Questions Sent Out in Advance of Launching Vocational Program Authorized by State Legislature

Salem, Feb. 16.—Preliminary to undertaking the program of vocational rehabilitation authorized by the special session of the state legislature, the state industrial accident commission has been sending to all workmen who have been permanently disabled in industrial accidents in this state a questionnaire in an effort to determine the need for rehabilitation existing among injured workmen coming within the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

Through these questionnaires the commission hopes to determine the present condition of the injured workman, his capacity for earning a livelihood for himself and his dependents and the possibility of aiding him to increase his earning power through special vocational training which will be carried on in cooperation with some of the schools in the state which are equipped for this work.

Frank H. Shepherd, head of the department of industrial education at the Oregon Agricultural college, has been engaged by the commission as vocational director and advisor in charge of the work of the commission and retaining his position with the college to which he will devote the remainder of his time. "It is the intention of the commission to select only those men for vocational rehabilitation under the provisions of this act as give promise of being benefited by retraining," explained Commissioner Will T. Kirk, today.

Arrest Threatening Autoist Who Made Use of Sign Board

Highway signboards are not to be used in place of chains to extricate becalmed automobiles mired in the mud. Deputy District Attorney Tom Maguire made this clear this morning, when he made out a warrant for the arrest of W. M. Jansberg.

Jansberg is charged with injury to a guideboard. His tale of woe in that Sunday afternoon he became stalled in the middle of a huge gob of mud on the Humphrey boulevard. According to H. R. Moy of the roadmaster's department, who happened to be passing at the time, Jansberg hauled down a guideboard and placed it under the rear wheels of his machine. It proved a poor substitute for chains, but worse yet, Moy happened to be a deputy sheriff, and he put in a complaint against Jansberg.

FINAL SUCCESS OF RECLAMATION IS DEEMED SURE

Marked Impression Has Been Made on Congress, Says Idaho Governor in Personal Letter.

Salem, Feb. 16.—Confidence in the ultimate success of the $250,000,000 reclamation program which is now pending before congress, is expressed in a letter received Sunday by Percy A. Cupper, state engineer, from D. W. Davis, governor of Idaho and president of the Western States Reclamation association, which is backing the move for the huge federal appropriation for reclamation work in the 17 Western states affected.

Davis, however, is not overly optimistic as to the attitude of congress toward the reclamation appropriation and urges on all "friends of irrigation in your state the necessity of keeping alive interest in your local irrigation association, so we may have the hearty co-operation of all the great states involved in this irrigation work."

"Our fight will come from the middle western states where they fear competition both in production and in land," Davis declares. "The argument is baseless. We must produce more wheat no matter where it comes from for in three years' time the United States will be importing this grain, a condition which will be an indictment against our intelligence if we fail to develop the wheat and hay lands of the west."

"Let us keep interest up to the limit in this bill and the association," he pleads. "We have great problems and we can meet all of them successfully in time. Let us not spare legitimate expense, nor energy."

Former Governor Spry of Utah has been selected to stay in Washington to keep the association informed as to the progress of the reclamation legislation.

Members of the American Legion are urged by Davis to lend their support to the program also inasmuch as "this is the opening wedge in the soldier settlement plan."
