

OSWEGO BUSINESS MEN URGE ROAD BE HARD SURFACED

Two Miles of Highway From the County Line to Concrete Bridge Reported to Be in Bad Shape.

Effort to induce the state highway commission to expedite hard surfacing of the section of road between the Multnomah county line and the concrete bridge just south of Oswego probably will be made by a committee of Oswego business men and property owners at the meeting Tuesday.

This section is about two miles in length and includes the dangerous descent of Elk rock. Two bad curves are in this descent, curves that are bad because of the neglected condition of the macadam and which would lose their danger if the highway were hard surfaced.

The entire two miles has fallen into an almost irreparable state of decay in the last two or three years because of the heavy travel with practically no repairs. This lack of repair, it is admitted on all sides, is because this is a part of the Pacific highway and Clackamas county has been and continues to be loath to spend any money on it in temporary makeshift because it has expected that at almost any time the highway commission would take over the road and hard surface it, especially after Multnomah county and the city of Portland had surfaced the section between Puton and the county line.

ROAD IS DANGEROUS

At present it is risky to take a light car over the road, there being constant menace of broken springs and stripped gears at every turn of the wheels. Driving a heavy car is seriously dangerous. Even with these facts well known, daily traffic of passenger vehicles will, in winter, run at least 200 a day on Sundays, with nearly twice these figures in summer. In addition about 50 trucks pass each way daily.

This route is the natural outlet for the Willamette district, and as Clackamas county has done considerable improving for the Willamette-Oswego section and as this road district under the provisions of the bond issue passed at a recent election purposes further and immediate improvement, if the highway commission can see its way clear, a first class thoroughfare for a large farming and garden truck area will be supplied with economical means of communication with Portland. As it is, this farming section is literally barred out of Portland markets.

GRADING STARTED LAST FALL
Last fall the highway commission started grading between Multnomah county and West Linn, these not being discontinued until the grading work between the concrete bridge south of Oswego and the Multnomah line were over 50 cents grading gangs used last fall, it would take perhaps ten days or two weeks to complete the grading. There are practically no fills yet to be made.

Houston Considers Expert Proposals For Tax Revision

Washington, March 20.—(I. N. S.)—Secretary of the Treasury Houston is today considering proposals prepared by tax experts of the government calling for a general readjustment of the scale of consumptive taxes, as a means of simplifying the tax problem and affecting reductions in excess profit taxes.

The proposals for consumptive taxes likely will form the basis for definite recommendations to congress. Mr. Houston is emphatic in the statement that a lower level of excess profit taxes must be established. A new scale of consumptive taxes, he has been told by experts, will aid in solving the present tax difficulties.

A feature of the plan would require retailers to show plainly on every article sold the amount the consumer is paying on a particular commodity.

Dokkies Stage Big Doings in The Dalles

The Dalles, March 20.—The local temple of the Dramatic Order of the Klu Klux of Khorassan had the largest infiltration order ever held in the mid-Columbia district when more than 100 tourists were taken across the desert this evening.

A special train carrying 150 visitors came from Portland, including the Portland order's band of 54 pieces and featured the early evening hours. Later a dance was given for the visiting women. After the ceremonial, conducted by Martin Larson of Portland, the members partook of a late dinner. The Portland delegation will leave at 3 o'clock Sunday morning by special train.

Corvallis Sees Need Of Boxmaking Plan

Corvallis is in need of a planing mill and box factory, according to advice received this week by the State Chamber of Commerce from Walter L. Kline of that city. One firm in that city is ready to place an order for 100,000 cases for delivery this season. Apple growers will require 100,000 apple boxes and there is also a demand for numerous other kinds of boxes.

HIGHER RAILROAD RATES APPROVED

Freight and Passenger Tariffs Increased on Sumpter Valley Line in Two Counties

Salem, March 20.—New tariffs involving increases in both freight and passenger rates on the Sumpter Valley railroad in Baker and Grant counties aggregating approximately $54,000 annually, are approved by the public service commission in an order issued today. The rates become effective one day after the publication and filing of the tariffs by the railroad.

The increase, it is explained, was made necessary because of cessation of government aid for the railroad March 1, when the road was returned to private control, the new tariffs providing for increases substantially equal to those requested by the company in tariffs filed with the commission by the company heretofore. Under the new tariffs passenger fares will be increased from 4 to 5 cents per mile with increases in freight rates being confined to lumber and hay.

GAINING STEADILY

Keep Him Growing

THE scale is the barometer of your child's health—unless he is gaining steadily, he is not receiving sufficient nourishment.

Malnutrition will not only stunt the growth of his body, but the growth of his brain as well. MILK is the one best remedy for malnutrition.

The under-nourished child cannot compete at school in either study or sports with the children who drink plenty of MILK.

Is your child under weight? Milk is the best weight-giving food. A quart a day will help him grow normally and keep up his energy.
