Miss Honeyman Becomes Bride Of A.T.Brown

MISS HELEN HONEYMAN became of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Honeyman, on St. Clair street. The service was read in the living room, was handsomely decked with spring blossems, roses predominating throughout the entire house. Dr. A. A. Morrison officiated. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller sang a group of songs, a stringed orchestra urnishing the bridal music.

The bride was gowned in smart mode in heavy ivory toned satin made bouffant with handsomely embroidered tulle. The girdle for the gown fell in graceful lines from the waist, the ends forming a train which was lined with silver and edged with dainty lace, and em-broidered with beaded flowers. The wedding veil was held in place by a coronet of lace. The bridal bouquet was of orchids and roses.

Miss Nadine Caswell as maid of honor

Reviewers Like 'Pollyanna' Film

The National Board of Review of Mo-tion Pictures was so enthusiastic over Mary Pickford's newest production, "Pol-lyanna," now showing at the Peoples, that it issued a special report on the sicture in which it not only gives it the highest possible rating, but in addition declares it to be the best picture that Miss Pickford has ever made. "Miss Pickford never did anything better," is the special comment of the board of

Registration of Baby's Birth Should Be Promptly Made

In most states the attending physician or midwife is required by law to report the birth to the proper authority, who will see that the child's name, the date of his birth, and other particulars are made a matter of public record. In Oregon there is a law requiring that the registration of births be made by the amending physician within 10 days. Birth registration may be of the greatest importance when the child is older, and parents should make sure that this duty is not neglected.

Music Is Feature On the Rivoli Bill

Character work of an emotional type such as has been portrayed on the screen only by such few stars of the same magnitude as Nazimova, Lillian Gish and Petrova, distinguishes Marle Doro in "Twelve-Ten," the photoplay now showing at the Rivoli theatre. "Twelve-Ten"—its name is derived from the hour at which the plot, surcharged with mystery and suspense, reaches its climax-is a detective story well filmed. This week's music at the Rivoli is particularly noteworthy. A waltz of the Viennese type—"Woman's Love and Life." by F. Blon-is the first concert number, while Sarasate's gypsy melodies, "Zigeunerweisen," with violin obligato, is the second selection. William Arensen plays the obligato with rare understanding and masterly technique. The program as a whole shows the strength of its conductor, Mischa
