MOTHER ARRAYED AGAINST DAUGHTER IN PROPERTY SUIT

Mother is arrayed against daughter in a trial in progress today before Circuit Judge Tazwell. Title to property is involved. Mrs. Marie Laffler, a widow, is suing her daughter. Mrs. Margaret Door, and her husband, George Door, for transfer of property which Mrs. Laffler purchased with her own money in the names of the defendants.

She alleges that Christ Laffler, her husband, died last August at Greenwood, Wis., leaving the daughter $200, the widow $3000, and the balance of his estate to a nephew. She says her daughter went to the home in Wisconsin and persuaded her to come to live with her and her husband in Oregon and that after arrival an agreement was reached whereby she was to use $2525 to buy a home for all of them, and they were to the property would become the possession of the daughter.

She says that after the place was purchased, she wished to make a payment of $58 on a monument for her husband's grave, and asked Mrs. Dorr for the but was refused, assaulted and beaten, and ordered out of the house. It was immediately thereafter, Mrs. Laffler says, that she discovered that the property stood in the names of the de-

Prosecution in the future will cover those cases where it is shown that there has been a flagrant violation of the Warnings will be given those found with a small amount of liquor in their possession with no intention that its sale is intended.

In more than 100 cases tried in the federal court convictions were secured in but five or six cases, and this led to an investigation by District Attorney Adams.

Another factor in the change in polcy was the recent supreme court decision holding that evidence in the form of liquor taken from a person cannot used unless a search warrant had first been issued authorizing the search. According to federal authorities the new policy contemplates no let up on bootleggers, who will be prosecuted as
