

HAWLEY DIVORCE FINDS AN ECHO IN SUIT FILED HERE

Charging that her husband had obtained an invalid divorce through fraud, had failed to support her and circulated false reports about her, Mrs. Julia Pusey has filed suit for divorce in the Multnomah county circuit court against Henry E. Pusey.

The suit, admitted Henry Westbrook, her attorney, today, was really inspired by the Hawley divorce suit at Oregon City, in which Pusey was a witness. Pusey is an uncle of Willard P. Hawley Jr. and one of the owners of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company.

Pusey, according to the complaint, is worth in the neighborhood of $50,000 and he is supposed to be earning a salary of $500 a month from the paper works. The suit has costs asks $250 a month alimony, with a lump sum of $15,000 for the first five years.

The most unusual feature of the case is that in 1922 Pusey secured a divorce from Mrs. Pusey in California. They were married June 15, 1914, and resided in Oregon City when, on October 1, 1914, Westbrook asserts, the second Mrs. Pusey committed suicide by jumping into the Willamette river.

Following the securing of this divorce, states Westbrook, Pusey went on a trip to Europe and on the return voyage met Gertrude C. Finley, a wealthy and prominent woman of California. They were married June 15, 1914, and resided in Oregon City when, on October 1, 1914, Westbrook asserts, the second Mrs. Pusey committed suicide by jumping into the Willamette river.

WOMEN ARE CHARGED WITH STEALING FROM OREGON CITY HOSPITAL

Oregon City, March 12.—Arrested in Portland, Mrs. Virginia Shindle and Miss Gwendolyn Sherwood have been brought to Oregon City on a charge of larceny of a large quantity of wearing apparel, jewelry and bed linen from nurses in the Oregon City hospital and from the hospital.

The two young women, claiming to be nurses, appeared at the hospital about 10 days ago and, because of the demand for nurses, were given employment.

Miss Ruth Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Elliott of this city, who is training as a nurse, was taken ill and was removed to her home, leaving her wearing apparel in the hospital. Wednesday she sent for her clothing and it was discovered that everything she had left in her room was missing.

DIRECTORS' ROW FEATURES MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

A quarrel Thursday night arose between School Directors George B. Thomas and E. A. Sommer at an adjourned board meeting, after Thomas earlier in the evening had been authorized by the board to go to Washington, D. C., with all expense paid, together with R. C. Hunt, mechanical engineer of the federal board for vocational education.

The expedition was designed to select and purchase machinery from the salvage bureau of the war department for use in the Benson Polytechnic school. Sommer, who was absent at the passage of the motion, objected to the unlimited authority given Thomas, and after a stormy scene succeeded in getting adopted a resolution limiting to $1000 the purchase of machinery.

ST. JOHNS' MORNINGS
For nearly two hours the board listened to petitions of members of the St. Johns Community club for an early selection of a high school site. The committee was headed by H. W. Bonham, who urged immediate action, as the present building is "inadequate, unsafe and of doubtful safety."

CONDITIONS ROTTEN
The school directors individually expressed themselves as agreeing that "conditions in St. Johns are rotten," but that until some money is available for construction purposes they were not in position to discuss a site.

COST OVER $100,000
Director Orton said the portables had cost over $100,000 and weren't portable at all, but had been built for permanent and probably would be on the ground for 20 years.

PRIZE ESSAYS BARRED
Prize essay contests of any sort were barred from the Portland schools on the recommendation of Grout, except by special permission of the board. This action was a direct result of the recent contest on advantages of enlistment in the army and the present anti-tobacco contest being conducted by the W. C. T. U.

WEARPLEDGE BOYS' CLOTHES

A Family Remedy for Building Up a Boy's Appearance, Keeping Down Mother's Mending, Putting a Stop to Sister's Lectures, and Regulating the Heart Action of a Father's Dollar

The Belt Stretches—the Pledge Doesn't

Every WEARPLEDGE Suit is escorted home with a "live" leather belt on the trousers that gives with every move and moves with every motion.

It preserves the correct hanging balance from the hips—reduces the pressure from the waist—keeps the sagging from setting in at the knee—and makes every boy's mouth water on sight.

WEARPLEDGE new Spring Suits are here, and everything else that goes with them. No matter what happens to a WEARPLEDGE garment, the WEARPLEDGE pledge never fails. The Insurance Policy that's found inside the coat pocket protects the wearer. If a WEARPLEDGE goes bad—I'll make it good without red tape or back talk. It's the strongest assurance that ever graced Boys' Clothes since I've been in business, or father, since the Boys' business began.

No. 15 of a Series on "Know Portland and the Northwest"

Water Power Resources A Valuable State Asset

The matter of assured continuous and uninterrupted power service is of vital import to any manufacturer, and is consequently given serious consideration by those seeking to locate under the most favorable conditions.

Oregon and the Pacific Northwest are particularly favored with extensive hydro-power resources.

One-third of the entire water power of the United States lies in the Columbia river basin; Oregon alone possesses a potential horsepower of approximately 3,000,000, of which less than 200,000 H. P. has yet been developed.

The Deschutes, Columbia, Clackamas, Santiam, Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue rivers are all tremendous reservoirs of power waiting to be harnessed.

And the big outstanding fact in connection with them is that these streams are assured of steady flow because their sources are in streams rising in lava rock.

Oregon is eternally rich in her natural assets, and the Ladd & Tilton Bank is ever ready to lend all legitimate assistance to their development.
