

PICKETING ISSUE IS ARGUED BEFORE PRESIDING JUDGE

Discussion Over Request for Permanent Injunction in Portland Case Draws Much Attention.

The question as to whether picketing is peaceful, and furthermore, whether it is legal, was taken under advisement Saturday by Presiding Judge John McCourt of the circuit court. He announced that he would give out his decision within 10 days.

The question arose from a motion filed by J. R. Greenfield, proprietor of Wright's Sample Shoe shop, and Greenfield's shoe store, in which he asked for a temporary and also a permanent injunction restraining the Central Labor Council and the Retail Clerks' association from picketing his store. The temporary injunction was granted pending the outcome of the hearing.

The chief contention of John W. Kaate, attorney for Greenfield's, was to the effect that there was no such thing as peaceful picketing. Picketing, he maintained, is an attempt to ruin a man's business and to force him to submit to the terms of the union.

Kaate maintained that the trouble was not between Greenfield and his employees, but between Greenfield and the union.

In support of picketing were arrayed attorneys U'Ren, Campbell and Crawford, who represented the Central Labor council and the local union. To suppress picketing would be contrary to the public policy, they declared. They maintained that it was the constitutional right of a group of people to declare their own opinions, and to withhold patronage or persuade others to withhold patronage from any employer, if lawful means were used.

The courtroom was packed each day of the argument.

COUNTER CLAIM IS FILED

Defendant Denies Contract; Claims Advertisement Damaged His Business.

Denying that the advertisement in which he has been sued is valid, and alleging that he did not authorize the advertisement, L. Schaar, dry cleaner, goes a step further in answering the suit of A. E. Kern & Co., publishers, by alleging in his counter-claim that the plaintiff has damaged his business to the extent of $300.

The plaintiff, under whose auspices the German newspaper Nachrichten is published, filed suit to collect on a bill for an advertisement which had run 52 weeks.

Divorce Suits Filed

Divorce suits filed Saturday were Letter Klinton vs. William E. Stinson; Olive Klinton vs. Tony Klinton; Henry Mohr vs. Susie B. Mohr.

FOOD VESSEL FOR ARMENIA LAUNCHED

usual speed, it is declared, but the builders are determined to assist in every way the quick relief of the starving Armenians.

TO LOAD PORTLAND FLOUR

Turned over to the Emergency Fleet corporation, a million dollar cargo, composed principally of Portland flour, will be loaded here. It is hoped to clear the Bearport for the Orient by February 20.

This will be the first relief cargo ever sent to the Near East from the Pacific coast, and one of the first to go from America to the new republic. Dedication and loading of the Bearport is regarded as almost an epoch by the Armenians. So that the starting in the oldest Christian nation may know that America is hurrying, Mrs. Lamson on Saturday dispatched a cablegram to her countryfolk telling of the launching here.

She was born in Armenia and is named for that country's first queen, but is overjoyed at formation of the new republic. She spoke Friday in Roseburg and arrived in Portland only a couple of hours before the launching was scheduled. After a dinner at the Benson hotel Saturday night, she left for California, where she will drive home to Near East workers the necessity of quick action to help her native country.

EDUCATED IN AMERICA

She was educated at Johns Hopkins university in Baltimore and is practicing physician in Seattle. Her husband also is a physician.

Young Cartozian was picturesque in the simple costume he wears on his long flight to America. Although he has been here for a couple of weeks, the greatness and generosity of the United States are still almost beyond his belief.

He speaks practically no English so far, but there were few more proud than he at the Bearport's dedication. He was told to wear his costume just as it was when he arrived here. But he could not refrain from washing Portland Boy Scouts met at 10 a. m. in front of the Unitarian church, headquarters for the Portland Near East relief committee, and went by motor truck to Vancouver. Their presence was to honor the courageous Cartozian, who himself is a Boy Scout.

Six sightseeing buses and four army trucks loaned by the commandant of Vancouver barracks, transported the young Americans.

They waved American flags and carried banners bearing the relief com-

The launching ceremonies were arranged by Samuel C. Lancaster, famous engineer, who built the Columbia River highway, and now acting as chairman of Near East relief committee here. He announces that although the government is buying the cargo his committee is paying stevedoring charges, insurance and administration expenses.

Timber Receipts in Forest Service Past Six Months Doubled

Timber receipts of the forest service for the six months ending December 31 total $228,988.32, against $197,416.42 for the same period the previous year. The greatest amount came from timber sales, which netted $215,982.70, and other items accrued from trespass, water power, special uses and grazing.

The Whitman national forest led in receipts with $46,084.22, followed by the Tongass with $44,109.84 and the Crater with $27,942. Three other forests whose receipts are in excess of $10,000 were the Columbia, Olympic and Oregon.

Individuals Must Mind Obligations On Income Taxes

Although Milton A. Miller, collector of internal revenue, seeks to reach every person subject to the income tax, responsibility rests with the taxpayer as to whether or not he has complied with the law.

Because an income tax representative does not call on you, you are not freed from responsibility for negligence, Miller warns.

Greaves were indicted in connection with alleged violations of the Harrison drug law, by a federal grand jury here today.

NEW LIBERTY TEMPLE IN SOUTH PARK AREA IS SCHEME OF LEGION

Veterans Propose Half Million-Dollar Structure, Should City Sell Land.

A handsome Liberty temple, built of white marble and characterized by dipteral columnation, will adorn the block bounded by Salmon, Park, Main and West Park streets, if plans of the American Legion are carried out. The proposed temple would house an auditorium with a seating capacity of 1000 people and would cost approximately $500,000.

Title to the Park blocks is being examined by the city attorney to ascertain if there be any legal objection to using the property for building purposes. A committee of the Legion was appointed at a recent meeting to investigate the feasibility of building a temple and will report at the meeting of the order Monday night.

There are approximately 8000 Legion men in Portland and the number is steadily being augmented. However, an auditorium, seating 1000 persons would accommodate the usual attendance. The central location of the temple would make it a popular gathering place for public meetings not of sufficient magnitude to fill The Auditorium, Legion men assert. Plans for the proposed structure are being prepared by Houghtaling & Dougan.
