

COMPLICATIONS OF DIPLOMACY BIG PEACE HANDICAP

By David Lawrence (Copyright, 1920.) Washington, March 13.—An extraordinary situation in world diplomacy has arisen, which demonstrates to some extent why more progress is not being made in getting the nations of the world back to a real and not a fictitious basis of peace.

The British, French and Italian embassies here have been instructed to consult the government of the United States with reference to the Turkish treaty, the terms of which being unsettled after keeping the near east in political turmoil.

But Ambassador Jusserand has the diplomatic privilege of discussing matters with the head of the United States government and not necessarily the secretary of state.

The question, therefore, is whether Wilson will receive the French ambassador, and perhaps, the charge d'affaires of the British embassy and the new Italian ambassador.

Through the sessions of peace, in Paris, it was evident that a military party, under the most influential leadership, was seeking to gain ascendancy in the councils of France.

This accusation has brought forth a storm of protest from the French press all the way from veiled references to the regrettable ill-health of the president to the inexcusable savage outbursts to the press.

RECALLS GREY LETTER THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT IS REPORTED, HOWEVER, TO HAVE INSTRUCTED AMBASSADOR JUSSERAND TO EXPRESS TO THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT ITS SURPRISE AND AMAZEMENT AT THE PRESIDENT'S REFERENCE TO FRANCE, BUT IN WASHINGTON THIS DOES NOT SEEM TO HAVE BEEN MUCH EXTENDED BECAUSE NOT SO LONG AGO VISCONTI GREY WROTE A LETTER TO THE LONDON TIMES EXPRESSING VIEWS FREELY ABOUT AMERICAN POLITICAL AFFAIRS AND FRANCE HAS SUPPORTED WHO HEARTILY THAT COMMUNICATION AND AFFAIRS IT AS IMMUNE AS DIPLOMATIC IMPROPRIETY BECAUSE IT WAS A PERSONAL AND NOT AN OFFICIAL ACT.

On the other hand, the insinuation of imperialism made by the president is thought to be founded upon his annoyance over the manner in which the so-called "joker" in the peace treaty has been presented to the French military occupation of the left bank of the Rhine. The president entertains the friendliest feelings for Marshal Foch, but the suspicion which has been cast upon the distinguished military genius of France is much more interested in accomplishing the Rhineland for France, a proposition which is openly advocated during the sessions of the peace conference, than he is at present in seeking carried out the letter of the compromise which Mr. Wilson agreed to and which liberals in America criticized him for.

It is partly Mr. Wilson smarting under the criticism of liberal opinion and partly Mr. Wilson seeking to prevent the predictions of those who doubt France's real intentions, which are believed to be back of the reference to France in the Hitchcock letter. It was not inserted as a passing argument, but unquestionably as a solemn warning to Mr. Wilson, who sees in France a rising military party. Frenchmen here say the president is all wrong, that he doesn't understand French politics, and that he is too suspicious. Curiously enough, Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, by his statement deploring Mr. Wilson's reference to France, has encouraged Frenchmen to believe that the Republican leader may yet revert to a position of active friendship for France in the American senate. But to France the true test of the sincerity of either the Democrats or Republicans is the attitude of the United States in their professions of friendship for France, will depend to a large extent upon whether the special French-British-American defensive agreement is ratified.

There are those who think neither Mr. Wilson nor the senate is especially anxious at present to support the agreement, and as for the president, some observers profess to see him retiring some pledge to Premier Clemenceau to support that special treaty, a statement that might be based upon this supposed ascendancy of the militarists in France. So the French government will be anxious to take Mr. Wilson how to approach him, how to express its astonishment over his accusations and yet keep his support for the treaty and consult him on the Turkish situation, lest he threatens again to withdraw America from the domain of international cooperation.

REARMS IN FAVOR OF SMALLPOX ANNEX

Rumors that Commissioners Mann and Pier had joined Commissioner Bigelow in his alleged attempt to prevent the construction of the permanent smallpox hospital at Kelly Butte rock quarry were denied by the three commissioners this morning. However, each expressed a desire to have the city erect a temporary annex to the old smallpox hospital at Kelly Butte if the county commissioners would agree immediately to start work on their permanent structure on Marquam hill.

Providing three members of the city council on Monday afternoon, the ordinance appropriating $30,000 for the permanent smallpox hospital will be a reality within the next few months. Mayor Baker announced this morning. Mayor Baker and Commissioner Barbur have backed the plan of erecting permanent quarters for contagious disease patients for the past two months. They will vote for the ordinance Wednesday. Bigelow, Pier and Mann asserted this morning that they would withhold their decision until further information was forthcoming from county officials.

Officers in charge at the police station made full and detailed report to Mayor Baker of all persons arrested for the past 24 hours. They will report their names either before or after their names are placed on the police blotter, according to instructions issued to Chief Jenkins today.

ATLANTIC SHIPPING DEALERS OF FREE SHIPS FOR WEST

Atlantic coast shipping business is falling off rapidly and a large number of vessels must soon be sent to the Pacific coast for operation, according to a message received this morning by the Chamber of Commerce from W. D. B. Dodson, executive secretary of the organization, who is now in Washington, D. C.

Speaking of the Columbia river trade, Kerr said that any attack upon the present system of parity rates for Northwest terminals was basically wrong and would eventually have a boomerang tendency. He told local business men that if Portland established her contention for lower rates the remaining four will have to come from the Atlantic coast.

Portland officials were confident upon receipt of the message this morning that there would be no delay in getting these vessels into the Pacific for service if the call was slight on the Atlantic coast.

Dodson said that an attempt would be made for immediate allocation of the vessels whether cargo was available or not. He said that local coast shippers are making a great competitive struggle for control of all available vessels.

Seattle Visitors at Astoria Plead for United Northwest

Astoria, March 13.—Kenneth C. Kerr, editor of the Railway and Marine News; J. D. Mansfield, traffic commissioner of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, and H. F. Gardner and H. P. Chapman, business men of Seattle, were guests of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce Friday. The visitors made a plea for an united Northwest and cooperation between the cities of Washington and Oregon.

BANK SEEKS TO HAVE EXECUTRIX IN ROWLEY ESTATE UNDER BONDS

Vancouver, Wash., March 13.—Court Commissioner Dale McMullen granted the petition, Friday, of the Vancouver National bank that Mabel A. Rowley Johnson, executrix of the estate of Edson M. Rowley, be required to show cause why she should not be required to give bonds as executrix of the estate, and that she be required to deposit in the registry of the court all cash belonging to the estate of the late Edson M. Rowley, which she has secured as part of the purchase price of land recently sold and other liquid assets until a hearing can be had.

In its petition the bank alleges that the executrix, on March 10, filed a report showing the appraised value of the estate as $145,750.50 and indebtedness of $168,151.40, besides which the executrix and attorneys the sum of $8000, making a total of $176,151.40 indebtedness to the estate.

It alleges that no proper showing has been made to the court and no proper evidence introduced to establish the solvency of the estate, and that while the executrix has been declared solvent, it is, it believes, insolvent.

The bank alleges that lately the executrix sold a tract of land which realized a net sum of $20,000, and that it understands that the executrix has taken the proceeds of the sale beyond the jurisdiction of the court. The bank claims to be a creditor of the estate in the sum of $7337.57.
