

R. N. STANFIELD SAYS HE'S AFTER U. S. SENATORSHIP

Campaign Is to Be Conducted by Statewide Advisory Committee Under Direction of Neuhausen.

Robert N. Stanfield, who now claims Portland as his legal residence, has made formal announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator at the primary election of May 21.

It has been known for several months that Stanfield was intending to be a candidate, particularly in view of the fact that several months ago he engaged T. B. Neuhausen, who managed the McNary campaign, at which Stanfield was defeated for the nomination in 1918, to take charge of his primary campaign.

In announcing his candidacy, Stanfield contends that it is necessary for a Republican senator to be sent to Washington in order for the state to be able to secure its full share of federal support in the development work that is soon to be undertaken by the national government. He would pay particular

Prize Contest Shows Way To Funds for Good Work

Red Cross, religious, benevolent, charitable, fraternal, and all other organizations are offered a sure and pleasant way to add considerable money to their treasury at no cost to themselves, and all such organizations are invited to enter the race for the prize money.

This $12,000 prize-awarding campaign is now being launched in Portland by the National Promotion company for the two-fold purpose of enriching deserving organizations by the awarding to them of the prizes and of exploiting certain meritorious articles, retailers and firms.

There are no strings tied to this invitation to organizations to win the 104 prizes. The plan, in brief, is this: To the organization obtaining the largest number of votes goes the first grand prize of $1500 in cash. This $1500 is in the hands of the United States National bank and will be given by them to the first prize winner. To the second largest number of votes goes the second prize, and so on down the list of 104 prizes. The smallest prize is $100 cash.

Votes win. The way to get votes are easy and simple. As an illustration: In buying syrup, if you buy "Crimson Rambler" you get your money's worth and the label off the can gets votes. In butter, buy "Hazelwood" and the wrapper gets votes, and so throughout your list of daily necessities.

An alphabetical list on a card shows all ways to get votes. Copies may be obtained at contest office, 487 Washington street, telephone Broadway 1217.

This is Registration Week. A total of 25,000 free votes will be credited to designated organizations for every person who calls at the exposition, 487 Washington street, and writes his name in the registration book.

attention to legislation in the interest of service men, reclamation of arid and logged-off lands, and the expansion of the livestock and mining industries. There is a national educational program which must receive careful consideration, he says, and federal aid for highways is also necessary. He also wants to assist in the expansion of Portland's ocean-borne commerce. He promises, within a few days, to issue a statement setting forth his views on current issues.

It was announced that the Stanfield campaign will be conducted by a "statewide advisory committee" under the direction of Mr. Neuhausen, with headquarters in the Northwestern National bank building.
