

EVELYN SAYS SHE MAY WED AGAIN IF RIGHT ONE COMES

By Westbrook Pegler
United News Staff Correspondent
New York, April 21.—After running on the rocks of two matrimonial voyages, Evelyn Nesbit-Thaw-Clifford still thinks she might go to sea again if the right sort of shipmate should come along at the right time.

Of course she isn't divorced from her former dancing partner, Jack Clifford, yet, but she expects to be and after that—she might.

"What do you think of matrimony by now?"

VAMPED BY FIVE WOMEN

The stage beauty, heroine of the most sensational murder trial ever held in New York, struck a pose for a photographer, and held still for an instant while the camera clicked, before answering:

"Oh, I don't know," she smiled. "I hate to say 'never again' as so many others have done, because you can't tell about the future from here. I might and I might not. Anyway, it won't be for a long time."

"You want to know what ails Jack Clifford? Well, he was vamped; yes, sir, vamped, not by one woman but by five women. But the one who vamped him worst was a movie vamp who once played in the same film with me."

LIED TO HIS FLAME

"And such nerve he had; told her he owned an estate up in the mountains and the lodge on it. Seven thousand acres he told her it was. In the first place it wasn't his by rights at all, but mine, and in the second place, it was only 160 acres."

"I gave him the money to go and buy the place for me. He bought it all right and put the deeds in a safe deposit box in New York. I didn't find out until the taxes came due that he had bought it in his own name instead of in mine."

"That was what caused us to separate. It was three years ago. There were so women in the case then. But there are now five. Charles' les femmes, one was only 17 years old. She lived out in San Francisco."

HE USED HER MONEY

"Jack is so ungrateful. He hasn't got a thing on me in this suit of his for divorce, yet he brings suit after I advanced him thousands of dollars. It was my money—look here—" She ran her gloved fingers over a series of checkstubs—"It was my money that paid for all the scenery of his vaudeville act. See these stubs—fifty-five hundred, fifty-five—assigned by me to pay his scenery alone. This does not include any of the other money I advanced him."

"And what was Jack Clifford in vaudeville, anyway. Only Evelyn Nesbit's dancing partner, that's all. I was the 'act.' It was my name the managers wanted. I signed the contracts and it didn't matter whether my dancing partner was Luke McCluke or Johnny James or George Glutz. Who wanted to see Jack Clifford?"

Evelyn Nesbit says Clifford just "beat her to it" by getting his divorce suit entered before hers, because it was her intention for some time to sue him. She will file her petition soon.

After the divorce, which Evelyn Nesbit expects to win, she said there will be a series of suits against Clifford to recover the money.

A week ago today Miss Bruce arrived in Portland and next Friday, at the home of Taylor's mother, Mrs. Isabel Taylor, 315 Graham avenue, Taylor and Miss Bruce will be married. Miss Bruce made the trip from Scotland alone and is now at the Taylor home. The groom-to-be is a brother of Marshall Taylor, recently manager of the Rivoli theatre.

Washington, April 21.—(U. P.)—The house Tuesday passed the third urgent deficiency bill of the session. It carries $309,000,000, of which $300,000,000 is to be used in winding up the affairs of the railroad administration.

BRUTE AND HUMAN FREEZE TO DEATH IN COLORADO COLD

Denver, Colo., April 21.—(U. P.)—With another blizzard predicted for Colorado tonight, belated reports of the record breaking storm that tied up rail transportation here from Saturday to Monday showed five persons frozen to death and thousands of head of livestock have perished.

Hundreds of volunteer citizens were today helping to dig out the Moffat railroad to Corona, "top of the world," to release snowbound feed for starving cattle.

SOUTHERN TOWNS WIPED OUT; DEATH LOSS IS FIXED AT 150

Memphis, Tenn., April 21.—(U. P.)—Toll of the second disastrous series of wind storms to strike the south this season was being checked today.

Reports reaching here over crippled wires from portions of three states—Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee—where in the path of yesterday's tornado, placed the number of dead at from 100 to 150.

Two entire villages, Rose Hill and Ingomar, Miss., were reported to have been demolished. Other places were badly damaged.

Two separate storms, occurring two hours apart, swept through the central western part of Mississippi, according to reports. The full effects of the first tornado were felt in the country around Aberdeen, Miss., where 20 lives were lost. The second swept across country in the neighborhood of Meridian, the largest town in the state. More than a score of deaths were reported from Meridian.

MOVEMENT NORTHEAST

Both storms moved northeast into Alabama, but the northern storm quickly spent its force after crossing the Mississippi boundary. The tail end of the storm struck southern Tennessee, but with lessened force. Only three deaths were reported in Tennessee.

The southern storm, which did the greatest damage, swept through Lauderdale county, Mississippi, claiming 20 lives at Meridian and doing heavy property damage. It swept on into Neshoba, killed 19 persons at Philadelphia and several in the country around that town. The storm skipped one county and was next reported from Oktibbeha county, where seven were known to have been killed and hundreds of farm houses were wrecked.

The next heavy loss was in Monroe county. Communication with that county was impossible today, but it was believed many lives were lost.

A partial list of dead, collected early today, contained the following: Aberdeen, 20; Bay Springs, 7; Amory, 3; Meridian, 20; Rose Hill, 2; Neshoba county, 19; Clayton, 5; Egypt, 5; Glens, 10; Ingomar, 6; Baker, 5.

Alabama reported the following losses: Colbert county, 4; Madison county, 18; Marion county, 20, and other scattered losses.

52 KILLED AND SEVERAL INJURED IN ALABAMA

Birmingham, Ala., April 21.—(U. P.)—Fifty-two persons are known to have been killed and several hundred injured as the result of a tornado that swept over Northern Alabama Tuesday afternoon. The property loss was above $500,000.

The greatest loss was reported by Hamilton and Marion counties, where 22 persons were killed. The storm apparently centered at Hamilton.

Madison county reported 18 killed and Colbert county reported four deaths. In Franklin county three were killed. Five other dead are reported from scattered sections.

Telephone and telegraph wires in North Alabama were down. Trains were late last night, due to damaged tracks and brought reports of great damage in the northern section of the state.

JUNGE'S BAIL CUT TO $5000; HE IS STILL HELD IN JAIL

Upon representations made by E. V. Littlefield, attorney for August Junge, the bail for Junge was reduced Tuesday from $15,000 to $5,000. The amount required was not forthcoming, however, and Junge remained in jail. It is expected he may be released today.

It is probable he will have a hearing before the grand jury during the present week. It was originally reported the alleged defalcations of Junge would reach close to $100,000, but Deputy District Attorney Maguire, who has been making investigations, indicated Tuesday that the amount involved may not be more than $40,000 or $50,000, based on alleged duplication in sales contracts.

Junge's attorney, after a conference, said that he would advise Junge to plead guilty if he was shown evidence of fraud in Junge's dealings, but that so far he had not seen any such evidence. He declared that the worst phase apparent now was the hasty leaving of Junge.

Junge himself declared that he left Portland while in a mental maze over his tangled affairs. He stated that he and his wife spent many hours trying to locate the auto trucks taken from the salesrooms, and that if he could have had them replaced all would have been well, but that when he found this was impossible he decided to leave.

It was intimated Tuesday that Junge might become a voluntary bankrupt and that the affairs of the agency, of which he was manager, might go into the hands of a receiver.

First Interchurch Conference Opens In Local Campaign

The first of a series of interchurch world movement conferences, under the direction of the Portland Federation of Churches, opened this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the East Side Baptist church. An evening session will begin at 7:30, and Thursday afternoon and evening another conference will be held in the First Congregational church. All sessions are open to the public, as well as the authorized delegates consisting of the pastor and lay representatives of each Portland church cooperating in the interchurch world movement.

The program this afternoon consisted of a presentation of the world survey, discussion of the sphere of the interchurch movement and an outline of the financial campaign which starts April 25. Among the speakers were Dr. J. J. Sullens, Oregon campaign director, Congregational church; Dr. W. T. Milliken, pastor Highland Baptist church; Dr. C. F. Swander, Oregon campaign director, Disciples of Christ; Dr. W. E. Hinson, pastor East Side Baptist church, and Ralph C. McAfee, executive secretary of the church federation.

The federation has charge of the interchurch survey in Portland, now under way, and which, when completed, will afford complete information as to the overlapping of church activities in the city, the overlooked areas and the type of action by Protestant churches considered of the most pressing importance.

SOVIET REFUSED RECOGNITION IN DIPLOMATIC WAY

By William Philip Simms
Washington, April 21.—(I. N. S.)—Regardless of whatever action the "big three" of San Remo might take in regard to soviet Russia, this country has no intention of recognizing her diplomatically at this time.

This information came today from a high authority from whom it also was learned that within a short time a new Russian policy will be adopted by the United States, whereby trade relations may be resumed at the risk of the trader.

At the present time the allied countries refuse to permit trading with soviet Russia, America among the rest. Clearance papers are refused to vessels bearing goods for Russia by virtue of the war time measure making it unlawful to export goods of any kind from the United States to any country, enemy or neutral, "if the public safety shall so require."

EARLY CHANGE EXPECTED

This status, it is understood, will be changed at an early date, American firms, it is said, will shortly be given permission to sell anything they choose to the Russians, providing they do so at their own risk and will not hold the government responsible for losses if losses are incurred in such trade.

When trading is resumed, it is said, it will be between American concerns and the government of soviet Russia, not between American and Russian concerns. And as soon as the Russians are given to understand such relations are no longer taboo a commercial mission, representing soviet Russia, will be sent here to carry on negotiations.

Farming machinery, harvesting machinery, locomotives and similar commodities are what are wanted most from America by the Russians.

CONFERENCE TO BE WATCHED

It is not believed the American government will take action until after the conference of the three prime ministers at San Remo is over. For, while it was announced this country will not be represented, along with Great Britain, France and Italy at this meeting, it is understood that the government will not go entirely without information as to the business transacted there and perhaps a way found for all to act in accord.

It was denied by officials here that the United States contemplated sending to Russia an all-American mission to investigate the soviet government. Secretary of State Colby, however, refused to talk on the subject, one way or another.

At headquarters of the Russian soviet here the belief was expressed that recognition would follow the resumption of trade relations as soon as it was clearly demonstrated the soviet government was a responsible one and lived up to its agreements.
