To load a full cargo of flour for Alexandria, the 9600-ton steel steamer Eelbeck of Williams, Dimond & Co., is scheduled to arrive in port March 24. This will be the first private flour shipment out of this port since 1916. By March 25 the new 8800-ton steel manent service under the Columbia-Pacific from the Columbia river to North China ports, will be in port. The Angeles will load 4,500,000 feet of lumber.

REMOVAL OF JETTIES FROM SLOUGH CHANNEL IS ASKED

Ten lumber firms operating on Willamette slough have requested indorsement of the Chamber of Commerce on a plan to remove the jattles now blocking the slough channel at the north end of Sauvies island. The firms state their request that removal of jettles, which now permit the passage of river craft only, would permit towing of log booms direct from the slough to Portland and allow the loading of coastwise lumber vessels in the slough. The jettles were originally placed at upper end of the slough to scour out a shoal which continually formed at the north end of Sauvies island, in main channel of the Willamette river. Consideration was given the matter Monday by the navigation committee, which will investigate and present dectors at their meeting next week. NEW DRYDOCK PLANS ARE

has chartered the Koosawin, one of the Ferris hulls now being converted into a barkentine at Alameda, Cal., to load lumber in the Columbia river for Australia, according to advice received locally this morning. The Charles Nelson company is agent for the vessel. The name of the Koosawin is to be changed to Monitor by the new owners. This vessel will be the first of the fleet of Ferris type hull barkentines to come to the Columbia river. The dead-weight tonnage of the vessel is 3700 and she was launched by the Benicia Shipbuilding company at Benicia, Cal., in September, 1919, for the shipping board.

Steamer Is Launched

Successful launching of the wooden steamer City of Everett at the yards of the St. Helens Shipbuilding company was had Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with Miss Corinne Christensen, daughter of Carl Christensen, manager the plant, as sponsor. The Everett is a double-ended steam schooner, capable of carrying about 1,600,000 feet of lumber. The masts are being stepped on the vessel and she will likely be brought to Portland Friday for machinery installation.
