

NATIONAL BOARD TO SETTLE LABOR DISPUTES ARISING

President Wilson Recommends Industrial Commission for Adjusting Difference as to Labor.

Washington, March 20.—(U. P.)—Establishment of a national industrial board with local regional conferences and boards of inquiry is recommended by President Wilson's industrial conference for settlement of all disputes between employers and employees.

NEW SYSTEM PROPOSED

The system of settlement is as follows: First—The parties to the dispute may voluntarily submit their dispute for settlement to a board, known as a regional adjustment conference. This board consists of four representatives selected by the parties and four others in their industry chosen by them. The board is presided over by a trained governmental official, the regional chairman, who acts as a conciliator.

GUIDE TO PUBLIC OPINION

Fourth—If the parties, or either of them, refuse voluntarily to submit the dispute to the processes of the plan of adjustment, a regional board of inquiry is formed by the parties in conflict, two employers and two employees from the industry and not parties to the dispute, this board has the right to publish its findings as a guide to public opinion. Either of the parties in conflict may join the board of inquiry on giving an understanding that, so far as its side is concerned, it will agree to submit its contentions to the regional adjustment conference, and if both join, a regional adjustment conference is automatically created.

Fifth—The national industrial board in Washington has general oversight of the working of the plan.

Sixth—The plan is applicable also to public utilities, but in such cases the government agency, having power to regulate the service, has two representatives in the adjustment conference. The conference makes no recommendation of a plan to cover steam railroads and other carriers for which legislation has recently been enacted by congress.

Seventh—The plan provides machinery for prompt and fair adjustment of wage and working conditions of government employees. It is especially necessary for this class of employees who should not be permitted to strike.

Eighth—The plan involves no penalties other than those imposed by public opinion. It does not impose compulsory arbitration. It does not submit to arbitration the policy of the "closed" or "open" shop.

would cost $50,000, the government's case looked weak," he said. "Without the King-Newberry letters the government had no case at all. We could find no other way, however, after the case itself had supplemented the scanty government proof that Newberry had taken an active part in the campaign and shown by his own writing that he directed every important move."

Newberry asserted he was not ashamed of the conviction. He will take the case to the supreme court, he said, for a ruling on the merits of the corrupt practices act. His greatest concern was for those who had helped him win his office, and who, at the end of an eight weeks' trial, had been found guilty with him. Sixty-eight defendants were acquitted by the jury.

The trial ending today with the sentencing of the senator and his workers had brought out a story of lavish use of money in Newberry's campaign against Henry Ford in 1918. The eight weeks of strained attention to detailed testimony had engraved lines in the faces of the defendants. One of them, Paul

H. King, had collapsed and was unable to attend the last sessions.

With the verdict came the reaction. The courtroom was crowded. Defendants and their wives occupied the front rows. Spectators jammed the room to the doors and an overflow straggled down the outside walkway.

The verdict was read. Women began crying, as the list of convicted men increased. Then there was a burst of laughter. An hysterical woman was led from the room by her friends. Others followed her.

Tears coursed down the cheeks of men acquitted as they were embraced by wives and friends. The men convicted appeared dazed, but the women sensed the situation and the trouble of the defendants were momentarily forgotten in caring for them. Joy over acquittal was tempered for some, as they tried to cheer close friends who had been found guilty.

MR. NEWBERRY CALM
Mrs. Newberry, wife of the chief defendant, was calm at the rendering of the verdict. But she retired to her room at the hotel immediately adjoining the court and did not reappear until tonight when with her husband and soon she left for Detroit.

When sentences were passed, after a noon recess, the women were not in evidence. The shock of the verdict was too great for most of them.

The trial began eight weeks ago and was an outgrowth of the senatorial campaign of 1918, when Henry Ford sought the nomination on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. The government charged Newberry conspired to conduct a "barrel campaign." The indictments were returned against 235 men on charges of exceeding the amount a candidate may expend, using the mails to defraud, and purchasing votes. All were acquitted of the charge of using the mails to defraud.

The list of defendants was cut down when 123 had been held in contempt. During the trial, Judge Sessions excused others on the ground the evidence did not connect them with the charges, thereby cutting the list to 85.

Frank C. Dooly, special assistant attorney general, who conducted the government's case, examined over 100 witnesses to show the sums of money available for workers in Newberry's behalf. He also exhibited to the jury, in filling his statements, cut the figures down.

The defense relied on character witnesses and endeavored to prove there was no conspiracy in that Newberry was innocent of the plans for financing his campaign. Defense witnesses also asserted they considered their efforts patriotic in that they were attempting to elect a vital American in place of Henry Ford, of whose pre-war pacifist efforts they disapproved.

Paul H. King, manager of the campaign, was chief witness for the defense. He collapsed after two sessions on the stand.

PHANTOMS APPEAR
In rebuttal the government directed its questions at an imaginary witness and answered them hypothetically. All defendants, except residents of Grand Rapids, when they testified for their homes. Attorneys were uncertain when appeal briefs will be filed, but it was assured they would take full advantage of the 60 day stay.

NO SHAME IS TO BE FELT. SAYS SENATOR NEWBERRY
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 20.—(U. P.)—Senator Truman H. Newberry, sentenced to prison for violation of the United States corrupt practices act, issued the following statement tonight: "The great satisfaction to be drawn from the conclusion of these proceedings is that there is not a word in the record that will ever cause any member of my family or any friends to apologize for or explain or to feel ashamed. All charges of corruption, fraud or bribery in the primary or election were dismissed by the court and not one word of evidence was introduced in connection therewith."

"My life-long memory of the loyalty and devotion of the men who were indicted with me always will be of the greatest value and the fact that 118 have been acquitted is some evidence of the extravagance of the charges presented. My heartfelt congratulations go out to the men whose actions have been justified and who have been completely vindicated and acquitted."

"The charge that I am convicted of in a conspiracy to violate an election law, which has never yet been revised by any appellate court, nor has any judicial determination of that law ever been recorded until now. I am charged with participating, as a candidate, in an election for senator from Michigan with knowledge that the cost of the campaign would exceed $3750, which sum was to be contributed by friends. If anyone had ever mentioned to me that the law would be interpreted to bring about this result, certainly as a man, I myself, nor any intelligent human being, could possibly have entered into a campaign under the circumstances that confronted me at that time. I certainly shall not resign my seat in the senate, unless required to do so by the senate itself or until the supreme court of the United States has affirmed the interpretation of this law under which the alleged conspiracy is said to have occurred. Moreover, unless my associates in the senate deem it unwise, I expect to continue to represent the peo-

SENATE TO PUSH INQUIRY INTO VOTE FOR NEWBERRY

Washington, March 20.—(U. P.)—The Ford-Newberry contest for a seat in the senate will be pushed to a decision as rapidly as possible, members of the senate sub-committee investigating the election declared tonight, following announcement of Truman H. Newberry's conviction and sentence at Grand Rapids on conspiracy charges.

No immediate action to unseat Newberry is contemplated, senators said. They understand that if he does not resign he is entitled to his seat unless the conviction is affirmed by higher courts or unless the senate investigating committee finds that he did not get a majority of the votes legally cast in the Michigan election, which will begin Tuesday before the sub-committee and under the eyes of counsel for Henry Ford and Newberry, is to determine whether Ford or Newberry got a ma-majority of the legally cast votes. Both charge fraud in counting the ballots. Senators said that if the recount showed Newberry got the majority, further action might be suspended until the appeal court passes on Newberry's case. If the recount shows Ford elected, the committee and the senate will then have to decide, senators said, whether there is anything in Newberry's charge that Ford's campaign organization committed fraud.

Pending that inquiry, Ford would not be seated, it was declared. Senators indicated that the committee would go no further in any event than to declare a vacancy in the senate and let the people or authorities of Michigan fill it.

Seapoose Man Injured
Seapoose, March 20.—Run over by a baking company truck, Ole Johnson suffered a broken collar bone and severe bruises. Johnson started across the road to quiet his team as the car approached. The machine skidded 50 feet, dragging Johnson much of that distance. Johnson is advanced in years.

MRS. CHAPLIN CHANGES HER MIND, SAYS SHE WANTS CHARLIE BACK

Screen Star Also Declares She Will Get Divorce in Nevada If Charlie Desires.

Los Angeles, March 20.—Mildred Harris Chaplin, who was firm this morning in her determination to divorce her celebrated husband, Charles Chaplin, because of his stinging published rebuke of her allegations of non-support, tonight has let her "heart rule again" and declared in an interview to newspapermen that she wants Charlie back "if he will come."

"If he will come back to me I will be only too glad," she said. "I love him to death. I have never changed since our happy honeymoon."

The young film star, who at first sought to divorce the comedian as soon as possible, alleging desertion, cruelty and non-support, tonight added: "I will do anything Charlie wants me to."

"I do not want to do anything that will hurt or inconvenience Mr. Chaplin," she added. "I may even go to Nevada if he insists that I get the divorce, as he has several times said that that was his desire. In fact, I suppose I will just about go any place or do anything he demands."

What sudden change of heart prompted Mrs. Chaplin to declare that she would conform to her husband's wishes is the subject of conjecture here tonight among motion picture people. Meanwhile, Chaplin has nothing to add to his formal statement issued early today.

Registration Goal For May Primaries Seems Improbable

With only 30 more days in which to register for the May primaries, the total mark is not expected to reach much over $5,000. Although citizens have been repeatedly urged to turn out and register, the 100,000 goal probably will not be reached, according to present indications.

During the past week the voters have been coming in at a rate of about 250 a day. Only 236 put in appearance Saturday, but for the entire week 1088 signed the papers.

Present statistics are as follows:

Male Republican	32,438
Female Republican	22,907
Male Democrat	11,126
Female Democrat	7,781
Others male	2,413
Others female	1,808
Total	79,573
