"TINKER BOB" STORIES BY CARLYSLE H. HOLCOMB

Tinker Bob and the North Wind T WAS a clear cold morning. Tinker Bob was visiting with North Wind. It was indeed interesting to listen to North Wind tell of the wonderful mountains and beautiful valleys of the great Northland from whence he came, That is the home of the reindeer, that for so many years has carried good old Santa Claus from one end of the earth to the other. North Wind told also of those folks who live in snow houses and Whitey the Polar Bear.

"You must have traveled a long way," said Tinker Bob.

"Oh, I travel this way every winter with my friend, Jack Frost. We have a jolly time playing pranks and jokes on the folks that are not expecting us some of the forest dwellers that do not expect us to come until they are ready for winter, and they never seem to be ready, so we come anyway."

"Tell me," said Tinker Bob, "Have you seen Mr. Weasel the Great and Pika the Coney this morning? I am anxious to know whether Mr. Weasel is still blood-thirsty or not."

"I did see them this morning just be-fore the sun came up. Mr. Weasel was Tinker. searching over the mountain side, in the Weasel was after him," he replied. where, looking for Pika. But Pika was not to be found for he had gone down Pika." ventured the King. the mountain side to where there was
