Salem, March 27.—"Inasmuch as my present term has yet some three years to run, I have not begun to worry about what I might be going to do after that," declared Attorney General George M. Although the attorney general refused to discuss the subject it is generally understood about the state capital that the present term will be his last in public office—although all admit that such a prediction is looking considerably into the future.

Proposal to Divide Oregon Legislative Session Is Debated

The debate subject before the Oregon Civic league Saturday afternoon was the proposed divided session of the Oregon legislature. Senator Milton A. Miller, collector of internal revenue, told his history repeats itself in post-war conditions and doubt, and declared that the country is better off after the world war than it was following the revolution or the Civil war. W. H. Caley, chairman of the league's public relations committee, reported that no foundation was found for reports that good food is being destroyed by dealers at the public incinerator or in any other way. F. D. Hunt urged that every means be employed to hasten registration of voters, or at the last minute before the election registration will be found dangerously short.

David F. Morrison, speaking in support of a divided session, said that unless this is used as a means of remedying legislative abuses, impatient people will take even more drastic steps. D. C. Lewis, member of the legislature, opposing the divided session, said that it has not been found satisfactory in California. The divided session contemplates one session for submission of bills, an interval for the study and analysis and a second session for their enactment or defeat. Lewis doubted if either the people or the legislators would give the measure the attention due.

Piano Points for Consideration

SO IMPORTANT is the purchase of a piano that it should never be undertaken unless one has a vivid conception of the qualities that make for piano values. Primarily, the piano is a musical instrument; incidentally, of course, it is an ornament. Its main function, therefore, is to give music.

THE purchaser should next consider the durability of the piano. He should be well aware of the construction of the pianos offered for his use. Unless a piano can maintain its tone, stand up under hard usage for years after the newness has worn off, it is unworthy of consideration.

IN COMPARING the merits of various pianos, the purchaser should first determine which piano gives the very finest music. Without the proper tone, a piano is little more than a piece of furniture; but with a QUALITY OF TONE that is PURE, CLEAR and PLEASING to the ear, it becomes the greatest aid in the development of musical talent in the young, and of the appreciation of the best in music in every member of the family.

THE design and finish of a piano should make a strong appeal to the eyes. Tastes differ as to what is the most beautiful in piano case designs, so the line offered should have sufficient variety to permit a satisfactory choice. A selection based on the points given: MUSICAL QUALITY, DURABILITY OF CONSTRUCTION, THE UTMOST BEAUTY OF DESIGN, will result in—SATISFACTION.
