Puppet Plays Are Sponsored By Society Folk

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND" and "Columbus," the charming fairy stories that have delighted children for years, will be presented by puppets, little images manipulated in a life-like manner by cleverly concealed wires and strings, Friday and Saturday at the Little theatre. The story of Alice will be enacted Friday at 4 and again at 8 and on Saturday "Columbus" will be presented at 4 and again at 8.

The plays, which are sponsored by the Musical Education school, will be presented by the Cornish Players of Seattle, who have been personally trained by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Browne, the latter better known as Ellen Van Volkenburg, who revived puppet plays at the Little Theatre of Chicago a few years ago. The performance of "Alice" and "Columbus," which are equally entertaining for children and adults, are attracting a great deal of attention from society people and others of artistic tastes.

Tickets, which are one dollar for adults and 75 cents for children under 15, including war tax, may be had at Johnson's Music company, 149 Sixth street.

The patronesses for the performances are: Mrs. W. E. Ayer, Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Miss Maud Ainsworth, Mrs. Charles F. Beebe, Miss Susan Bacon, Mrs. William Brewster, Mrs. Harvey H.
