

PRINTERS AMPLE FOR CITY'S NEED, DECLARES UNION

Declaring there to be an adequate supply of journeymen printers in the city to meet the needs of the printing trades, and asserting it to be the duty of the employer to instruct apprentices with private funds, Multnomah Typographical Union No. 58, has filed a petition with the school board which takes issue in part with the petition urging the establishment of a department of printing at the Benson Polytechnic school which was presented to the board a week ago by the Portland Newspaper Publishers' association and the Portland branch of the United Typothetae.

BOARD ADOPTS POLICY

After a hearing on the petition of the employing printers, the school board adopted a resolution declaring it to be the policy of the board to consider the recommendations of a committee of three authorized to report concerning the equipment and administration of a school of printing. This committee includes a member of the school board, a representative of the Portland Newspaper Publishers' association, and a representative of the United Typothetae. Director Orton is the board member of this committee.

In its petition the Typographical union urges that a representative of the union be included on this committee and suggests that, if the committee be increased to five members, a representative of the Allied Printing Trades Council be added. The Typographical union petition further urges against the discontinuance of the printing department at Jefferson high school.

PRINTERS' UNION STATEMENT

The petition reads in part as follows: We maintain that the number of printers meets the requirements of the industry. As to apprentices, we deny that we in any manner impose restrictions so that at the present time there are only 34 apprentices employed in this city. Your petitioners further maintain that in the past few years the union has found it necessary to insist that employers shall either give their apprentices more thorough instruction or not employ them at all, which may account for the small number employed. But we further maintain that it is the duty of the employer to instruct apprentices with private funds.

400 JOURNEYMEN EMPLOYED

The petition recites that there are at present 400 journeymen printers regularly employed in Portland and 61 journeymen not regularly employed.

The petition continues:

Your petitioners, who have spent many years at the printing business, have made a survey of the printing department of the Jefferson high school of this city, and have ascertained the following facts: That there is now available room for linotype machines and such additional equipment as would be needed to bring that department up-to-date as a vocational school (insofar as printing is concerned) there is also room for bindery, where girls could be instructed in that branch. We admit additional equipment should be purchased, but that that school lacks either necessary curriculum, or competent instructors, as your committee is informed a complete vocational course has been planned under the direction of Hopkin Jenkins, one of the best known principals of the Northwest, and was filed in April, 1918, with the superintendent of schools, and, we are informed, approved as a course coming under the congressional Smith-Hughes act.

COMPETENCY NOT ISSUE

As to the competency of the instructors, their work for the school district speaks for them, and we submit that if they have been incompetent, the reflection would be equally upon your honorable board for retaining them, as we are informed they have continued in the employ of the school board for the past five years and more, without one word of complaint.

Your petitioners respectfully submit that taxpayers' money should not be used to move the printing department from where it is now located in the Jefferson high school for the following reasons:

At the Benson school girls would be prohibited from receiving instruction (seven girls, we are informed, are now studying printing at Jefferson). Women are employed on linotype machines and in the proof room of both the Oregonian and The Journal, and in the proof room of the Telegram and The News, and girls should be equally entitled to receive this instruction, if they so desire.

REPRESENTATION IS ASKED

And your petitioners respectfully request, in the interest of fair play to all concerned, that a member of this union, and if your honorable board desired to make the committee five, another member of the union, be added to the number, making up the committee appointed to investigate the needs of the printing industry at this time.

Respectfully submitted,

W. E. KIMSLEY,
President Multnomah Typographical Union No. 58.

GEORGE H. HOWELL,
Secretary Multnomah Typographical Union No. 58.

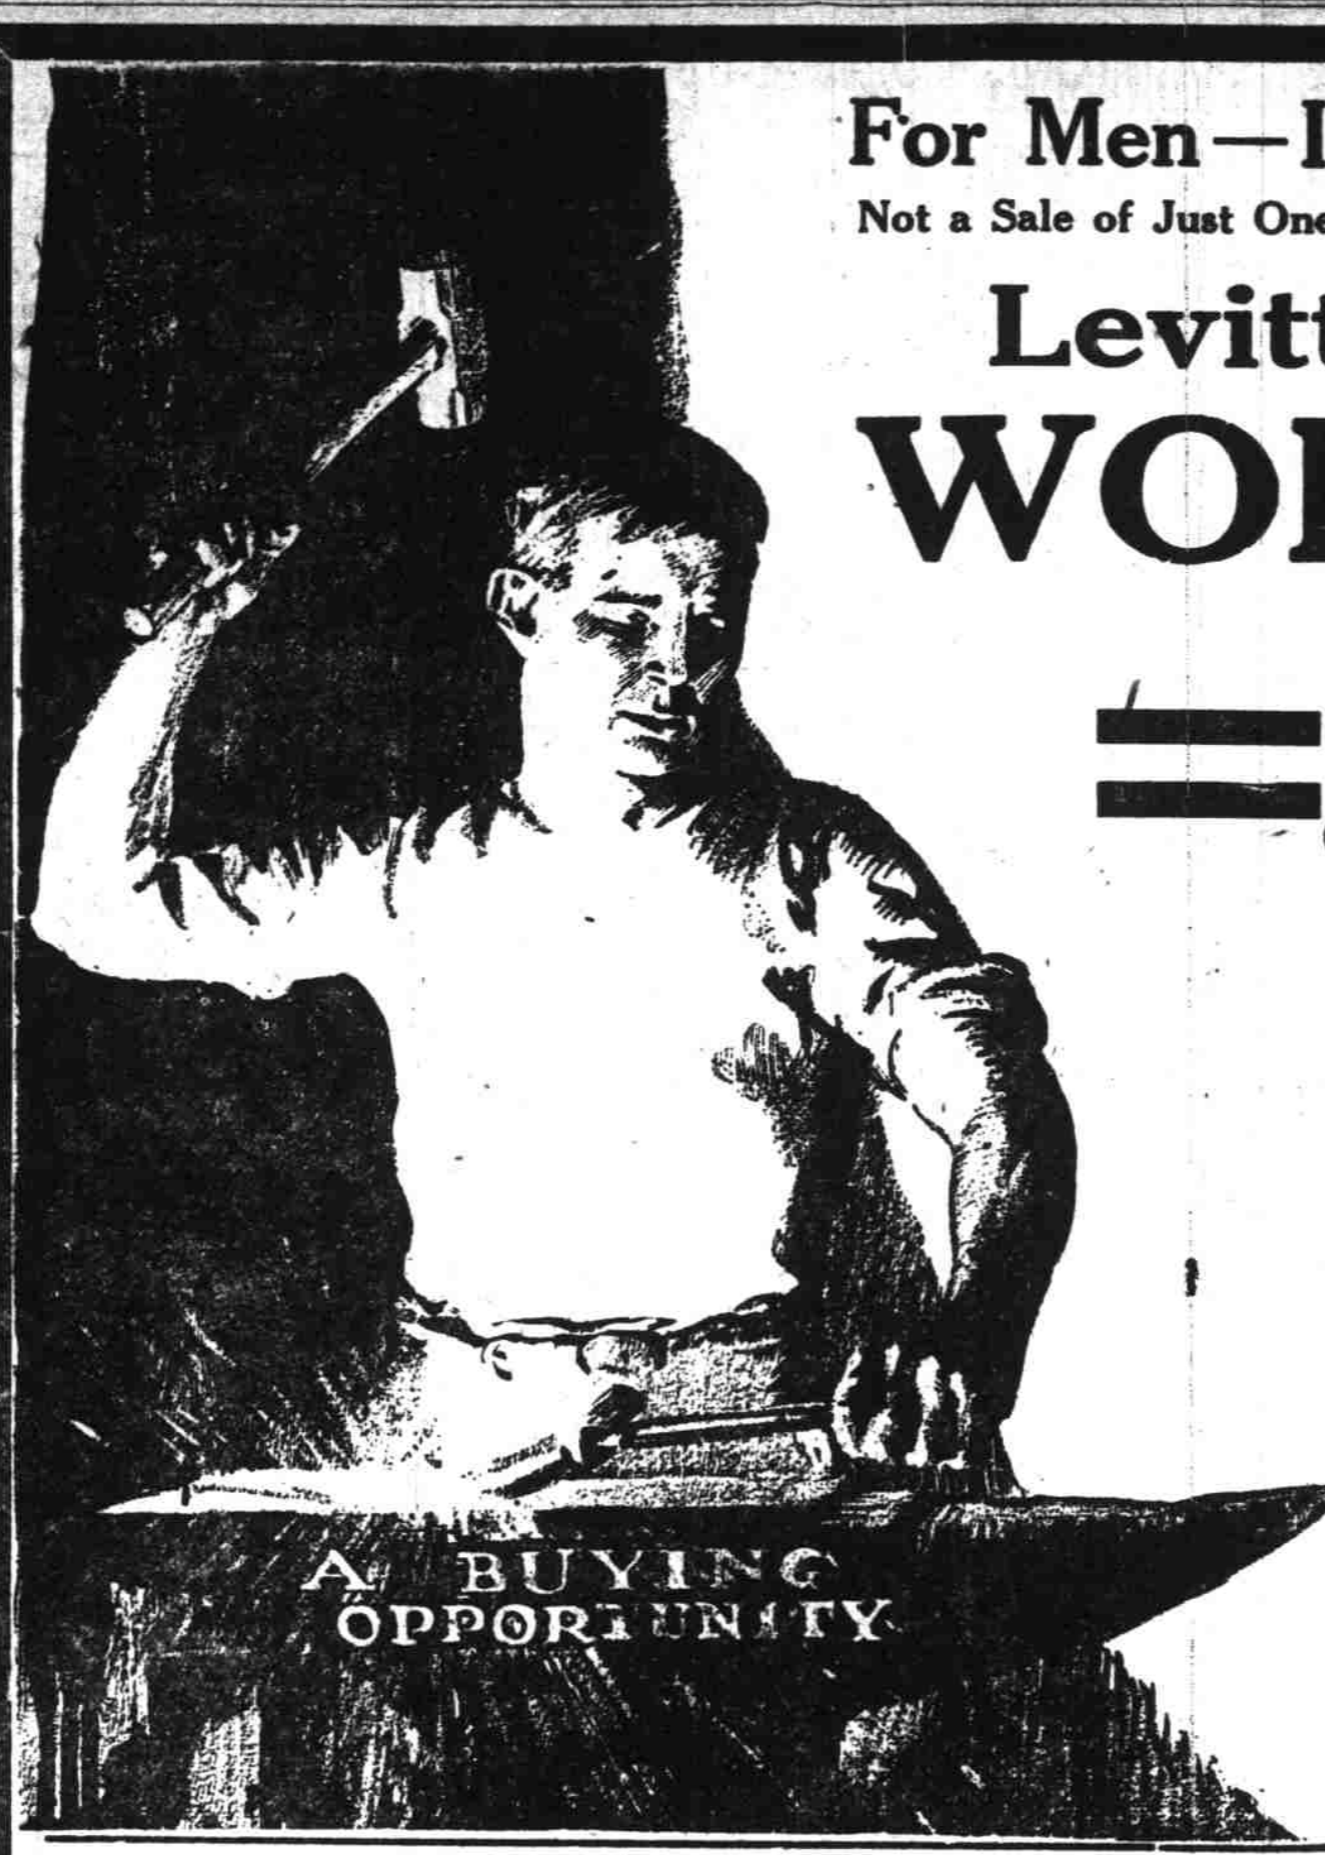

Consideration of this petition will be given by the school board at its meeting Thursday evening.

Let's Get Together, Men and Work

What a glorious opportunity rests in the palm of patriotic American men today. Let us one and all strive for commercial supremacy—strain every effort to broaden the scope of our industrial prestige—let us do this by work—indefatigable work—for the common good of all Americans.

Are we working with the same vim, vigor and valiant effort as we fought? Are we holding the prestige in the eyes of the world that we won by our valorous and efficient performances during the war? Are we doing today for America what we achieved for the world? We know how to fight—and we fought well—but are we working well—with 100 per cent efficiency and perseverance?

Let's not let other nations overtake us in industrial progress. Let's work because of our superior opportunities, resources and advantages. Let's work for American leadership—let's make America the ideal country in which to live.

Let's work, not for ourselves, but for our country. Let's work, not for today, but for posterity. But let's get together, men, and work, work, work.
