Fraternal Notes

Multnomah camp, Woodmen of the World, ran a "wide-open" old-time logging town Friday night at its hall at 112 East Sixth street. Every kind of "gambling game" was in play with W. O. W. administrators as an excuse for money. The rooming house of J. O. Wilson became so notorious it was raided by U. S. Marshal Tichenor, and the fines levied by incorruptible Judge Deich were enormous. A newspaper man was fined $1000 for wearing a white collar, but sentence was suspended pending good behavior. The sessions of the court were especially attractive. One man, who said his name was Sorenson, was sentenced to be hanged on the thirty-first day of February. Cold rain in small bottles was on sale. It was declared to be wood alcohol. Everybody had a good time, and then some.

Washington chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Friday afternoon and evening held a double session with dinner in between at 8 o'clock. The chapter is growing as rapidly as the rigid rules of the order allow.

Sellwood lodge, A. F. and A. M., Friday night conferred degrees of Master Mason upon a class of candidates. Refreshments were served following the close of the work.

Hasall lodge, I. O. O. F., Friday night conferred the second degree upon a large class of candidates.

The annual dance and supper of Portland Star homestead, Thursday night at Turn Verein hall, was one of the most successful and interesting social affairs ever given by the homestead.

Columbia legion, Mooseheart Legion of the World, held most interesting meeting Friday night at Moose temple. Joe E. Dunne presided as North Moose. A class of three candidates was given a part of what was coming to them. Refreshments were served in the dining room of the club. The legionaires are expecting to hold a full ceremonial next month. The order is within the Loyal Order of Moose.

The annual mask ball of the Loyal Order of Moose, Wednesday night, was a great success in every way, and the large committee was kept busy looking after the thronging guests.

Kirkpatrick council, Security Benefit association, had a large class initiation and a heap of application cards read by the clerk Friday night at Swiss hall. The council keeps up its old-time vigor and pep.

Society

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McNaught (Alice M. McNaught), formerly of 334 Columbia street, have moved to their new bungalow at 439 East Forty-first street south. Mrs. McNaught is chairman of the music committee for the Old Home week program, beginning March 1 at The Auditorium. She may be reached at Tabor 8343.

Mrs. James W. Cook left Portland for California Tuesday evening to join her daughter, Miss Cornelia Cook, in San Francisco, where they will sail for the Orient.

Albany Likes Show
Albany, Feb. 21.—The Alcazar Stock company gave their initial performance here last evening and were warmly received. The company will appear here in the future on Thursday of each week at the Globe theatre.

Prize Campaign Contest Shows Way to Big Reward

One hundred thousand free votes will be given by the National Promotion company to any church or other organization to start with it nominated by Monday night to compete for the $12,000 prizes offered in their big contest. Nominations are taken and full details gladly given over the phone. Telephone Broadway 1217, ask for Mr. Hanson and go to it, or call at contest headquarters, which are at 487 Washington street. Mr. Hanson will cheerfully tell you all about it.

In a nutshell, the idea is this: The first grand prize of $1,000 cash goes to that organization which has the largest number of votes at the close of the contest. Votes can be given by the method of getting votes is outlined in friends of the competing organizations

In a few minutes that little open space was brown no longer, but white, and in the middle of it was a little white mound.

(Copyright, 1920, by T. W. Burgess)

You'll always find the kindest deed is that which serves another's need.

Once more Peter Rabbit's heart seemed to flop over and then come right up in his mouth. Of course it didn't do anything of the kind, but it seemed as if it did. You see Peter, crouching right in plain sight in the middle of that little open space, had just turned and came trotting straight towards Peter.

Peter had a feeling that this time Reddy would not turn aside as he had before, but would come straight across that little open space. It was all Peter could do not to bolt as fast as his legs could take him. But he didn't. He sat tight, hoping that something would happen. Something did.

Ever since daylight that morning the Merry Little Breezes had been wandering about over the Green Meadows, now green no longer because it was winter. Occasionally there would be a little flurry of snow, but the sky was hidden by snow clouds, and the Merriest Little Breezes would whirl the fine dry little snowflakes this way and that way. It was great fun.

Just as Reddy Fox was almost to the little open place where Peter was a Merry Little Breeze happened along an idle little Breeze, for all morning long it had found nothing to do but play. But here was a chance. The Merry Little Breeze saw Peter's danger and instantly it became an active little Breeze, a very active little Breeze.

It found and rushed up to a little snow cloud, and as the tiny little flakes fell it whisked them around and round Peter so that for a few minutes he couldn't be seen at all. It dashed them into the face of Reddy Fox so that they almost blinded him, and he hastily turned his back to them. Peter and faster fell the tiny snowflakes, and harder and harder the Merry Little Breeze whirled them around and over Peter. In a few minutes that little open space was brown no longer, but white, and in the middle of it was a little white mound.

Rose Coghlan, who was the original "Duchess" when "The Sporting Duchess" was produced in this country more than 20 years ago, has accepted an invitation from Vitagraph to accept a private showing of the screen version of the Drury Lane melodrama before its general release. Alice Joyce appears in the role created by Miss Coghlan.

Child Actress Swims
Josephine Ashdown, aged 11, who plays in the second series of Booth Tarkington comedies, entitled, "Shakespeare's Hamlet," is the champion child distance swimmer of the world. She has won numerous silver cups and medals awarded by various societies for feats in diving and swimming. Her home is in Los Angeles.

Corrine Griffith Snowbound
Corrine Griffith is at Saugerties, many miles up the Hudson river from New York, pretty well snow-bound. She is making the "small town" scenes for her next Vitagraph feature, "The Memento," based on an O. Henry story. As Miss Griffith is from Texas the snow is a novelty and she is having about as much play as work.

Cuticura Talcum is Fragrant and Very Healthful
Sample free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. X, Malden, Mass. Zc. everywhere.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes dandruff, stops hair falling, restores natural color, adds beauty to gray, and adds hair. Sold at 25c. and 50c. at drug stores.

Clubs, Society and Features

Closer Union of College Women Is Advocated

By Vella Winner

The women's annex of the University club was crowded to the doors Friday afternoon on the occasion of the tea given by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae to meet Dr. Ida Moxley MacLean of Cambridge, England, who, with three other British women scholars, is touring this country in the interest of a closer fellowship between the college and university women of the world and the promotion of an international federation of these women.

In her very delightful and illuminating address Dr. MacLean not only showed some of the immediate and very practical things that could be brought about through the federation, such as an interchange of professors, lecturers and students, as well as the establishment of more fellowships, but she made plain the fact that the consolidation of the two and interest of the women who have had educational advantages in one great world-wide movement has possibilities that can scarcely be estimated.

The tea table was graced with a pretty arrangement of golden jonquils and ferns and was presided over by Mrs. Meredith Bailey (Maida Rossier) and Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett. Members of the association assisted in serving. Mrs. Forrest S. Fisher was chairman of the tea committee and introduced the speaker.

Today Dr. MacLean is speaking at room at the luncheon of the Oregon Civic league at the Hotel Benson.

Mrs. Elton J. Steele announces an interesting program for the monthly luncheon of the Portland Woman's Research club to be held Monday at 12 o'clock in the crystal room of the Hotel Benson. Among the speakers will be Dr. W. T. McElveen, Mrs. Helen Miller Senn, Mrs. Alva Lee Stephens and Mrs. Margaret Manns, a national officer of the W. C. T. U. Walter Jenkins will lead a community sing and Mrs. Robert Clark Jr. acting as accompanist. Reservations should be made at once by calling Tabor 791, Tabor 1365 or Main 5576.

A luncheon was given at the Mount Tabor school last Friday, when $38.50 was raised for the Armenians through the combined efforts of the school committee and the teachers and children. The committee consisted of Mrs. George L. Boynton, chairman; Mrs. N. Smith, assistant; and Mrs. C. M. Elkins, mass treasurer. The children donated 60 pounds of beans and other food used for the lunch and the entire proceeds were turned over to the fund. Much credit is due the ladies of the school committee, who redoubled their efforts and worked early and late to make a success of the affair. The noonday hot lunch is a regular feature of the school and has been successfully carried on.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Handicrafts club was held Thursday. The program was on "Thrift." Addresses were given by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Brink and an open discussion followed. Solon by Mrs. C. M. Elkins and Mrs. Larkin were given. A committee was appointed to confer with the city commissioners concerning a clean-up and beautifying campaign. The sum of $24 was subscribed to the annex library committee to purchase new books. Mrs. Brink conducted a parliamentary drill.

The sum of $170 was realized for the women's building fund of the University of Oregon from the presentation of the "Things in Denim" by Mrs. Mabel Holmes Parsons' Saturday morning class in recent feature.

The monthly meeting of the Kerns Parent-Teacher association was held in the school assembly room Tuesday evening. The meeting was largely attended and very enthusiastically received the entertainment furnished by the pupils of Madame Lucie Valair. The entertainment was followed by a dance, which was enjoyed by all. The meeting was especially good. Mrs. Watson, principal of the school, had a very pleasant surprise for the meeting by holding over the art pictures which had been on exhibition in the assembly room all week. Mrs. P. G. Smith, president of the local circle, presided and she was assisted in conducting the meeting by Mrs. William M. Davis, vice president. Mrs. Osman, Mrs. Bitz and several other ladies of the local circle.

Daughters of Isabella will initiate a class of 50 candidates Sunday at the Cathedral hall. After the initiation, a banquet will be served at the Benson Hotel. A program has been arranged by Rev. Father and Rev. Father Thompson will be the principal speakers of the evening.

"Slim Princess" Screened
At last "The Slim Princess" will make her screen debut. The famous play by George Ade and Henry Blossom which set all America laughing for many seasons will be pictured by the Goldwyn company. Mabel Normand is to be the "slim princess."

Rose Coghlan Invited
Rose Coghlan, who was the original "Duchess" when "The Sporting Duchess" was produced in this country more than 20 years ago, has accepted an invitation from Vitagraph to accept a private showing of the screen version of the Drury Lane melodrama before its general release. ### WITH AUTHOR AND PUBLISHER

"The Farmer of Roaring Run" (The Century company, $1.75), is an "outdoor story"—set in the wild woods and on the open farm lands among the hills of Virginia, far from the hubbub of unhealthy, crowded cities. It is full of fun and adventure and is about many different types of interesting characters to be found only in the United States. "Joek" McClure, a wealthy young Philadelphia philanthropist, owns a large farm in Virginia that gives him the dignified title of "a gentleman farmer" and provides a place to which he can send the boys he rescues in the juvenile courts. It is a very expensive luxury and when his manager dies he considers seriously selling the estate. The former manager's young widow—an attractive, capable girl—applies for the position her husband held. "Joek" does not like the idea of a woman running his farm and the thought of her administration adding to the already large deficit. However, he is persuaded to give her the book of a woman running her control of the farm for one year, at the end of which time she must show a profit or resign her position. The two love themes that run through the book are delightful and mystery that engulfs Reddy, the sullen, red-headed farm hand, adds interest and suspense to an absorbing romance.

"Passion Play" To Start Sunday

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—With five successful seasons behind it, America's Passion play, "Veronica's Veil," will enter its sixth tomorrow afternoon at St. Joseph's auditorium, West Hoboken, N. J. The birthday of "The Father of His Country" is looked upon as an auspicious day on which to inaugurate the new season.

Final rehearsals by the two casts came to an end last week and the preliminary season devised for the little ones is now in progress. It has been the practical thought of Father Conrad, P. director of the play, to make improvement year after year. He will never be satisfied until this sacred spectacle is as perfect as human minds can make it, though the perfection he expects from the actors and everybody connected with it is not of the professional kind. Changes are made even in the midst of the season if need be. But, as a rule, the entire Passion play organization is reformed in the fall of each year, fresh and promising talent is tried out, parts are distributed to those best suited for them and some new effort is made to make the stage effects still more effective.

There are several newcomers this year.

Fund Is Started to Help Harold Howell

Medford, Feb. 21.—A movement was started here Friday among a number of citizens to contribute a fund for the defense of 15-year-old Harold Howell of Medford, whose third trial for murder begins there on March 23. Fifty dollars was raised by noon and was sent to the boy's crippled father. Accompanying the money was the following signature: "A bunch of good fellows of Medford who desire to see that your son be given a fair chance in his coming trial."

SCREEN AND STAGE

are given special consideration in The Sunday Journal. The news matter is carefully chosen. The "press agent's" word is not taken for everything. He means all right but he's over-enthusiastic.

THAT east side approach to the bridges are well decorated with red arrows pointing toward the auto show.

That those who believe in signs will have no trouble in finding their way.

That certain sections of the waterfront look quite different since the shacks have been torn out.

That Chinese New Year isn't as much fun as it used to be.

That it always used to be sort of a baby Fourth of July for us when we were a youngster.

That it used to fascinate us to watch the Chinese stick pigs and scald them for their holiday feasts.

That if his soul is strong a fellow can get by all right, even though he may be somewhat run down at the heel.

That some good old-fashioned people still eat mints.

That from the looks of the weather today we're going to have some blisters on our hands by Monday.

Mr. Stroller: We fine your column refreshing, and trust the others will excuse the implied comparison. We love to hear about the "one lady." The "triangle" is so hackneyed and stupid. Keep strolling. M. B. D.

Is the Alredale decorated? "Safe" first. Do not defer him from following to school with Mary's little lamb.

Thank you, M. B. D. We'll keep the vaccination idea in mind, and that reminds us that the last time the doctor came out to give the little ones an anti-flu shot just as a precaution, above the elbow, they both stood up and took it like a couple young soldiers.

Sunshine From "Blue" Mountains
Dear Stroller: Even away up here in the Blue mountains, miles away from your city, The Stroller has admirers. Yes, sir, I have read The Journal for many years, and The Stroller column is the best addition the paper has ever made.

Your notices are read each day with interest, and while The Girl With the Green Eyes gets her share of attention from me, wife says I should be ashamed of myself, and in place of being so much interested in the green-eyed maid, I should with her learn to love the little woman who makes your toast, the kiddies, the dog and everything. And say Stroller, almost feel that wife knows where she speaks, and with your consent I shall hereafter become a greater admirer of the little woman who butters the toast, cares for the kiddies and sees that the dog is fed. So here's to The Stroller. Give us all the home news. We enjoy it. The boss won't kick, that's a mule's job. And some day when I'm in Portland (which, by the way, was once my home), I will look you up, take you to one of those nice lunch counters where we'll nurse up enough to call for all the bread and milk we can eat. Yours very truly,

A WALLOWA COUNTY "STROLLER FAN."

Ye'r on, friend. I've found one place in town where you can almost get your knees under the counter without scraping all the bark off your shins or doubling up like a pretzel.
