Railroad Track to Heart of St. Helens Facilitates Shipping

St. Helens, April 7.—The railroad track of the St. Helens Dock & Terminal company has been completed to the yard of the St. Helens Lumber company and for the first time in the history of St. Helens cars are being loaded in the downtown district. Ten box and flat cars are on the tracks at the loading platform. While St. Helens is located on the railroad, the station is in the western part of the city, in what was formerly Houlton, and about a mile from the riverfront.

The new railroad line is more than a mile long and is built over the Frogmore slough and flats to a connection with the logging railroad of the Milton Creek Logging company at its railway on Williams street. The logging railroad connects with the S. P. & S. line at Corniak, a short distance south of the depot. The Dock & Terminal company owns its own equipment and also has two large steam cranes for use in loading and switching. The railroad track crosses Frogmore slough on a drawbridge, necessitated because the plan of the Columbia Contract company is located on the slough, and barges and river boats pass through the draw.

Bolshevism to Be Subject of Speech by President Barrows

Barrows, president of the University of California, will speak on "Bolshevism and the Soviet Government" at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday noon, under the auspices of the Oregon Civic League. Law Covering City Garages to Remain In Building Code

The city council Tuesday decided not to suspend the provision of the building code which makes it obligatory for all garages to be operated only in fire-proof buildings. Garage men have asked for some time that the council allow an additional year to comply with the law which becomes effective this month. This morning they stated that if the council did not grant the extension many would be forced out of business. The council agreed to consider each case separately, that owners might be given reasonable time to make required alterations.

I. O. O. F. Will Hold Record Ceremonial

Star lodge, I. O. O. F., will meet Thursday evening at the Pythian building, West Park and Yamhill, in the large hall, to confer the first and second degrees upon the largest class of Odd Fellows ever received by any lodge in the state. It is expected that 110 candidates will take the degree work, under command of Inspector Wright of the Portland police force, and a team of 24 Odd Fellows, with full ceremonial detail. Star lodge is looking for a building site, preferably in Killingsworth avenue, west of Union avenue, and its officers and membership feel confident that they will have a temple erected and occupied "before some others get through talking about it."

About 50 new tables were sent to Eagle Creek campgrounds Monday under the supervision of H. G. Drouth Predicted During Summer if Rains Do Not Come

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, April 7.—Summer drouth, predicted at the beginning of last month on account of the shortage in rainfall, is still threatening in spite of heavy rainfall during March, according to the soils department of the college, which has charge of the local weather bureau. Specialists of the soils department are hoping that the precipitation this month will exceed the normal in order to balance the season's rain. Conditions during the summer will be critical, it is predicted, if this does not happen.

Match Company Buys

Spokane, Wash., April 7.—The Diamond Match company of Spokane has purchased approximately $500,000 worth of timber land in Pend d'Oreille county of Washington and will build two mills to cut the timber. These mills will cost about $30,000 each.

Walkout of Fifty Workmen Fails to Close Down Mills
