Huge Audience Hears Ornstein

Fully 5000 persons assembled at the Auditorium Tuesday night to hear Leo Ornstein, the young pianist who created such a sensation in New York a couple of years ago through his compositions, which were pronounced of the outlandish school or ultra futurist. He played two of his own works at what was his debut here, and they were received with enthusiastic acclaim. His prelude "Tragedy" opened the program and later on he played his "Impressions of Chinatown" in which he demonstrated unequal talent in painting with tone colors pictures of what all who have eyes can see but few know how to adequately and vividly describe. Ornstein is a romantic player and plays a velvety, singing tone. Schuman's "Arabesque" was a delightful dream. Other composers represented on the program were Beethoven, Liszt, Chopin, Debussy and Scott. The recital was complimentary and the purpose was to demonstrate the wonderful progress made in the perfection of the self-playing piano, which reproduces exactly the touch and phrasing of the player whose work is recorded. Ornstein records were introduced. The concert was given jointly by Lipman, Wolfe & Co. and the G. F. Johnson Piano Company.

Fraternal Notes

Monday evening Ivanhoe lodge, K. of P. of this city, accompanied by the patrol, band and staff and many members and knights of other lodges, visited Vancouver. The degree was conferred with uniformed rank companies from Vancouver, Camas and Ridgefield, led by the K. of P. band and many representatives from lodges. It was seven blocks long. The degree work was given in knight rank by Ivanhoe lodge. After the ceremonial there was a feast such as fraternal orders used to have before the war.

Anchor council, Security Benefit association, Tuesday evening at W. O. W. temple conferred the degree work upon a class of 15 and served refreshments.

The United Artisans Friday night will give a free dance and serve Mexican refreshments at their hall, Killingsworth and Albina avenues. There will be prizes and a musical program.

Samaritan lodge, I. O. O. F., will initiate a class of candidates this evening at the temple, First and Alder streets.

Ivanhoe lodge, Knights of Pythias, Tuesday night conferred knight rank upon a class of 14.

Fram assembly, United Artisans, Tuesday night held a most interesting athletic exhibit followed by a dance at the Pacific States hall.

Columbia society, Children of the American Revolution, will meet with Mrs. Robert S. Farrell, 906 Lovejoy street, Saturday at 2 p. m.

Oregon assembly, United Artisans, Tuesday evening gave a dance after a short closed session.

Women Guests At Rug Shop Display

By Vella Winaer TRUE Armenian hospitality was extended Tuesday to the members of the Portland Federation of Women's organizations, when the home industries committee, of which Mrs. D. M. Watson is chairman, sponsored a visit to the rug shop of Cartozian brothers on Washington street. The work of mending, repairing and laundering of various kinds was demonstrated. Hovsep Cartozian displayed several rare rugs, some having belonged to royalty, some used as gifts of brides to their bridesmaids. The rugs attracted many on-lookers on the home life and customs of his people.

During the exhibition Turkish coffee and Armenian sweetmeats were served. More than 50 women enjoyed the visit and are anticipating the next visit to the W. J. Ball waist factory and the new milk concern into which the old Gambirinus brewery has been converted.

The auxiliary to the American Legion, post 1, has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. W. A. Elvers; first vice president, Mrs. George L. White; second vice president, Mrs. A. Goodall; recording secretary, Mrs. Maggie Johnson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. L. Donaka; treasurer, Mrs. George W. Fauss; historian, Mrs. F. Wheeler; executive committee, Mrs. F. C. Norris, Mrs. Dow V. Walker and Mrs. A. Sorenson.

The April luncheon of the Portland Woman's Research club will be held in the Hotel Belmont, Monday, April 26. Of importance to the members is the annual election of officers on that date. Dr. A. A. Morrison will speak on "Our Nation's Present Problems" and W. J. Kerr will present "Higher Education." Mrs. W. H. Chatten, contralto, and Albert Creitz, violinist, will be heard in solos. A duet will be sung by Mrs. E. A. Cordy, soprano, and Mrs. C. L. Feibler, contralto. A number of candidates for the coming primary election will give three minute talks. Mrs. M. H. McClung will preside. For reservations call Main 3576, Tabor 791 or Tabor 1385.

The meeting of the Women's Advertising club Tuesday night, at the Benson hotel, was an enthusiastic affair, due to the fact that C. F. Berg spoke on matters of interest to the club advertising, merchandising and convention affairs. The musical program was furnished by Miss Bernice Mathison, violinist, accompanied by her sister, Margaret. Mrs. Alexander Thompson also gave a short talk. The monthly dinner of the club will be held Tuesday evening, April 27, at the Benson. Monday, April 26, will be a minute of higher education. The regular meeting of the Portland Railroad Woman's club will be held Friday afternoon, Monday, April 26, at the library.

Colored People in Film An interesting innovation in the making of pictures is promised in the plan of Charles Bond, who is about to produce pictures with casts chosen exclusively from colored people. The plan is more of an educational and artistic venture than a commercial one. It has never been tried before.

During April four Goldwyn pictures will be released. They are Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," Gertrude Farrar in "The Woman and the Puppet," Gertrude Atherton's "The Tower of Ivory," and Tom Moore in "The Great Accident." All of these productions have been completed at Goldwyn's Culver City studios. In "The Silver Horde," Rex Beach was said to have written his screen masterpiece.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES Jimmy Has the Surprise of His Life By Thornton W. Burgess Surprise may be good or bad. May frighten you or make you glad. Remember this and always plan a good surprise where you can. JIMMY SKUNK was so happy over the warm welcome Mrs. Skunk had given him and in knowing that he need no longer live alone that he didn't say one word to her about how mean and unfair he thought she had been by taking possession of Johnny Chuck's old house there in the far corner of the Old Orchard, after he, Jimmy, had led her to it, and then sending him back to live alone in their old house. He had meant to, but before he had time to say a lot. But now he was too happy to remember any of these things. When Mrs. Skunk told Jimmy that he was the handsomest skunk in the great world, Jimmy shook his head. "No, I'm not," said her. "I know one a great deal handsomer." "That isn't possible," declared Mrs. Skunk. "There isn't a handsomer skunk living than you, Jimmy." "You are mistaken, my dear, very much mistaken," retorted Jimmy. "I am looking right at a handsomer one this very minute." As Jimmy was looking right at Mrs. Skunk she couldn't help knowing who he meant. "You are a flatterer," said she. "Now come along over to the house where we live and see for yourself." Jimmy was quite ready and willing. The truth is he was anxious to see the inside of that house since Mrs. Skunk had moved in. So he promptly led the way over to the house between the roots of the old apple tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard. He was so eager to see the inside that he forgot to be polite and started to enter first. Mrs. Skunk pushed him aside. "You can't go in there now," said she rather sharply. "You stay right out here on the doorstep. Don't you dare put your foot inside. Before Jimmy could ask her why not she disappeared down the long hall. Jimmy sat stupidly staring after her. He was hurt and he was completely upset. He didn't understand it at all. Hadn't she just told him that he was to live there with her? How was he to do that if she wouldn't allow him in the house? It was too much for him. He was altogether too much for him. He had a notion to go off, way off somewhere, and never come back. But before he had time to do any such foolish thing as that he heard queer noises down inside the house. Plainly Mrs. Skunk was talking. She wasn't talking to him. Who could she be talking to? Could it be that she had another mate down there? The very thought made Jimmy angry. Now the

THE Stroller notices

THAT Portland is going to shine for the Shriners. That we will do our share in welcoming them, but we hope it won't be a case of "hail, hail," like it was yesterday. That we want joy to reign supreme. That if the wearing of overalls becomes a regular habit, the price of denim will soar accordingly. That then those of us who can't keep up with the fashions will have to wear silks and satins. That we have a couple of new shirts. That it doesn't add to the prestige and general atmosphere of a motion picture theatre to have the manager standing around in the foyer smoking cigarettes. That it's better done in a certain Portland house. That the local baseball season was to have opened today. That the rain naturally dampened the enthusiasm of the fans. That chains in time may save a crash against the curb. That the door-bell always furnishes a thrill when it rings in the middle of the night. That we'd rather sleep than be thrilled.

Here We Are Again

Here's another contributor who would like to see the whole S— family having a place in the column, and the original from which this was made, was all pretty colored 'n' everything. S' more tomorrow.

"Discovered" — Again

Dear Stroller: At last I have found out who you are, where you live, your phone number and even your wife's name. You sign many of your answers S—. R., don't you? Well, a while back you admitted that your name was Sam, and many times you have said that you are a chip off the old block. Anyway, one of your criticisms of a road show was placed next to your column with a "By S. R. J." Now with a little surmising and a few other things I was able to gather all of my information. I asked no member of the Journal staff who you are, but worked the whole thing out for myself. If I am correct please acknowledge this letter through your Friday mail, and believe me, Sam, I won't tell a soul. Yours for a secret. PREMIERE. P.
