After Sixth Suit Is Filed IONA DAVIS IS GIVEN DECREE After arguing the case before five different circuit court judges, and filing a twenty-fourth motion, Iona E. Davis was finally granted a decree of divorce from Walter R. Davis by Judge Stapleton today.

Mary Pickford The Davis matrimonial ship was wrecked over a year ago and since then the two have visited practically every circuit court department in Multnomah county. The original suit was dropped a week later, when the difficulties were patched up. Shortly after that the second suit was filed, contested, heard by Judge Morrow and denied. After that failure, Mrs. Davis held her husband before Judge Gatens, claiming that he had annulled her. This was patched up unsatisfactorily, and another suit for divorce was instituted.

TEACHERS STATE TEXTBOOK CHOICE FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

The choice of Portland teachers in the textbooks to be used in the high schools for the next four years, as expressed in the election Thursday afternoon, was announced by the cooperative committees which completed counting the votes at noon today, as follows:

Clives, Reed; commercial geography Brigham; commercial law, Huffcutt; economics, a tie vote; typewriting, Rational; shorthand, Pittman-Howard and English; bookkeeping, Miles & Edwell; English grammar, Kimball; English handbook, Century; elementary composition, Sentence and Thesis; French, New; Charvrelat; Latin, Scott for beginners; Junior Latin, no selection; trigonometry, Wilczynski-Slaughter; algebra, Hawkes, Luby & Touton; algebra book 2, Hawkes, Luby & Touton; mechanical drawing, French & Spang; physiology, Colten Murbach; biology, Greenberg; chemistry, no choice; physics, Black & Davis; ancient history, Robinson & Breaasted; modern and European history, West; advanced composition, Clipping.

Results of grammar school text book selections will not be announced until Saturday. The committee being asked about one third through the tabulation at noon today.

The selection of the books by the teachers does not constitute an adoption, says Superintendent D. A. Grout, but it is the expression of opinion upon which the superintendent will base his recommendation to the school directors, who will officially select the text books to be used. There is little doubt, says Grout, that the books selected by the teachers will be the ones adopted.
