

WOMAN KILLED IN PLUNGE OFF HIGHWAY CLIFF

Falling nearly 75 feet over a precipice in Shepherd's Dell, along the Columbia river highway, Sunday afternoon, Mrs. W. B. Pollock was instantly killed when her head struck the rocks at the foot of the cliff. Her husband, who had been standing beside her, posing for a photograph with the pictureque falls in the background, attempted to save her. He seized her foot as she toppled, evidently overcome by vertigo, but his hold slipped.

POSING FOR PICTURE

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Pollock, who were visiting Pollock's brother, F. R. Pollock, 511 East Ash street, were on a motor trip on the highway when Mrs. Pollock was killed. She was climbing up the path on the left side of the dell, they posed for a snapshot, with the falls for a background.

STRIKES SHARP ROCKS

Only for a second she dangled in his grasp, then a sharp rock struck her head, which is on a steep angle, but not perpendicular.

E. H. Toost of Oak Park was at Melrose Park when the storm struck that place.

CLOUD CONE SHAPE

All accounts agree that the tornado struck in the form of a cloud shaped like an inverted cone coming from the southwest. Sunshine and then a driving rain and hail storm preceded it. So clean was the path cut out that persons living within a block of it learned of the tornado's visitation on going for a stroll after it stopped raining, coming suddenly on the wrecked homes nearby.

CUTS WIDE PATH

The suburban towns and cities near Chicago were the scene of the greatest havoc. In some portions of these the "twister" cut a path nearly half a mile wide and several blocks long, bounding back into the atmosphere after some visitation to rip down later into some community farther eastward.

FABTOSR'S WORDS DRAMATIC

In the Elgin Congregational church the Rev. J. W. Welch, pastor, had barely finished the benediction—"We must always be prepared since we know not when our time is coming"—when the storm struck the church. All of the doors were blown in and a moment later the congregation, killing two and injuring 20.

RESIDENCES DEMOLISHED

After striking Melrose Park, the tornado struck the bridge spanning the northern Chicago and struck in the fashionable North Shore suburbs of Evanston and Wilmette, reducing to wreckage scores of residences of the wealthy in the city suburb and demolishing 20 houses in the former.

BLOWS FLIVVER INTO CURCH

The greatest damage in the Chicago city limits was in the southern part. By some freak, the storm broke before striking the city itself, one part of the twister going across the northern part of the city and the other to the north. The business section was untouched.

SAMUEL KING OF PIONEER CAREER AS MERCHANT DIES

Samuel Willard King, closely associated with the early life of Portland and Oregon, died Sunday morning at his home at 240 King street, at the age of 83 years and 22 days. King was one of the founders of the firm of Olds, Wortman & King. He taught school in the early days.

Samuel King was born in Lunenburg, Vt., March 6, 1837. His father, Willard King, served as captain of the militia in his town during the War of 1812. Samuel King was graduated from the public schools at the age of 17 years and in several years taught school in his native city, working on the farm in summer.

He came West at the age of 22 and taught school in the city of Portland. At the end of the school term he went to Orofino, Idaho, where he purchased a fine and conducted it for two years. He returned to Oregon and re-commenced teaching. He was married to Mrs. George Olds, who died in 1871. One son, Charles W. King, a member of the firm of Olds, Wortman & King, survives. King was married again to Dr. Lydia Hunt, who died March 16, 1900, and in 1902 he was married to Mrs. William Hillidge, a descendant of one of the signers of the declaration of independence. She survives him.

Mr. King was principal of the Butteville, Lafayette and Portland. He was principal of the North school, later the Atkinson, and was elected to the city superintendent of schools in 1872. He resigned in 1875. He remained in the mercantile business, remaining in the firm until 1890, when he sold his interest to John Wortman and opened a general financial broker.

MOVE URGED TO PLACE THIRTY-FIFTH INFANTRY AT VANCOUVER POST

The Presidents' Council of Portland's business and civic clubs has determined to press its recommendation that the Thirty-fifth Infantry be stationed at Vancouver military post. The council has received assurances of support from Senators Chamberlain and McNary and Congressman Sinnott, and also a letter today from Adjutant General F. C. Hart at Washington, which contains these assertions:

NO CHANGE SEEN IN TREATY ATTITUDE

Whether the resolute Welsh statesman will be able to outlive his adversaries now, as he has so often done before, remains to be seen. Certainly, he appears to have his work cut out for him. Aquith is attacking his whole argument and position, while the independent heavy artillery, such as Sir John Simon, is thundering against him in the prelude to speak of Lloyd George as the Tory leader, yet it is true that his proposed party of Liberalized Conservatives and Conservativized Liberals, which he left in Great Britain.

Injured When Hit by Log

H. C. Simmons, 27, Burlington, was injured about the back this morning when struck by a log at Ferry Mills. He was taken to Good Samaritan hospital.

NARROW MARGIN LIKELY

Republicans pin their main hopes of gaining seats on Idaho, South Dakota and Colorado, and also are optimistic as to Nevada, California and Maryland. The Democrats believe they have excellent prospects to gain seats in New York, Missouri and Utah, and that they may also win Connecticut, Ohio and Indiana. New York and Connecticut usually elect Republican senators, but Wadsworth and Brandegee, it is conceded, will have some real fighting to do this year if they return.

Federal investigation of essential industries, free speech and assembly. WANTS FOOD REGULATION. "We are not unmindful of the fact that it will not be worked out in a few months or even a few years. However, we are making a beginning by requesting the political parties to cooperate in their platforms three of the most vital things in our program: First, we are asking for federal regulation of the food industry, and in this connection we are pushing just now the Kenyon-Kendrick-Anderson bill in regard to the packing industry; we don't believe in government by injunction in any connection, especially in relation to anything so vital as the food supply of the whole people. There ought to be a permanent commission created by congress to deal continuously with food, as the federal reserve board deals with the banks and the interstate commerce commission deals with the rail-

POLITICAL POT IS BOILING HOT IN LONDON ELECTION

By Edward Price Bell. Special Cable to The Journal and The Chicago Daily News.

London, March 29.—It has indeed many a long day since the political pot has boiled so violently as it is boiling today. Prime Minister Lloyd George, for the coalition, Mr. Asquith for the independent liberals, and Arthur Henderson for the labor party, are striving for the mastery, while Viscount Northcliffe, with his great newspapers, maintains a rather detached position ready apparently to support any party likely to destroy the coalition which he regards as a combination of incompetence, waste and failure.

SAND AND GRAVEL LAW BEING BROKEN

Salem, March 29.—Whether through ignorance of the law or through indifference thereto, numerous sand and gravel companies operating in the navigable streams of Oregon are every day violating the state law, which forbids such operations without permission from the state land board, according to George G. Brown, clerk of the board.

RELIGIOUS ADS AID CHRISTIANITY, ASSERTS PASTOR

"I am fully persuaded that a most effective advertising of religion would be the simple and direct words of the holy scriptures, brought strikingly before the public by every effective means—press billboard and film." Dr. Joshua Stanfield said to the congregation of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Sunday evening.

WOULD LABEL FABRICS

"The second thing we are asking of the political parties is a law providing for the truthful labeling and branding of fabrics. When we buy oleomargarine it is branded as such; when we buy patent medicines the contents of the bottle is printed on the label; the number of ounces is indicated on the box of candy; but there is no such law to protect the buyer against manufacturers and dealers in fabrics.
