G. O. P. "Deals" With Antis for Suffrage

Dover, Del., March 29.—(I. N. S.)—The fight over the woman suffrage amendment was resumed in the legislature today, but the vote will not be taken until Wednesday. A conference of Republican leaders with the anti-suffrage members was summoned this morning and it was expected that a "deal" would be arranged by which the "antis" would support the amendment in exchange for the passage of local legislation which they desire.

Brooklyn Librarian in City

Dr. Frank P. Hill, librarian of the Brooklyn public library and chairman of the enlarged program committee of the American Library association, spent Sunday in Portland on his way from Seattle to San Francisco. Hill conferred with William L. Brewster, member of the library board, relative to the extension of the enlarged program to Portland, but since it does not meet the approval of the library board, no action was taken.

Paving Work Begins On Pacific Highway Section at Roseburg

Roseburg, March 29.—Putting "hot stuff" on a two-mile section of the Pacific highway, between this city and Myrtle Creek, will begin this week. The section to be paved is about 12 miles south of here on the new section of road which will eliminate the dreaded Roberts hill when completed. The old road is still in use over the hill and will be most of this summer, according to construction men. Many tourists are trying to negotiate the roads at this season of the year, and almost every night the camping grounds are in use. All say the roads are fairly good, with the exception of new sections in the Canyon creek canyon, where the road is not yet surfaced, and a section on the Grave creek hill, also new, and which with little rain, becomes almost impassable. North of here the roads are not bad and many cars pass through without being stalled.

Otto B. Frank, manager of the Douglas County Light & Water plant in this city, has resigned and will accept a similar position at La Grande. R. H. Jennings will succeed Frank. Jennings was from Marshfield and Eugene, where he has been manager of city lighting systems. William Pollman of Baker, president of the company, is here arranging the change.

COLBY ILL ON HIS RETURN FROM N. Y.

Washington, March 29.—(I. N. S.)—Secretary of State Colby was taken ill upon his return from New York and today is under a physician's care at his apartment in a hotel here. It was stated that the secretary is quite ill, although not dangerously so.

Mrs. L. P. Ostlund, Sumpter Resident, Passes Suddenly

Baker, March 29.—Mrs. L. P. Ostlund, aged 52 years, dropped dead from heart disease in a street at Sumpter Saturday evening. The body will arrive in Baker today en route to The Dalles for burial. Mrs. Ostlund is survived by her husband and her young son. She was a native of Sweden.

Mrs. Barney Eastham, aged 36 years, died at her home here Sunday. She was born March 15, 1884, at Bridgeport, Baker county, where the funeral was held this afternoon. Her husband, two sisters and her mother survive.

Charles W. Sipp, 75, a resident of Baker county for 38 years, died in Baker Sunday. He is survived by his wife.

Thomas Carey, aged 86, and a pioneer of Malheur county, died at Malheur Sunday. His wife survives.

Senator Wood of Hillsboro in Race For Secretaryship

Salem, March 29.—The nominating petition of W. D. Wood of Hillsboro as a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state was filed here this morning. Wood, who has served several terms as state senator from Washington county, refers in his slogan to his "legislative and business experience" which, he declares, "assures practical and economical service for the state."

D. R. Parker of Condon also filed today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for circuit judge of the eleventh judicial district.

Many Killed or Hurt

Roma, March 29.—(U. P.)—Thirteen persons were killed and 28 wounded late Saturday when an express train bound for Trieste collided with a freight train at Pella bridge. Most of those killed and injured were Egyptian students.

SURFACE RELIGION WON'T DO, PASTOR TELLS HIS CHURCH

"People today endorse religion when they get married, when they get sick and when they die, with perhaps a few church collections thrown in between, and that is the extent of their profession," declared Dr. Harold H. Griffin of the First Christian church at the noonday evangelistic meeting of the federation of churches in the Pantages theatre today.

"They refuse to take a positive stand and publicly commit themselves on the great issue of Christian redemption. They are more for the respectabilities of religion than for its realities. Many do not wish to be classed as pagans, yet they don't want to be disturbed. They make them tired to think. They deplore anything that looks like religious excitement as a mark of vulgarity. Polite indifference is one of our modern styles and there are not a few people who want to be stylish."

"But this clandestine Christianity won't do. It is poor stuff. It is the very climax of inconsistency. People who want the conventionalities of religion and who wish to be courteous to its leaders need to be reminded that conventionality can never take the place of conscience and that courtesy can never be a substitute for courage."

Tuesday's meeting will be addressed by Dr. J. J. Staub, pastor of the Sunnyvale Congregational church, who will talk on "Boundless Love." The Rev. W. F. Ineson will speak Wednesday on "Christ and the Human Value." Bishop William H. Washington will be Thursday's speaker on "The All-Sufficient Christ," and the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnson will talk on Good Friday on "The Power of the Cross."

The meetings begin at 12:30 p. m. and close promptly at 1 o'clock.

Capacity Doubled to Handle Telegraphic Service From Here

Increased use of telegraphic service in commercial transactions will necessitate doubling the present capacity of lines operated out of Portland, according to C. F. Fisher of San Francisco, division traffic superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company. A new wire between Portland and San Francisco will be completed by April 15, according to Fisher.

Other improvements for the service now under way include two new channels direct from Portland to the East and a wire being strung from here to Boise, Idaho. First class repeater stations are contemplated at Yakima and Umatilla and rotary repeaters are being installed on several circuits, increasing the capacity of these circuits 100 per cent.

Announcement of these and other improvements in service was made at a series of meetings of Western Union officials held Friday and Saturday in the peacock room of the Multnomah hotel. More than 30 Western Union officials and railroad superintendents attended the conference, representing all Pacific coast and Northwestern states.

Pine Valley Is to Vote on 20,000 Acre Irrigation Project

Baker, March 29.—Residents of Pine Valley will vote within 30 days upon the organization of an irrigation project to include more than 20,000 acres. The county court authorized the election. The petition for authority to organize was signed by 123 members; a remonstrance was signed by 41, who sought to effect the exclusion of their land. Four were excluded by mutual consent. The remainder will present their reasons for desiring exclusion before the district board of directors if the district is voted.

Three meetings for the purpose of discussing plans are to be held before the election. The district proposes to construct two dams to furnish late season irrigation for 15,000 acres of land already in cultivation, and to bring under cultivation nearly 11,000 acres additional. The extreme cost of the project is estimated at $100,000.

Cooperation Sought In Development of Deschutes Project

Salem, March 29.—The directors of the various irrigation districts included in the big Deschutes project will coordinate their efforts in the development of the project, according to Percy A. Cupper, state engineer, who returned Saturday from Redmond, where he had been conferring with members of the various boards of directors of the districts affected. It is now proposed to organize a new district to include the West Union Irrigation district or to include this land in the Tumalo district, Cupper states.

While Cupper also visited the Ochoco project near Prineville, which has asked for the certification of $100,000 in bonds by the state irrigation securities commission.

WHOLESALE READING EDUCATES PEOPLE ON "AMERICANISM"

Captain John Anderson Tells of Good Work Done Reaching Logging Camps.

"What are you doing to counteract revolutionary teachings in mining and lumber camps and other places where great numbers of laborers are employed?" asks Captain John Anderson, originator of the "Wholesale Reading Americanization," who Saturday night made a new appeal to Portland to place in the blue boxes in the downtown district all available books and magazines of a wholesome character.

"The Anderson system is unqualifiedly opposed to the teachings of the W. W. R. B. and other destructive forces which society must counteract," Anderson said. "It believes that many that have been led astray by the agitator and by reading the agitator's literature, can be brought back again into good standing of society by hearing what Americanism is from real, practical, common sense American agitators and by reading American literature."

Captain Anderson and E. B. Fish traveled more than 900 miles in automobiles visiting the various camps, and delivered 139 lectures on Americanism in the mines, logging and industrial camps. Also to the lumber workers on the docks, as well as to laboring men in such parts of the cities where they "hang out," reaching through the city about 75,000 men.

More than 500 boxes of reading matter were distributed during 1919 among 122 camps.

High Prices Realized At Hereford Auction

La Grande, March 29.—Andrew and Garret Blanke of Island City sold 40 choice yearling Hereford calves at public auction Saturday. The total sale price amounted to $10,880. Guy Glenn paid the highest price, buying a choice bull at $800. Evans & Koyman of Bend purchased five head, Herbert Chandler of Baker five, and Floyd McKennon of this city, seven. Other buyers were: A. H. Parsons, Mattie Braille, Walter M. Pierce, R. J. Baker, L. B. Pierce, Clyde McKenzie, W. A. Zubrick, C. J. Scriber and W. C. Dorrance, all of Union county.

Miss Hemenway and Harvey Madden Wed

Cottage Grove, March 29.—At the home of the bride's parents, a quiet home wedding took place, when Miss Florence Hemenway and Harvey Madden of the University of Oregon were married by the Methodist minister, the Rev. Simpson McRae.

The bride, Miss Hemenway, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Madden, who reside in English in the Japanese university.

Idaho Boosters of Hoover Form Club

Moscow, Idaho, March 29.—Plans are being made by a "Hoover-For-President" club for Northern Idaho with headquarters at Moscow. Guy Wolfe, a pioneer of Moscow, has started the movement. Wolfe has written the Oregon headquarters of the Hoover movement for information about the work in Oregon and hopes to have the club organized next week.

Speakers Are Against Non-Partisan League

White Salmon, Wash., March 29.—N. B. Brooks and Mrs. Eunice Melville of Goldendale Saturday evening addressed a representative audience at the "Commercial club on 'Americanism,'" strongly urging cooperation in the fight against the Non-Partisan League. W. Mills of Spokane spoke Friday evening at the Leo theatre in the interest of the Non-Partisan League.

Marshfield Citizens Give $1000 for Fund

Marshfield, March 29.—More than a thousand dollars was raised for the Near East relief fund at a meeting held here Sunday night when Samuel C. Lancaster of Portland was the chief speaker. Lancaster spoke before the Chamber of Commerce and high school of North Ben this morning and was entertained at a luncheon given by the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce at the Chandler hotel here at noon.

Red Terrorizes Town With Gun Until Shot

Isaquah, Wash., Mar. 29.—(I. N. S.)—Tom Legg, alleged I. W. W., ruled this town for a time Sunday. With his rifle he drove citizens indoors and made them seek shelter behind telephone poles and trees. His reign of terror was ended by two deputy sheriffs, who brought him down with a bullet in the arm and side. Legg was at one time defendant in a first degree murder charge growing out of an I. W. W. raid at Everett.

WOUNDED MAN KEEPS SILENT

Fred Love, ex-convict and known to the police as a safe cracker and yegg, lies in St. Vincent's hospital today with a bullet in his hip and with his left leg paralyzed. Police surgeons say he may die. Love refuses to tell where or how he was hurt.

At 7 a. m. Robert and John Luckas, 294 Sherman street, telephoned police that they were harboring a sick man, and requested medical assistance. Love was conscious when police arrived. He said he fell from a window himself about 3 a. m. while in the vicinity. According to his story, he crawled to the Luckas' home, and was there put to bed. When examination disclosed the bullet wound, Love changed his story and told inspectors Hill and Cahill the injury was self-inflicted. It is said. But the police surgeons say it is virtually impossible to injure oneself as Love claims.

"The Luckas are good friends of mine. We know them for a long time. They didn't do this to me," Love said.

Both Robert and John Luckas were arrested by Detective Lieutenant Maloney pending investigation. Neither shed light on the shooting and Love insists that his wound was accidental.

Republican Club Is Formed at Albany To Push Candidates

Albany, March 29.—Following the address made before the Republican club last Friday night by Dow Walker, state campaign manager for General Leonard Walker, the organization of a Wood club in Albany was undertaken. Walker made an urgent plea for the support of the Republicans in behalf of his candidate.

Judge Wallace McCamant of Portland addressed the same club on "Republicanism." He made a bitter attack upon the present administration and denounced the conduct of the war as directed by President Wilson. The speaker assailed the spruce division and also criticized various cabinet officials.

Big Peppermint Crop Is Looked For This Year in Linn County

Albany, March 29.—Indications for the peppermint crop in Linn county during the coming season are excellent, according to reports of farmers who are husbanding this industry. Linn county produces an oil that is superior to any produced elsewhere in America.

Acres under cultivation in the county for peppermint will be doubled this year over last year. Enormous yields per acre has encouraged a number of farmers to put in crops of this plant.

Last year O. D. Marshall of Albany secured 40 pounds of oil to the acre off his product. He sold the oil in Portland for $16 a pound. Some years as high as 72 pounds can be taken off an acre, depending on the moisture during the season. Prices for peppermint oil vary from $2 a pound to $16. At the present time the market for oil is approximately $8 a pound.

Each College Wins Once in Debates on Mexican Problems

Willamette University, Salem, March 29.—Willamette university's debating teams divided honors with the College of Puget sound in a dual contest Saturday night, the negative squad from each school winning by a two to one vote. The visitors' negative team, composed of Harry Earle and Harold Hong, won a close contest from Sheldon Stock and Howard George, the university representatives in Tacoma. Bernard Ramsey and Frank Bennett won the decision for Willamette.

A regular debate with Willamette college and Pacific university will be staged in three weeks.

Dean George H. Alden of Willamette presided over the Salem debate, the following men acting as judges: H. C. Jenkins, principal of Jefferson high school, Portland; H. W. Stone, secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A., and Wallace Lee, dean of Albany college.

School Heads Favor State Millage Tax

La Grande, March 29.—Superintendents and principals of Eastern Oregon schools passed resolution favoring the proposed millage tax bill for the elementary schools and three state institutions of higher learning. Another resolution passed adopted $1200 as the minimum salary for a grade teacher and $1400 for a high school instructor.

School Boards Fix Salary Schedules

La Grande, March 29.—Minimum salaries of $1080 for elementary and $1170 for high school teachers on a 12 month basis of maximum salaries of $1800 and $2200 were approved by the school boards of Baker, La Grande, Vale and The Dalles in joint session here Saturday.

Wood Club Formed In Jackson County Has 300 Members

Medford, March 29.—What is claimed to be the largest Leonard Wood Republican club in Oregon was organized here Saturday by prominent Republicans of Medford and surrounding towns with 300 members by Walter L. Tooms of Salem, state organizer of the Wood forces. The following officers were elected:

President, Ralph P. Cowell, president of Medford Post of the American Legion; first vice president, Mrs. A. J. Kloker; secretary, T. W. Miles; treasurer, Mrs. Bert Anderson; executive committee, County Clerk Chauncey Flory, Mrs. H. H. Sargent of Jacksonville, G. R. Carter of Talent, Sprague Riegel of Gold Hill, and W. Y. Crowman, Mrs. Hal Pratt, Glenn O. Taylor, Paul Leonard, F. W. Mears, Mrs. Harry Stockman and Bert Anderson.

Eugene's School Teacher Dispute Is About Settled

Eugene, March 29.—The agitation of the 48 grade teachers against the school board has about died out since the board has announced it will discard the merit system of salaries and arrange for a new schedule, with the minimum $10 to $15 a month higher than the old rate. The board continues to refuse to permit the teachers to dictate as to who shall be superintendents. Several principals of grade school stand to lose their positions as they have opposed the school board.

The Hazelwood creamery of Portland, which has been operating a creamery for 12 years at Acme, on the lower Susquehanna near the coast, has dismantled the plant and shipped the machinery to Portland. The Mutual Creamery company, which is to build this spring in Eugene, has contracted for the greater part of the milk in that section of the county.

Beginning today, all retail stores in Eugene will close each day, except Saturday, at 5 o'clock.

W. H. Weatherford, editor of "The West" of Florence, is now postmaster, having been appointed to succeed C. Buchanan. In the civil service examination Weatherford made 90 per cent.

Senator Charles L. McNary wired the Chamber of Commerce of this city a statement to the agricultural bill, providing that the air patrol service for forests be given $60,000, had passed the senate favorably. In the civil service law, Eugene will be the substitution for five airplanes this summer in national forest patrol.

Danger of Scabies Arouses Sheepmen

Klamath Falls, March 29.—Requests by the Klamath Wool Growers' association for cooperation of sheepmen in Northern California in eradicating scabies have been responsible for an awakening of interest on the part of veterinarians appointed in Oregon and California. Letters from Dr. W. H. Lytle, Oregon state veterinarian; A. J. Payne of Sacramento and Fred A. Ellenwood of Red Bluff, Cal., contain promise of a proclamation for a general dipping date of all sheep in the infected areas. Unless something is done soon to stamp out the disease the sheep industry will be seriously menaced, sheepmen claim.

Alumni of Colleges Boost Millage Tax

Albany, March 29.—Alumni and former students of University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college residing in Albany will assemble Tuesday to form

Students Ready to Draw Plan of City Camping Grounds

Eugene, March 29.—Plans for the new municipal camping ground, between Skinner's butte and the Willamette river, will be drawn by students of the University of Oregon, provided the citizens of Eugene approve the measure appropriating $10,000 for the park.

"Helpful Hints"

What Not to Do

Here are a few suggestions relative to using a Checking Account:

Don't post-date a check—that is, date it for some future time. It is unbusinesslike. Don't leave remainder of second line blank after you have written the amount. Fill it with X marks or heavy wavy lines.
