

MRS. CATT PUTS ONUS ON SOLONS WHO STOOD OUT

Borah, Wadsworth, Pomerene and Hitchcock Are Charged With Blocking Suffrage Amendment.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—(U. P.)—The enemy of woman suffrage is "a fly sitting on the wheel of progress," imagining he can command it "to revolve no more and that it will obey."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National Suffrage association, said in her opening address at the convention of the organization here today.

Mrs. Catt reviewed the battle for the federal suffrage amendment, citing the difficulties which were overcome in securing its passage by congress and in the present fight for quick ratification by the states.

She attacked Senators Borah of Idaho, Wadsworth of New York, Pomerene of Ohio and Hitchcock of Nebraska as "refusing to represent their states" in the sixty-fifth congress when the amendment failed to pass.

"As the amendment needed but a single vote in the sixty-fifth congress, the responsibility for its failure to pass may be laid on the shoulders of the four," she said.

"They not only put their own states to the expense of extra sessions, but the other states as well."

Mrs. Catt called on suffragists to rally to the support of any governor who may be attacked by their political opponents for bringing the extra expense of special sessions on their respective states.

When a Republican governor calls a special session in order to ratify, he merely atones for the inexplicable conduct of two members of his own party."

Mrs. Catt said "They, not he, are blamable for the fact that the special session became necessary."

"The Democratic governor who calls a special session only makes honorable amends for the misrepresentation by members of his own party."

The executive committee of the suffrage association was to meet early today to vote on the plan to dissolve the organization when the federal amendment is finally ratified.

Little doubt was expressed by members of the council before the meeting that action recommending dissolution of the association and urging members to join the new League of Women Voters would be taken.

Suffragists were jubilant today when they learned that Arizona had ratified the federal amendment. It was the thirty-first state to approve of the amendment. Five more are needed.

UNION IS AIM

Describing the work of the conference Mrs. Catt said:

"In every conference yesterday, the league made it clear that it is not to dissolve any present organization, but to unite all existing organizations of women who believe in its principles. It is not to create antagonism, but to develop cooperation between men and

THOMAS MORGAN GIVES DETAILS IN TESTIMONY

McInerney and one or two others, Morgan replied.

"Were you in the hall at the time of the shooting of Davis?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"By the stove."

"Who came in just before the shooting?"

"Elmer Smith," (the attorney), answered the witness.

Smith said Attorney Smith went to the back of the hall and talked with Britt Smith. The conversation was not overheard.

As the attorney was leaving the hall he stood by the door Morgan declared, and asked Britt Smith if he was sure that he had plenty of men.

"Smith said, 'Yes, sir,'" Morgan added.

Later Britt Smith, the witness continued, went to the front of the hall, pointing out over the street towards the Avalon, the Queen and Arnold rooming houses.

He was then talking to a group of men in the front of the hall, who were Wesley Everest, the man who was lynched; Becker, Mike Sheehan and Loren Roberts. They were grouped about a small table.

SMITH GIVES DIRECTIONS

Smith was telling them to get front rooms in the Avalon, Arnold, the Queen and the Roderick, according to the witness.

The Roderick was in the same building as the I. W. W. hall, but upstairs.

"It's kind of nice for an attorney to come in and tell you to do your duty," Britt Smith said.

Morgan testified, in telling of Britt Smith's visit.

The defendant, Commodore Bland, came into the hall with a rifle wrapped in a black overcoat, the witness said.

Smith was talking to a group of men in the front of the hall, who were Wesley Everest, the man who was lynched; Becker, Mike Sheehan and Loren Roberts. They were grouped about a small table.

EVERETT LOOKS LIKE SLEAZEBAG

Everest looked like a sleazebag to the witness, he said.

Reed Stages Gory "Murder" Students Are Poor Observers

"You owe me money; I want it," shouted August Delch, a Reed college student, as he faced James Hamilton on a stairway at the college Thursday night.

"I haven't the money to pay and can't get it," replied Hamilton, a fellow-student.

Then came a quarrel, which ended with the firing of two shots. Hamilton stumbled down the stairway and into a main room where the Reed Psychology club was holding an evening session.

Dr. Helen Clark, professor of psychology, was reading a paper on "Mystery."

Hamilton, his face streaming with blood, staggered through the room and out again.

"Now," Dr. Clark directed, "will the members of the club please write their impressions of this episode?"

Discovering for the first time that the murder was merely a cleverly staged study in psychology, the students began writing "news stories" of what had happened, while a janitor mopped up the red paint.

Not one of the writers was able to identify either of the participants in the quarrel; some had the wrong person "shot"; some said no shots were fired, some said 10; some said the victim wore a black hat when in fact he wore a light one.

All of which was designed to prove the psychological point that people are extremely poor observers under stress of excitement, and that witnesses in murder trials are not always correct in their impressions.

FIGHT TO STOP SALE OF SHIPS

consider whether to sell the ships or not.

Senator King went to the telephone during the discussion and asked Payne regarding the alleged purpose to sell the fleet for $28,000,000.

PAYNE DENIES REPORT

"Judge Payne assures me," said Kipr, "that there is no such thing as a sale of the fleet in the charge that an agreement has been made with the International Mercantile Marine to sell it the German ships for $28,000,000."

Another urged immediate action on the resolution.

Constitutional prohibition, which makes government-owned passenger vessels dry, was given by Payne as the main reason for the sale of the 29 former German liners.

Government operation of these vessels under such conditions cannot be successful and the ships can be sold to foreign interests at a profit, in the opinion of the board, Payne declared in a letter to Representative Mead, New York, today.

Payne pointed out that the cost of reconditioning 29 of the liners would be $7,000,000, while the bids for these vessels were $2,000,000.

"In view of the present situation," Payne wrote, "it did not seem to us as well justified in incurring so large an expense."

The shipping board chairman denied the vessels would fall into the hands of foreign interests, but said the vessels will be sold only under the condition that they shall remain under the American flag and be sailed in routes indicated by the shipping board.

"This, we believe, will adequately protect the United States," Payne wrote.

New Railway to Run Between Wenatchee and Pasco Proposed

Establishment of direct railroad connections between Portland and the North Central portion of Washington, by the laying of tracks between Wenatchee and Pasco, is being strongly advocated by a special railroad committee of the Wenatchee Commercial club.

The committee has asked that the Portland Chamber of Commerce aid in the plan. At a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber Wednesday afternoon, messages from the Wenatchee club were read and the local chamber's railroad committee was asked to give consideration and aid to the project.

In urging the building of a railroad, the club sends the following message:

"The monetary loss this year in the Wenatchee district, due to inadequate transportation facilities, would build the entire road, which would be 110 miles long and could be surveyed, graded and put in shape for operation for $4,000,000."

The committee on the United States Chamber of Commerce building recommended that the local chamber should pledge $2500 for the national chamber's building in Washington, D. C., and that the balance of Oregon's quota should be raised by two committees working in Portland and the state.

A sub-committee was appointed to the highway scenic protection committee, to serve with the state body. This committee is composed of Wells Gilbert, C. S. Chapman, George Cecil and Miss Marguerite Salamon.
