give a dancing party at Hibernal hall Friday evening. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Edith Lewis, Amanda Garfield, Lucile O'Hare, Lillian Galtion, Louise Tobin, Cecelia Fisher, Carolyn Royer, Irene O'Hare, Edward Barry, Ray Crete, John Cammarg, William McCoughlin, Harry Bushnell and Gerald Royer.

The Alaska society has but few reservations left for the banquet which will be held Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in the Hotel Imperial. Governor Ben W. Olcott, a former sordough, will be one of the speakers. An interesting program has been arranged. Ross Fargo will sing. Mrs. E. E. Morgan, Marshall 322, will make reservations for those wishing to attend.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Andrus entertained at bridge this afternoon in her home at Alcazar. court. Additional guests called at the tea hour, making a company of more than 40 friends of the hostess. Mrs. Andrus was assisted in receiving by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. A. Andrus, and by her niece, Miss Lucia Morris.

Orpheum temple, Pythian Sisters No. 13, will hold its regular meeting at the new quarters in Knights of Pythias temple, Yamhill and West Park streets, today, for the installation of Governor. All Pythian Sisters are requested to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davies were dinner guests at the Benson hotel Tuesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. John W. White of Spokane, who were in the city on their way to California to spend the remaining winter months.

Mrs. M. M. Carrner of Seattle and her niece, Mrs. Walter L. Lovejoy of Hoquiam, Wash., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thompson at 329 East Eleventh street. Mrs. Lovejoy will return to her home at Hoquiam this week.

One of the visits planned by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ross and two children of Dayton, Wash., on their first trip to Portland was to the Journal plant. The Ross family is in the city for a few days.

The annual meeting and reunion of former Albany folk will be held in Central library Friday evening. The program will be given by all former residents of Albany are urged to be present.

Clan Macleay will celebrate Burns' anniversary in Masonic temple Friday evening with a concert and dance. Last year's concert was such a success that every effort has been made to bring

LEO CARRILLO, character actor, who comes to the Heilig this evening for a return engagement in his comedy-drama success, "Lombardi, Ltd."

This year's entertainment up to that standard. The following have been engaged for quartet and solo selections: Mrs. Eloise Hall Cook, soprano; Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller, contralto; J. MacMillan Muir, tenor, and Stuart McGuire, baritone. These singers will provide a rare treat to lovers of Scottish songs. Miss Helen Harper, violinist, has secured a new arrangement of old favorites and will give the first public rendition of them before the Portland audience. Pipe Major J. H. MacDonald is billed for bagpipe selections and also to "pipe," while the Mathie sisters and Messrs. Dave Gray and W. Purvis give Highland dancing numbers. John Webster, singer of humorous Scotch songs, will fill out a well balanced program. A dance will follow the concert.

Company H, 162d infantry auxiliary, will give a dance and card party Saturday night at the East Side Business Men's club, Grand avenue and East 4th. The program will be furnished by Darby's orchestra. Prizes will be given to winners at cards. All tickets distributed for the dance, December 13, will be accepted. Veterans of Company H on the committee include Ray Hagerman, Everett Brown, Dusey Stennett, Milton Prink, Al Kleese, Ralph Dahl. The patronesses will be: Mrs. I. McMahon, Mrs. G. Grooms, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. E. Ayes, Mrs. J. B. Gilbert, Mrs. E. J. Steele.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Alvord have returned to the city, after spending several weeks in California.

"TINKER BOB" STORIES

BY CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

An Agreement With Tinker Bob
TINKER BOB noticed that Pika was nervous and excited and ventured to ask why. "What makes you so nervous when Mr. Weasel the Great is near?"

"Oh," said Pika the Cony Hare, "I would much rather be caught in the Hunter's trap than be caught by that fellow. He likes to torture all those he captures and they die by inches."

"Did I ever hurt you, little Pika?" asked Mr. Weasel. "You better wait till you are hurt before you tell of the things I do."

Mr. Weasel couldn't understand why anyone would tell such things about him unless they themselves had been harmed. But really the way Pika did to judge others by the things they hear about them. And then there is a boldness that seems to surround some that speaks for itself, and it was this kind of an atmosphere that Pika had.

"The reason you never get me is because I'm too shy for you, and you can't find me," Pika replied.

"I'll bet I can find you any time I want to," said Mr. Weasel.

"You keep barking up all the time and anybody would find you."

"I have heard what you said," said Tinker Bob. "Now I tell you what he will do. Tomorrow Pika will go to his usual hiding place, and if you can find him, I as King of the Forest will allow you full privilege to kill any forest dweller you find in your path. But if you cannot find him, then you must forever cease to disturb the forest dwellers. Will you accept this offer?"

Mr. Weasel hesitated a moment and then said: "If I find him, you will take that saucy Wild Cat off my track, will you?"

"Yes," replied Tinker. "Snoopy will not follow you any longer if you are able to find Pika."

"But I suppose," said Mr. Weasel, "times because the walls of their arteries and veins are so much thicker than the average that the color of the blood does not show through. There are also many persons who have so much blood in their system all the time, and the walls of whose arteries are so thin, that they look at all times as though they might be blushing."

That rather than ask help of those who are paid to give it, some persons wander aimlessly about in the public library for hours finding what they want.

That it's interesting to study the deep affection for each other of two little Chinese, a boy and a girl, who ride the R. C. P. car to Burnside and Fifth every morning.

That they are probably brother and sister.

That the laddie is slightly crippled.

That he doesn't seem to mind it.

Oh Man, Oh Man!
Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 22.—(U. P.)—Stroller—Dear Sir: You surely handed us a knockout blow when we read that the little cutie "dark eyes" was married; however, that does not prevent us from naming her the loveliest and the dearest little darling alive.

She won't remember, but she was imprudent in letting me tell you by her sweet inspiring words one morning when I was soliciting for a magazine. I hope you will publish this, so she can read and know one face will carry her sweet image till he dies. Very respectfully yours, R. D. JR.

Dear Stroller: When on a street car en route to town, I often wonder "where is the Stroller?" I think he probably never rides street cars or he would notice that when people board the cars they come in by twos and threes and fours, and expect all to slide along. It all reminds me of a game of 10 pins—one fall, all down. PEGGIE A.

Oh, yes, we ride 'em, Peggie, but usually we take the rear-end and stick out in the fresh air rather than inhale the stuffiness inside. We find that we're more peppy when we get to the office, and that we're better appetite when we get home for dinner. The little lady who butters our hot cakes has the habit, too, so that some night when you see a merry couple traveling the back platform when there's plenty of room inside, and you size them up as being a little bit "queer"—that's us. T. S.

THE REASON WHY
Why Do I Turn White When Scared?

Simply because, when you are scared or frightened, the blood almost leaves your face entirely. Under normal conditions, the red blood which is flowing through the arteries of your face gives the face a reddish tinge, and your face becomes white when you are frightened, because then the blood leaves the face. It is quite singular, but when you are really frightened, whatever the cause may be, the human system receives such a shock that the heart just about stops beating altogether. When your heart stops beating of course the flow of the blood from the heart stops, and then there is no supply of fresh red blood coming through the arteries under the skin of your face. Therefore you look white—the color your face would be if no blood ever flowed through your arteries and veins. Some persons have faces so white they look as though they were scared all the time. This is not because they have no blood flowing through the veins and arteries in their faces, but because their supply of blood is less than other persons, and some-

"I'll bet I can find you any time I want to," said Mr. Weasel.

"You will keep the barking Cony quiet all day long."

"No," said Tinker, "Pika will bark as usual so you can hear him."

"Well, tell me where his hiding place is. I suppose it will be some place where I cannot go or where no one else can go."

"No, indeed, Pika the Cony Hare lives far up on the side of the mountain among the great rocks where there is little or no underbrush and where he can be easily found."

"All right, I'll be there at daylight and Pika the Cony will be dead before the sun gets very far in the sky. And then look out—these fellows that have been trying to drive me from the forest will be next to suffer."

Pika the Cony Hare was somewhat startled at this statement, but he still had much more confidence in the King.

Tomorrow—the King Sends Out the Call.

Anniversary of Sisterhood
Observed

By Vella Winner

THE founding of the P. E. O. Sisterhood was fittingly celebrated Wednesday when Portland's six chapters and representatives from nine of the chapters in nearby cities, gathered for a luncheon in the Tyrolean room of the Hotel Benson. The out-of-town chapters participating in this happy affair were Oregon City, Salem, Woodburn, Lebanon, Newberg, Clatskanie, The Dalles, La Grande and Forest Grove and there were also present visiting members from Nebraska, Kansas, Illinois, Missouri, Utah, California and Washington. Covers were placed for 165 and the tables were decorated in yellow and white flowers, colors of the Sisterhood. Mrs. A. M. Odell, Oregon state president, originator of the founder's day luncheon committee and a rising vote of thanks was given her for the splendid way in which the affair was managed.

Mrs. Wilfrid P. Jones presided. Miss Loretta Davis of Albany, vocalist, and Miss Jean McKecher of Portland, pianist, gave musical numbers. Lynette A. Henderson read letters from three of the founders of the Sisterhood, Mrs. Louella Pearson Penfield, Mrs. Mary Allen Clifford and Mrs. L. A. Bird. All of whom live in the Middle West. Mrs. Emma L. McCaw and Mrs. Mary Duffield gave personal impressions of the supreme convention of the Sisterhood held in Denver last year. Mrs. Odell gave an epitome of the address on "Ambitions for the P. E. O. of Oregon," which she gave at the supreme convention. The organization, which is the outgrowth of a college sorority, has for its major work the assisting of worthy girls to secure a higher education by means of a scholarship loan fund and this fund now amounts to $100,000 and there was recently raised an endowment of $3000 to supplement the fund.

Following the luncheon the guests enjoyed an hour of sociability in the rose room.

The Portland Women's club will meet Friday in the Multnomah hotel ballroom. A business meeting is to be open at 2 o'clock. Beginning at 3 o'clock a program will be rendered. Eloise Anita Cook will render the aria "Brahma Divine," by Georges Bizet, accompanied by Mrs. Mische Peiz. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Frances Isom. Additional guests will be: Mrs. C. B. Simmons, Mrs. Walter Davis, Mrs. Esther Allen Jones, Mrs. G. J. Frankel, Mrs. Norman Christie, Mrs. Edna Knight Hill, Miss Vella Winner, Mrs. Frances Whitehead, Mrs. Frederick Eggett, Mrs. Sarah Evans and Mrs. Charles E. Runyon.

The Treble Singers, the Grade Teachers' association chorus, will furnish music at the lectures to be given Saturday afternoon and evening by William L. Finley on "Birds." The lectures will be given at 2:30 and at 8 p. m. at the Lincoln high school.

Mrs. Mildred Kyle, former president of the Portland Psychology club, is giving a series of lectures on "The Mystic Christ" at the Public Library Tuesday and Friday evening at 8 o'clock in room 4. All friends are invited to attend.

The regular all day meeting of the Red Cross unit of the First Presbyterian church will be held Friday, beginning at 10:30 a. m.
