

RELIGION ALMOST CAUSES FIGHT AT SCHOOL MEETING

Director Thomas' Remark About Catholic Church Brings Warm Retort From Thomas G. Ryan.

Personal violence to Director George B. Thomas was prevented Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting of the school board...

Accusing Thomas of violating the constitution of the United States and of Oregon, of wilfully disregarding established law and order...

Repeated outbursts on the part of both Thomas and the delegation were quelled by Chairman Sommer during the reading of the petition and the scene that ensued...

"As a woman, an American citizen and a taxpayer," continued Mrs. Banghart, upon finishing reading the petition...

"That is good," laughed Thomas. Ryan jumped to his feet. "I expect that of a man who is so notoriously disqualified..."

"Thomas jumped up. 'Just a minute,' he shouted. 'I object to this sort of abuse. I have done what I thought my duty and I...'"

"There must be no personalities," declared Sommer. "I only want to state I resent Mr. Thomas' attitude in sneering at a lady..."

"I would ask you, Mr. Thomas, to behave yourself," warned Ryan, starting forward in a threatening attitude.

"This seems to be getting personal," remarked Director Orton. Other directors moved that the matter be postponed.

"You people who object to what I have done," he said, "have recourse to the recall and I should like you to put it on tomorrow. The sooner the better it will be for you..."

"I am all very well to talk about the recall," he said, "but regarding the attitude of every citizen and taxpayer of this district has a right to criticize the acts of every public official of this state, and if upon a closer scrutiny, he finds anything wrong, then he has a right to come in and state his reason for so feeling and demand that such errors be corrected..."

"What do you mean by that? The tea I am using costs much less than Schilling's."

By the pound, yes. By the cup, no. Schilling's makes a lot more cups to the pound. It is actually cheaper.

Don't believe it? Your grocer pays your money back if you don't find it so.

on any board who states openly that he is going to discriminate against certain classes.

"I am not here as a Roman Catholic, I am not representing any class or sect or creed. I have been a public officer and in carrying out my duties I have been guided by a solemn oath to support the constitution of the United States and the state of Oregon, and I know that an officer who has given vent to a public statement that would discriminate against and oppose the employment of any woman or man who happened to be a Roman Catholic, and feeling that a Roman Catholic should have the same rights and privileges as any citizen, as an American citizen I desire to protest against Thomas' action. It is a violation of the constitution."

FATHER DALY SPEAKS Father Daly spoke. He told of the patriotic part that Catholics had taken in the war, of the lives they had laid down on the battlefields, and maintained that the acts of Thomas at this time alienating a certain group from public service were as bad as those of Bird, who had got 20 years in the penitentiary. He told of the mothers, the sisters and wives of the Catholic boys who had died for their country, and said that as would cause to bow their heads in shame by being barred from public service because of their belief in Catholicism. He told how he had been approached by Thomas before the latter's election to the board, how he had given his vote on the promise of a square deal. He declared that at this time Thomas could only get the votes of the "Reds," who were also opposed to law and order.

"Does any other gentleman of the cloth desire to speak?" asked Thomas. Father Waitt arose. "I was much surprised to hear the statement made by Thomas," he said. "It is surely a violation of the constitution. He says he is going to apply the religious test from now on, whereas the constitution says it cannot be done."

Waitt told how his ancestors had all served in the wars of the United States. He spoke of the loyalty of the Catholics during the war. "We all love this country and we shall do all we can for it, but especially at this time our constitution must be lived up to, and everything that is said contrary to it is un-American."

Thomas slowly rose to his feet and folded his arms. "Abuse of those who do not believe as the Catholic people is their long suit," he said. "I have got letters with considerable more abuse than was stirred up today. I listened patiently until Mr. Ryan started his personal abuse. I am not surprised. The Catholic church does not believe in our schools."

"They don't send their children to us. You would rather your children go to your own schools, and I want to say, Father Daly, that you never talked to me in Hibernia hall, and you never in your life was approached by me in my square deal. I never asked a soul, let alone a Catholic priest, to vote for me. You can laugh and believe it if you want to, but if you prove that I did, I will resign, but you have got to prove it. You can't. And I want to say positively that from now on I am going to do as I did, and lying is the long suit of your church."

Ryan rushed toward Thomas on one side. Father Daly rushed up on the other. "You shut up," shouted Ryan. "You wind bag! I have heard your sneering at women. You are not going to get by with this."

Violence was prevented by other members of the board, and the matter was postponed.

"The Catholic church is not opposed to the public schools," explained Ryan upon leaving, "and we are only a drop in the bucket in the city of Portland."

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 5.—T. A. McCann of Bend, Or., was unanimously elected president of the Western Pine Manufacturers' association at the fourteenth annual convention of the association. W. C. Pendleton, Feb. 6.—Spokane's lead in seeking a lower rate on transcontinental freight than coast ports will be followed by Pendleton, the board of managers of the Commercial association Thursday decided. If the ThurteLL recommendation in the Columbia river rate case is upheld the inland points will claim lower rates on the same mileage advantage as Portland claimed in winning the rate case fight.

Pendleton has no complaint against the rate to Portland, but would expect a higher rate to Puget sound, where it hopes to benefit on transcontinental shipments. The contention is that the interstate commerce commission cannot consistently uphold the recommendation with regard to Portland's claim for lower charges and turn down Spokane, Pendleton and others of Inland Empire cities.
