Mrs. Richardson
Is Reelected
President

By Vella Winner
MRS. JENNIE RICHARDSON has been re-elected president of the Portland Grade Teachers' association, a position which she filled so capably for the past year. This is the largest organization of women in the state, having a membership of more than 700, and much responsibility attaches to the duties of the presiding officer. Mrs. Richardson held a high position in the councils of the teachers in their salary campaign last year and she will again be one of the counselors this year.

Other officers chosen were: Recording secretary, Miss Grace Towles; corresponding secretary, Miss Helen Petch; treasurer, Miss Emma Sturtevant; vice president, from the first grade, Miss Irene Rippey; vice president, from second grade, Miss Clayton Burrows; vice president, from sixth grade, Miss Grace Davis; vice president, from the eighth grade, Miss Nellie Faucett and Miss Emma Whitney, the vote.

The Alnsworth Parent-Teacher association will meet Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. Miss Leona Larabee of the Lincoln high school and Mrs. Jennie Richardson, president of the Grade Teachers' association, will speak. Mrs. W. H. Crowe will be hostess for the social hour which will follow.

The business women's art class will have a specially interesting meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the art museum. The American artists to be discussed are the two famous women, Cecilia Beaux and Mary Cassatt, by Miss Clara Redheffer, and the equally famous modern men, Carl Melchers and Frank W. Benson, by Mrs. Virginia Mueller. There will be an opportunity given to view the exposition of paintings by artists of the Northwest after the meeting.

The seven days' drive for a $40,000 fund for the local Y. W. C. A. ended Monday evening with collections totaling $23,692.65 and with three teams that have not yet reported, to hear from.

The collections Monday amounted to $122.40. Mrs. George B. Wilson, who has headed the flying squadron, asked for volunteers who would give further time and effort to the cause, and Mrs. S. R. Duncan, Mrs. E. McElfresh, Mrs. E. C. Cook, Mrs. Paul M. French and Miss M. J. Smith volunteered, and it is expected that these women will continue their work for a few days more. The prize of a silk waist offered by the W. J. Ball company to the woman collecting the most money went to Mrs. Paul French, whose collections totaled $1522. Mrs. French was a member of Mrs. Willis Dwyer's team.

The State Woman's Press club will meet in room E of the Central library Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Marion D. Merry will read a paper on "Women as Publishers." All interested will be welcome.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Woodland Methodist church will be entertaining Wednesday from 2 to 5 p. m. by Mrs. Daisy Reames, 944 Magnolia avenue. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. H. Ricker. All members and their friends will be welcome.

The Oregon branch of the National League for Women Voters of which Mrs. Charles E. Curry is president, held the first class in its citizenship school Monday afternoon at Central library, at which time 43 women registered for the class. This registration is considered very satisfactory for the opening season as many women who are planning to join later were busy with the Y. W. C. A. campaign and the music convention. Miss Elizabeth Wilson spoke on "Why Women Need Political Education More Than Men."

This afternoon Miss Wilson is talking to the class on "The Home and Local Government." This evening Dean D. Walter Morton will discuss the means of financing the government.

The classes are open to the public and an invitation is extended to both men and women. The classes are valuable by way of securing knowledge for personal use. A number who are taking the course will later give their services to teaching in the citizenship schools which the league proposes to establish in the school houses of the city.

D. W. Griffith Injured
As the result of rather painful injuries received while taking scenes on the Connecticut river for "Way Down East," David W. Griffith is under the care of a physician at his apartments in a New York hotel. While setting off a charge of dynamite near White River Junction, Vermont, one of Mr. Griffith's workmen came perilously near losing his life in the breaking of a tremendous ice jam. In attempting to warn the man of his danger, the producer slipped and fell into the river, striking his head on his face just below the eye and receiving a number of lacerations on the right leg.

notices

THAT, for a "dry" town, Portland seems to be the scene of a distressingly large share of tragedy and sorrow caused by liquor.

That death, disgrace and degradation lurk in the path and trail in the wake of the bootlegger.

That this is the last oyster month of the season.

That there's a happy family of little kittens in a store window on Oak street.

That every one of them is bob-tailed.

That there are a couple of vacant storerooms down town.

That it's remarkable to have someone's umbrella drip down the back of your shoe at the movies.

That some people are worrying already about the "seven rainy Sundays."

That we'd rather look forward to sunny Sundays and take a chance on being disappointed.

That there's a sign in a Fifth street furniture store advertising "rest full" sleep.

That it doesn't tell how a fellow can get that way.

Dear Stroller:

You are discovered!

I know there was something familiar about that child with the beautiful curls, and at once I thought of The Stroller's Titian. Then, when the little woman who makes fine marmalade in everything said, "Jerry, Jerry, come here," and "Jerry" didn't come, then "Dad" spoke to "Jerry" and "Jerry" obeyed. I knew that name "Jerry," and knew the little girl was the real Titian. There was the "littlest one," too, and "Dad" with his cap and the express wagon.

Congratulations on the family. Now I know you are justified in all you say of them (even "Jerry" is a reality), for I saw the whole "Stroller" family.

I am anxious to hear what you gleaned for your column on your walk up 49th Sunday eve, about 6.

Sincerely,
The Lady With the Cap On in the Window.

Dear "Cap Lady":

Sure enough, that was us. Half a dozen times I saw you on Sunday afternoon when we remarked to the little woman who wears our old hat when she's hanging out the clothes. "If anyone out this way ever reads The Stroller column and hears us pageling 'Jerry' all the time, we'll sure enough be discovered," and sure enough we were. Really, it's quite exciting for us, and this a. m. as soon as we read your letter we had to call the l. w. up and tell her about it, and she laughed right in our ear.

We had quite a time Sunday trying to decide whether or not we should take Jerry in the first place, but it seemed such a shame to leave him alone that we let him go. It was his first experience on the public highways, and once or twice we thought it was going to be his last. He was some kid keeping him out of his own house, and we thought, "The l. w. tried carrying him for awhile, but he wriggled out of her arms. Then the kiddies climbed out of the wagon and we tried to keep the pup in. We must have looked very dignified, pulling the pup with the family trailing along behind; but it didn't last long, because he jumped out first class in his citizenship school, and every time he'd climb up an embankment or investigate a by-path in the brush the Littlest One would want to go, too; so, all in all, it was quite a thrilling expedition.

We finally got started home, however, and we headed for an unpaved road, where there weren't any automobiles, and where we could take our time and where the Titian could pick trilliums, and where, while hanging onto the wagon with one hand, he could put our other arm around the l. w. without attracting undue attention.

And we noticed that the grocery store up on 57th isn't open on Sunday afternoon, so we couldn't buy bread; but the drugstore next door carries chewing gum and all-day suckers, and the youngsters liked that better, anyway.

P. S.—Jerry usually obeys the missus better than he does us. Sincerely,
R.

Seaplanes to Fly

Washington, April 6.—(U. P.)—Seaplanes able to fly across the Pacific from the United States to Japan will be built within two to five years, Secretary of the Navy Daniels told the senate naval affairs committee today.

"Let's Go" Is Musical
Show

By E. C. L.

"LET'S GO," a riotous musical farce, holding forth at the Alcazar theatre this week, will never be accused of slowness. Speed is its one virtue, and between 10 choruses girls who sing and dance like mad and Miss Gertrude Hutchison, who at moments displays a fair voice, the customers are given a fair round of entertainment.

Gertrude, by the way, is a neat little maid, Auburn hair, big eyes, and neat mannerisms make her very attractive for her role, that of a female detective. Miss Hutchison sings several songs, numbers that give her opportunity to display an interesting voice.

The story concerns a married man and his brother-in-law, who go out "for a right." Unfortunately, they are dishing in a notorious cafe when a murder is committed and a robbery staged. They are suspects, and to their consternation, find they possess certain evidence that might prove damaging to them. Their attempts to dispose of this evidence form the basis of the plot.

The chorus girls are of the pony type, exhibit several changes of wardrobe, and two or three times put over really good numbers.

The book isn't much, the scenery here is much worn, and the company, generally, very fair. The attraction holds forth all week at the Alcazar.

Vaudeville Case Up
To Attorney General

Washington, April 5.—(U. N. S.)—Evidence which the federal trade commission has gathered in connection with the complaint against vaudeville managers' concerns were referred today to the department of justice for consideration and possible action. The evidence was taken in hearings in connection with the citations of the Vaudeville Managers' Protective association, the national Vaudeville Artists, Inc., the United Booking Offices, the Vaudeville Collection agency, E. S. Albee, Sam L. Scribner, Marcus Loew, Martin Beck, B. S. Moss and Shlme Silverman, all of New York city. The commission decided that the complaint against vaudeville managers' had not been sustained, but that the evidence should be brought to the attention of the attorney general for consideration.

Forest Grove Hi
Is to Entertain

Forest Grove, Or., April 6.—A song show, "The Lass of Limerick Town," is to be staged by the Forest Grove high school Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. The affair will be held in the Pacific university auditorium and is under the direction of Miss Annabelle Taylor. Those in the cast are: Walter Lenhewitt, Elizabeth Tucker, Fred Patton, Helen Bishop, Mildred Maple, Fred Patton, Henry Karpenstein, Ruth Cozine, Victor Adams, Wilbur Lamb, Arthur McCoy, Agnes Penanga, Don Woods.

Al Jolson in London
The London Times recently printed this interesting bit of information: Lee Shurtz, the head of the firm of Shurtz Bros., is at present visiting England. It is said that the concern in the theatres in which it is interested, from New York to San Francisco, employs in its capacity or another $40,000 people every year. He is accompanied by Al Jolson, a black-faced comedian, who has achieved a big reputation in the United States, but has never yet played in this country.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES
But Hooty didn't bother him, for Hooty was finding plenty to eat these days, both for himself and his growing family, and though Hooty does not object to a dinner of Skunk when nothing else is to be had, he prefers other things.

Jimmy Skunk was homeless. Any way, that is the way he felt. Of course he was (try his heels), because he had the old house he had lived in for a year. But a house isn't always a home. No, indeed, a house isn't always a home. That is the way it was with Jimmy Skunk. He couldn't understand it. But he heeded Mrs. Skunk's warning and kept away from the far corner of the Old Orchard.

Being lonely, Jimmy took to wandering about a great deal. Sometimes he came home to sleep in his old house and sometimes he didn't. He became something of a tramp, sleeping wherever he could find a little bit of comfort in the dark place. He visited the Old Pasture and hunted for fat beetles there. He wandered all over the Green Meadows, digging out white crabs from the grass roots and thus being of real service to Farmer Brown, though he didn't know it. He even went way over to the shore of the Big Bear and made a good dinner of a dead fish he found there.

Wandering about in this way Jimmy Skunk learned many secrets. He found the home of Reddy Fox. He found the slippery slide of Little Joe Otter. He learned where Unc' Billy Possum and Bobby Coon were making their home. He discovered that old Mr. Toad had come all the way from Farmer Brown's garden down to the Smiling Pool.

He discovered that old Mr. Toad had come all the way from Farmer Brown's garden down to the Smiling Pool.

Those two-legged creatures called men. But not so Jimmy Skunk. Jimmy wasn't afraid. Instead, he was rather curious. He met Farmer Brown's boy in the Long Lane that led to the cornfield. Farmer Brown's boy stopped as soon as he saw Jimmy. Jimmy chuckled. "I'll make him run," said Jimmy to himself, and ambled along straight toward Farmer Brown's boy.

He just stood perfectly still. Jimmy looked surprised. He raised his big bushy tail a little, which is his signal of warning. Farmer Brown's boy smiled and didn't mind. Jimmy kept right on toward him. It was plain that Farmer Brown's boy didn't intend to get out of his way. This was a new experience to Jimmy and he didn't know just what to make of it. He didn't know whether to be angry or not. He stopped in front of Farmer Brown's boy and stamped his feet fiercely and he growled. It was a funny little growl.

Farmer Brown's boy spoke softly. "You can't scare me that way, Jimmy," said he. "You know I won't hurt you and I know you won't hurt me as long as I don't frighten you."

Jimmy stopped growling and stamping his feet and walked right up and smelled of Farmer Brown's boy; and right then he knew that they were to be friends.

Miss Josephine Poulkes was hostess for an informal tea and musical at her home this afternoon honoring Percy Grainger, the Australian pianist, and his mother, Mrs. Grainger, who are in the city.

A Reed college elopement is Cupid's latest triumph at the local institution. William Grout, son of Superintendent Grout of the Portland school, and Cecelia Stabler, both students at Reed, motored to Yamhill county April 1, and without the knowledge of parents or friends, eloped. The romance began at Reed last semester when Miss Stabler entered as a freshman. Grout has been specializing in physics at Reed and his work testing motor oils and gas in the college laboratory has won statewide attention. He conducted demonstrations at Corvallis and at Goldendale, Wash., before tractor conventions and he recently accepted a position with the Waverley Oil company. Mr. and Mrs. Grout will make their home in Portland.

A card party will be given by Lincoln-Garfield Relief Corps No. 13 at room 525 courthouse Friday at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

George Wright Women's Relief Corps No. 2 will meet in room 525 courthouse Wednesday evening promptly at 8 o'clock. A large attendance is desired as there will be business of importance under consideration.

The regular monthly meeting of Camella Social club will be held Thursday evening of this week, at the home of Mrs. Ethel Graham, 1172 East Twenty-second street north. Mrs. Laws, Mrs. M. J. Fowler, Mrs. J. H. and Mrs. Tinker will assist the hostess.

Mrs. J. G. Lehman of 642 1/2 Eighth street, Sunday entertained a number of friends Tuesday in honor of her niece, Mrs. W. L. Goetz of Buffalo, N. Y. A waffle luncheon was served. Those present, in addition to the guest of honor, were Mrs. W. L. Goetz, Mrs. Boudeson, Mrs. J. Budd and Mrs. E. Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pound are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son, born April 2 at the Portland Woman's hospital.

The Easter dance to be given Thursday evening at the Irvington clubhouse by the Community Service Girls' club promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the series of social dances which this organization is holding. A number of prominent Irvington women will act as patronesses. The serving of refreshments will be a feature of the affair. Hostesses for the evening will be the following members of the club:

Misses Pauline Kramer, Veronica White, Lucy Duke, Winifred Laird, Gladys Giesey, Helen Rook, Ann Mueller, Grace Buysars, Florence Joye, Marjorie Frost, Elise LaRoche, Alice Heffron, La Vona Melching, Freda Wilson, Maude Johnson, Mrs. E. G. Eldridge, Mrs. McDonald, Alice Millard, Emma Diverbach, Estelle Armitage, Marie Gilmore, Sue Vaughn, Gladys Bean, Gladness Murray, Helen Randall, Ethel Hill, A. E. Goetz, Mrs. Rose Stamm, Ruby McKinley, Mary Mayo, Eva Conser, Mary Cathigan, Welster, Montclair, Mrs. Frances Johnson, Mrs. Goldie Newman, Mrs. Albertina Subner, Mrs. Bonners, Mrs. Condey, Mrs. Louise Gibbons.

The six chapters of P. E. O. Sisterhood met at Multnomah hotel for luncheon Monday. A business meeting was held in the gray room and the affiliated chapters were organized into the Portland council of P. E. O. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Jones, chapter A, Portland; Mrs. Zollinger, chapter M, vice president; Mrs. Verry, chapter C, recording secretary; Mrs. Haney, chapter N, treasurer; Mrs. Carter, chapter F, and Mrs. Peemster, chapter E, executive board.

Mrs. Belle T. Hoge and daughter, Miss Jessie Mary Hoge, left Monday night for Long Beach, Cal., for an extended stay. During the last week they have been the center of many social affairs, including a large reception at the First Congregational church, a function given by the choir of Sunnyside Congregational church of which Miss Hoge has been a prominent member, and a given Monday by Mrs. Charles T. Hoge. Mrs. Hoge has for many years been identified with the foreign missionary activities of the Congregational church and now holds the position of president of the foreign mission board.

Miss Gladys Slog of Seattle became the bride of J. H. Slog this city Sunday afternoon. The service was held at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. George A. Hamblen, in East Forty-ninth street, at 3 o'clock, the Rev. H. Edward Mills officiating. The rooms were decorated in Easter, with lilacs, roses. The bride wore a smart gown of white crepe georgette and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served.

Wooden Shoes
Make Appearance
In New York City

New York, April 6.—The wooden shoes for women's use are here.

Six pairs of them were paraded on Fifth avenue by chorus girls selected from "Happy Days," "Apple Blossoms" and "The Night Boat." The Holand wooden shoes are to be introduced here to combat the steadily rising prices of leather footwear. Those worn by the chorus delegation were the real thing, made in Holland, similar to the models now on their way to this country.

The various specimens exhibited came in a variety of designs of natural wood with three shades of color and two color combinations. Rev. E. O. Eldridge of the church of the Holy Trinity, 100 West 11th street, said that the wooden shoes, sold at $2 a pair, are not so clumsy and ugly as the world has made them out to be. It is quite possible that the sanity and awakening of this country will be so aroused to the utility thereof that the imported article will become a serious competitor to the products which our patriotic shoe dealers are offering at blood curdling prices.

City Engineer Weds
Seaside, April 6.—Elmer Lebeck and Miss Lillian Hazel Linville were married Sunday, Rev. E. O. Eldridge officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lebeck will make their home in Seaside, where Lebeck is city engineer.

The special meeting of Washington lodge, F. and A. M., was held Monday night at 28 1/2 Third street, and East Burnside streets. The degree of Master Mason was given under the direction of A. H. S. Hoffenden. Many visitors were present.

The Maccabees grand ball Thursday night at 409 1/2 Alder street is expected to bring out many worthy knights and ladies of the order.

Willamette lodge, A. F. and A. M., Monday night at Pythian building was entertained by a special program given by W. R. Boone. Refreshments were served after the close of the lodge.

Sunnyside chapter, Order Eastern Star, held its regular meeting Monday night at the Sunnyside Masonic temple and conferred degrees. A large attendance was present.

Ivanhoe homestead, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, will hold a most important meeting Wednesday night at N. or W. hall, Tenth and Taylor streets. All members are urged to attend.
