TRAFFIC LAW IS VIOLATED BY CAR TWICE AT ONCE

Last week an automobile, reported to bear license number 71842, speeded up Chapman street. The machine turned up Salmon, cut-out open, at a speed estimated at 25 to 30 miles an hour. A pedestrian narrowly averted injury in an accident with the fleeing machine.
 The law was violated in two particulars. Automobiles are prohibited from operating with open mufflers, and speed over 20 miles an hour is in violation of the city ordinance.
 At Taylor and Fourteenth streets last week a collision between two machines was avoided because one driver was in control of his car. He had right of way, but yielded it to the driver proceeding in the other direction because the latter's speed was too great to permit a stop. He flashed across within a foot of the first machine. Near by was a member of the vigilance committee. The number of the erring driver was immediately reported to the police.

VIGILANTES ACTIVE
 There are 280 members of the vigilance committee in Portland. They are on the streets every day taking note of drivers who violate the law. Almost 100 reports are made to the police bureau every 24 hours.
 Records are being made by drivers. Cards on file show where, when and how they violate the law. When the offenders are involved in a serious accident it will be an easy matter for police officials to place the record of the driver before a court of jury. A tremendous influence will be wielded through use of the records drivers themselves are writing into the police archives.
RECORDS ARE KEPT
 Those who are frequent violators also will have to reckon with their vigilante records when they apply for an operator's license under the recently enacted licensing law. If police officials recommend that licenses be not issued, based on the records of drivers, licenses will not be issued. The driver may appeal and be given a hearing, but at the hearing the vigilante and police record will again be exhibited.
 Police marvel at the recent activity of the vigilance committee and smile confidently when the licensing drivers' law is mentioned. They say that records now being established by many drivers will embarrass them when they become parties to a serious accident or apply for operators' licenses in June. The new licensing drivers' law goes into effect July 1.

Woman's Auxiliary Of Logger's Legion Organized in Baker

Baker, April 5.—A women's auxiliary to the Logger's Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen was organized in Baker Saturday night with nearly 100 members. The auxiliary will hereafter superintend the social features of each L. L. L. meeting and will be in charge of two of four dances to be given each week by the Loggers' Club, president of the organization, is scheduled to speak here April 16.

Miss Elizabeth Burrows of Seattle has accepted an offer from the Baker chapter of the Red Cross to head local service work, according to a telegram received by Judge William Duby, chairman of the local chapter.

Klamath County Has Oil Boom; Ranchers Asked to Lease Land

Klamath Falls, April 5.—An oil boom is in full swing in Klamath county, probably the offspring of the recent excitement over the line in California occasioned by the announcement that oil exists under the surface and only awaits capital and nerve to bring it out. Numerous ranchers in this valley have recently received offers for the lease of their property or the purchase of oil rights.
 One attempt has been made to strike oil in Klamath county by the Klamath Oil company on the Manning ranch. The drill has penetrated 900 feet and in its progress passed through many substances indicative of the presence of oil. Paraffin came to the surface on water pumped from the well.

Elks from several counties of Southern Oregon and Northern California gathered in Klamath Falls for ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of the beautiful temple and the installation of officers of the lodge. G. W. Houston was installed as exalted ruler.

Yakima Union Men Favor Arbitration In Labor Disputes

Yakima, Wash., April 5.—After a discussion with the industrial code commission concerning the board of arbitration proposed under the code, union leaders agreed that such a court would be beneficial and that it would operate, if conducted in a spirit of fairness, in settling a large percentage of labor disputes, but its decisions should be advisory and not arbitrary, leaving to labor its right to strike and to the employer his right to lockout.
 It was estimated that public opinion in 90 per cent of the cases would force acceptance to decisions of the court.

Proposed Irrigation Canal Is Approved

Spokane, Wash., April 5.—The proposed canal system to be installed on the Columbia basin irrigation project, as outlined by the engineers and members of the Columbia basin survey commission, was approved by James Munn, chief field supervisor of the United States reclamation service, at the conclusion of a four-day automobile trip of inspection, which carried the commission, engineers and Munn over the entire project.
