Miss Blagen Is Made Bride of C. Westenhaber

THE residence of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Blagen, "Five Acres," was the scene of a small gathering Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Celeste Virginia, was married to Charles Ewing Westenhaber of Aberdeen, Wash. The rooms were decorated in ferns and spring blossoms. Virginia Blagen, as flower girl, led the bridal party. She was followed by Miss Ruth McKenney of Seattle, as bridesmaid, gowning in pink and white crepe meteor and carrying a shower bouquet of orchids roses. The altar was fashioned of palms and Madonna lilies and made an effective background for the bridal party. The bride was gowning in white satin, cut with a train and trimmed with Venetian point lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by a silver band. Her bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. The service was read by the Rev. William Waldo of the White Temple. Robert Westenhaber, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Little Virginia Blagen, as flower girl, wore a frock of palest green tulle. Following the ceremony a supper was served in the sun-room, which was decked with orchids roses. Mrs. Walter O. Haines and Mrs. George Cornwall presided and were assisted in serving by the Misses Marian and Margaret Bolin, Mrs. James Gillis and Mrs. Orlo Hossack.

The bride is a daughter of N. J. Blagen, well known lumberman of the Northwest. Mr. Westenhaber, a young business man of Aberdeen, is a Delta Chi of Stanford university. The young people left for a month's trip through British Columbia, after which they will make their home in Aberdeen, Wash.
