

RECKLESS DRIVERS FORCE OTHERS TO BREAK CITY LAWS

Sane Autoists Have Little Chance to Escape Being Run Into or Taking Another Alternative.

Careful and competent automobile drivers are day after day forced into successive violations of traffic law to avoid machines piloted by irresponsible and reckless operators. They are compelled to go to the left side of the street, to cut corners, to take right of way, and to pass other vehicles improperly in mad rushes to escape untold and recklessly operated cars. They are often forced into accidents by the antics of pedestrians and unfit drivers.

"They have me doing all sorts of tricks with my machine," comments one driver, who tells of three cases in which he narrowly avoided collisions within a few minutes of time.

CAUGHT IN TRAP

He was driving near a car track recently, with a street car ahead and one behind. He attempted to pass to the right of the car between intersections, when suddenly another automobile bound in the opposite direction swerved around the front of the street car directly in the path of the first machine. The second automobile was proceeding on the left side of the thoroughfare between the car and curb. The first driver could not go ahead, nor could he turn in either direction. He, fortunately, was clear of the car track, and was enabled to stop without being gouged in the rear by the oncoming street car.

A few minutes later he neared a truck, horse drawn, near the middle of a block. The truck was in the center of the street, proceeding slowly in the same direction as the automobile. To pass to the left of the truck, the driver would be forced onto the left side of the street. Traffic law forbade him to pass to the right. In his haste, the driver of the automobile turned to the right and attempted to pass the truck. Without a signal of any sort, the latter swerved to the right to turn into a barn. The hood of the machine, when stopped, rested against the shoulder of one of the horses.

TEMPTED DRIVER TO BREAK LAW

By proceeding in the center of the street, the truck tempted a driver to break the law in an attempt to pass. Thereupon the truck turned in front of the machine without a signal.

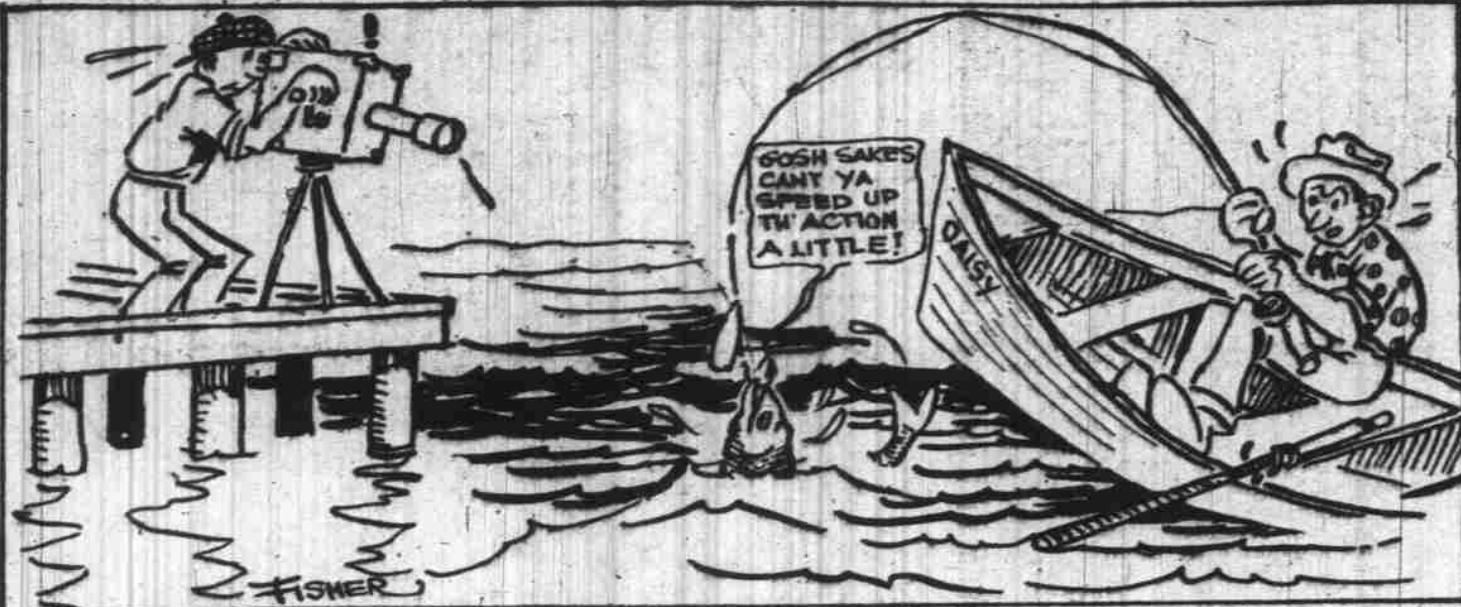

HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Just escaping that accident, the driver proceeded south on Broadway. At the intersection with Everett, two automobiles approached, one going west on Everett and the other north on Broadway. The first machine, having right of way, moved south on Broadway.

THE DRIVER OF THE CAR BOUND NORTH

On the same street, desired to turn into Everett and also wanted to go ahead of the auto proceeding on that thoroughfare. Instead of yielding right of way to both cars, as he should have done, and instead of going behind both, the driver of the northbound machine cut the corner directly in front of the machine going south. That driver, by swerving to one side and applying his brakes, was able to avoid the collision. These are but mild examples of the automobile gymnastics a sane driver has to perform to avoid accidents on

Chinook Salmon Becomes Film Star King of Fish Waits to "Register"

By Marshall N. Dana
Sooner or later the funnies get 'em all. Once it was the circus and clown stunt. Now it's the motion picture comedy. But who would believe that a royal chinook salmon, a king in his own right and in his own fluid domain, would fall for it?

Ladies and gentlemen, how polite and courteous now produce the only salmon motion picture actor and star in the history of the world! We challenge anyone to produce his equal, either with or without artistic treatment.

Art and I were trolling around and around below the bridge at Oregon City, trying to lose the jinx which, with our golf neatly held in tether, has been riding around on the kidney shaped spinners scaring the fish away.

Then the motion picture cameraman appeared. I say operative, because he was Sherlock Holmesing it up and down the river searching for someone to hook a salmon so that he could photograph the tragedy. If he had been looking for someone with a spoon that never entered a chinook's mouth, we would have seen our phiz's in some dangle local streets. The test of the competent pilot is not to avoid hitting other machines or pedestrians, but to keep his car out of the way of autos piloted by incompetent operators.

BLUEBEARD VICTIM LIVED IN PORTLAND

new evidence Monday in the most grueling cross-examination he has yet undergone.

"Bluebeard" is thus expected to "break" again, and complete the full story of his unspeakable crimes, it was said.

CAREER IS ASTOUNDING

"When Harvey's story is completely told it will be one of the most astounding documents of its kind ever taken in the United States," Woolwine declared with the utmost confidence tonight.

"He has never denied that he did away with more than four women, whose names he confessed, but he even broadly intimated that he has other burdens on his soul. This tallies with evidence we found today, and we will probably learn much more when we submit him to the cross-fire which he must undergo."

During a brief examination by Woolwine at the county hospital this afternoon, Harvey admitted to another "wife," swelling the number which he "remembered" marrying to more than a score. The woman is (or was) a Mrs. Watt, whom "Bluebeard" married in Winnipeg, Canada, some time ago. He lived with her one day and deserted her. He has not heard from her or of her since, he said.

SEARCH FOR BODY FRUITLESS

Inability of the searching party which combed the desert for the body of Nina Lee Delaney to find the murdered woman has suspended legal procedure for the indictment for murder in this county and compliance with the extradition demand of the state of Washington for Harvey on a charge of murdering Betty Pryor at Plum station will be held up pending a completion of the hunt.

Actual activity in quest of Miss Delaney's body will not be resumed until late next week, when Bluebeard's condition will permit his being taken by train and ambulance 500 miles to the grave of one of his four murdered "wives."

Denial by the authorities here of reports that evidence had been obtained showing Harvey sold a number of his "wives" into slavery at Mexican resorts was made tonight. Complete in-

Prizes awarded are provided by E. J. Jaeger, the Oregon Humane society, Honeyman Hardware company, J. K. Gill company, Meier & Frank stores and Mayor George Baker. The grand prize is in the nature of a silver cup, and other prizes will be medals, books and roller skates.

Miss Vivian Hedberg won special mention for having the best baby cat west of Chicago.

In addition to giving medals the Oregon Humane society will give all the participants in the parade a year's membership in the Junior league of the society.

The judges, consisting of Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mayor George Baker, Marshall N. Dana, Dr. A. G. Smith and E. J. Jaeger, rode in the parade in the only horse drawn carriage in the city, belonging to Mrs. Corbett.

The pet parade originated with Miss Jessie Millard, children's librarian, and is an advanced step over the pet show in the library last year. Next year Miss Millard and Mrs. F. W. Stanton, manager of the Humane society, expect to combine the show and the parade idea.

Illegal Signs Cost Dentists $40 Fines

Dr. Paul C. Yates and Martha F. Smith, dentists, were fined $40 each in the municipal court today when found guilty of maintaining a sign without a permit. These two are the first cases tried under the new city ordinance regulating signs in the business district. Both the defendants and the city filed briefs some time ago. Counsel for the defendants announced their intention of appealing and making this a test case.
