PreLenten Days In Society Are Extremely Quiet

By Helen H. Hutchison
In spite of the fact that there are yet ten days of the Lenten period, places of society, the past week seems to have offered little in the way of diversion except from the functions of informal character and one large wedding, that of Miss Helen Honeyman and Arthur Trumbull Brown.

The week opens with the annual meeting of the Portland Art association on Monday afternoon which following the business session each year assumes the form of a social function. Tea will be served in the galleries to members of the organization at 4 o'clock. Those who have been asked to preside at the tea table include Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett, Mrs. Lawrence R. Wheeler and Mrs. Ferdinand C. Smith. Assisting with the serving will be Miss Katherine Mackenzie and Miss Dorothy

MISS NADINE CASWELL

Gilbert, members of the junior guild of the art association.
Miss Helen Honeyman became the bride of Arthur Trumbull Brown Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Honeyman, on St. Clair street. The service was read in the living room, which was handsomely decorated with spring blossoms, roses predominating throughout the entire house. Dr. A. A. Morrison officiated. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Lulu Dahl Miller sang a group of songs, a string orchestra furnishing the music.
The bride was crowned in smart mode in heavy ivory tulle gown with a high collar and long sleeves, and was adorned with a large picture hat of the same tone. The bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Peacock, as bridesmaids, wore frocks of orchid-toned tulle with hats of tulle. The bride attendants carried quaint colonial bouquets of orchids and violets.
Little Barbara Aya was flower bearer and Master Thomas Honeyman Hindman carried the ring. Walter Brown, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The wedding party entered through ribbon-lined aisles, held in place by little Jane Honeyman, a cousin, and William Honeyman, a brother, of the bride.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Honeyman and Mr. and Mrs. Brown, parents of the bride, couple, receiving with them.
Presiding at the supper table were Mrs. Alfred Aya, Mrs. Charles C. Hindman, Mrs. Adolph Neu and Mrs. Nancy Zan Scott. Dancing followed the wedding supper.
Following a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brown will return to Portland and will make their home at Trinity Place apartments.
Miss Florence Johnson, daughter of Edwin C. Johnson, left Portland on Wednesday evening for California, where she will remain during the winter and spring months. Miss Johnson will continue studying with Francis X. Arens in San Diego, Cal.
Mr. and Mrs. William Whitefield, who have been motoring through California since Christmas, are now in San Francisco visiting friends and enjoying California pleasures generally. Mrs. Whitefield was formerly Miss Isabel Hughes of Irvington.

Mrs. James Willett Oliver of Chicago who is a visitor in Portland at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Clarkson of Irvington, has been a much fêted guest during the past week. On Monday the Misses Helen May and Rachel Clark gave a handsomely appointed bridge luncheon in honor of the visitor at their home in Irvington. On Thursday Mrs. Frank Trudo Wilson, who has a country home some miles out of the city, was hostess for a luncheon party in honor of the visitor, eight Portland women motoring out to the Wilson home for the occasion. On Monday Mrs. H. P. Murch will preside over a tea for Mrs. Oliver and on Tuesday Mrs. Charles L. Bos has asked a number of friends in for bridge and to meet her. Mrs. J. P. Booth will be hostess for a bridge party on Wednesday honoring Mrs. Oliver and several other small functions have been planned for her pleasure.

Mrs. H. C. Wortman will be a member of a party of seven sailing from San Francisco, March 20, on the S. S. Korea for the Orient, which will be the first part of a trip around the world. Other members of the party from Portland will be Dr. and Mrs. Harry Huntington Powers, who will also make the entire trip. According to present plans they expect to spend more than a year and a half abroad. The present schedule will find them in Egypt a year from now.

Miss Cornelia Cook left Portland on Thursday evening for Santa Barbara to spend a short time with Mrs. James G. Gaud and Miss Isabella Gaud. Miss Cook will join her mother, Mrs. James W. Cook and Mrs. Mary Scarborough in San Francisco in a fortnight and with them will sail for the Orient to be gone for several months.

Mrs. Thomas H. Williams left Portland on Sunday evening in response to a telegram telling of the illness of her son, Harold Parish Williams who was stricken with influenza recently. Mr. Williams is doing nicely and Mrs. Williams will remain in the East only a short time.

MRS. JAMES WILLETT OLIVER, who is a sister of Mrs. James F. Clarkson of Irvington, and who is a visitor in Portland from Chicago for a short time. Mrs. Oliver is being extensively entertained during her stay here.

Drama League To Give Third Series of Plays

THE third series of one act plays to be produced by the Drama League will be given at the Little Theatre the evening of February 19, under the direction of Miss Gladys Bowen.
"The Campden Wonder," by John Masfield, will be the big play of the evening, and it is a tragedy of Chipping Campden in Gloucestershire, England, based on a legend handed down through the years, which happened in 1662. To carry out the historical significance, it will be costumed as of that period, and the leading role, that of John Perry, will be played by George O'Neil, with Mrs. Richard Case cast as his mother, and Forrest Carter playing the part of his brother.
"The Twelve Pound Look," with Marian Voorhies as Kate and "Gretna Green," will complete the program. Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett and Dr. Ralph Fenton are assisting with lighting and stage settings.

Mrs. H. O. Cartozian entertained informally for Mrs. Armenouhie Tashjian Lamson of Seattle, at a unique luncheon Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Lamson is a native of Armenia, having left the land of her birth when a young girl to enter Johns Hopkins university at Baltimore. She participated in the launching ceremonies at noon Saturday of the new steel ship Boarport, which will carry a cargo of flour to the famine-stricken land of Armenia. Following the launching, the luncheon party drove to a little Armenian restaurant on Burnside street, where a special menu of Armenian dishes was served, followed by Turkish coffee. Mrs. Lamson and Mrs. J. L. Durand of Seattle, who is traveling with her, left Saturday night for California, where Mrs. Lamson will speak for the California campaign. Mrs. Cartozian's guests were Mrs. Lamson, Mrs. Durand, Mrs. Donald Spencer, Mrs. Ralph Tomlinson, Miss Hazel Cartozian and Colonel J. A. Panting of Baker.

The women members of the Portland Hunt club held an open paper chase on Saturday leaving the clubhouse at 3 o'clock. The hares were Frederick Martin and James Lemon. On Friday evening an event of special interest will be the masquerade ride given by the members of the club at the Portland Riding academy. The time is 8 o'clock and all persons participating are expected to appear in costume and masked. On Sunday a cross country ride and breakfast will be a feature of the Hunt club program. The party will leave the clubhouse at 9 o'clock.
