Mrs. Jane Hooser, a resident of Portland for the past year, died at her home, 578 Bidwell avenue, early this morning, following an extended illness. She was a native of Grant county, Wisconsin, and was nearly 74 years old at her death, which is mourned by many friends who had admired her for her sterling qualities.

Mrs. Hooser is survived by her husband, J. Hooser; Lorean Cooley, a daughter, and one son, who is employed on one of the shipping board vessels.

Dr. Harold Leonard Bowman, pastor of the popular Woodlawn Park Presbyterian church at Chicago, has formally accepted the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Portland, and will deliver his first sermon in the city on July 11, according to the announcement read to the congregation of First church Sunday.

In the interim Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston will remain for some weeks, and later Dr. John H. Boyd, former pastor, will return from McCormick Theological seminary to occupy the local pulpit until Dr. Bowman arrives.

First church congregation has manifested much interest in the advent of the youthful Chicago pastor, in whom the official board believes it has found a man peculiarly suited to local conditions and a man who will be an inspiration to continued upbuilding along the progressive lines outlined during Dr. Boyd's pastorate here.

Pool Hall Door Is Pried Off and $70 Is Taken by Thief

The door to the pool hall operated at 90 North Fifth street by U. Kokoyama was found pried loose from its hinges Sunday morning when the Japanese entered his place of business. About $70 had been taken from the safe and $20 from the cash register. The police were unable to determine whether or not the safe had been opened by an expert, or left open when the place was closed Saturday night.

H. G. Sohin, 1011 East Franklin street, reported that his house had been ransacked early Sunday morning and a quantity of jewelry taken. Entrance was gained through a window.

An easily satisfied prowler it was who investigated the home of H. B. Watts, 861 East Twenty-sixth street, late Saturday night. Although the entire house was ransacked, nothing was taken except 50 cents, found in a purse. Watts told the police he was returning home about 11 p. m. when he saw a light in the house. As he entered the light was put out. The prowler escaped by the back entrance.
