Chapeaux
du Jour
For Spring, 1920*$10

—Hats that cleverly reconcile style and beauty with price economy. Straws of the better quality, piping, Visca and porcupine, combined with lovely soft crepes and exquisite trimmings fashion them. In the new shades for spring. No two alike.

—The Chapeau at left is a clever thing of Visca straw with facing and brim covering of soft blue crepe—the brim is embroidered in self shade.

—This one is of pliable piping straw with its saucy Chin Chin brim covered with rose crepe. A wreath of French fruit and flowers encircles it.

—Here's a clever Mitzi style all bound and faced with silk ribbon, and finished cleverly with a wreath of grass and morning glories of a lovely shade.

—This smart turn-back Chapeau has two creases in front by way of variety, brim covered with blue crepe and finished with shiny black wings.
