BUDGESSY BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess What Chatter Knew About Happy Jack There better that you be unbed if you can say so kindly word...

He has a storehouse, where he puts away nuts for the winter, but he buries in the ground and under fallen leaves more than he stores away...

buried nuts and, somehow, manages to find them even when they are buried under snow. When it comes to stealing he is no better than I am...

It was Happy Jack's turn to become indignant. "I may have taken a few eggs when I accidentally ran across them, but I never go looking for them..."

That the fellow with the bad bushy hair who tried to get by didn't get very far. That the "oop" told him in no uncertain terms where to "head in..."

That there would have been an argument, but the officer wouldn't argue. That he was just "telling" the other fellow...

That this was the first of a series of diversions that attracted us on our noontime stroll. That the next crowd we headed for was on Washington, near Sixth...

That a little further on up Yamhill there was another crowd gathered about what was supposed to be an auto victim or a beautiful woman in a faint...

That it was just the group of "movie" players posing for a camera. That we didn't see any well known "stars" among them...

Galli-Curci Is Given Big Ovation

By J. L. Wallis A MELITA GALLI-CURCI, coloratura soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera company, was heard in concert Wednesday evening at the Heilig theatre...

To satisfy the hundreds of disappointed ones who during the week or 10 days preceding the concert frantically appealed for tickets, the management, Steers & Conant, arranged a return concert next Wednesday night...

Somehow it seems we have been led to believe that the name Galli-Curci was the synonym of vocal gymnastics, bird-like and far-long cadenzas, turns and trills...

"That's enough!" declared Old Mother Nature sharply. "You two cousins never have agreed, and I am afraid never will. Have you told me all you know about Happy Jack, Chatterer?"

Chatterer nodded. He was still mulling to himself angrily and wasn't polite enough to reply. Old Mother Nature took no notice of this. "What you have told us is good as far as it goes," said she. "You said that Happy Jack is all gray excepting underneath. Usually this is true, but sometimes a Gray Squirrel isn't gray at all but all black..."

Old Mother Nature smiled. That is a fair question," said she. "Gray Squirrel is simply a name for Happy Jack's family. Sometimes some of the babies are born with black coats. Of course they are the same kind of squirrels only they look different. In some parts of the country there are many of these black-coated squirrels, and people think they are a different kind. They are not. They are simply black-coated Gray Squirrels. Just remember this. Now I think this will do for the lesson on Happy Jack."

The next story—"More of the Tree Squirrel Cousins." Chorus Is Feature of Barnes Circus There is a chorus of 40 girls in the Al G. Barnes circus to show in Portland May 17 and 18. It is not a case of wild women and wild animals, but of singing girls and dancing horses...

Dear Reader: 'Tis true that today is one of the most important of all the days in the calendar for us, because it is "Dad's" birthday. Dad had never been born just think of all the fun we'd have missed, and we'd never have met the L. W. nor the Little One, had Dad not been born. But Dad always was thoughtful, and just to show you that he's still a regular fellow, let me let you on to the following little bit of "inside stuff": Homestown, May 10. My Dear Boy: Lonely? I'll bet a cookey you're worse than that. Well, be consoled by the fact that the L. W. and the Little One are just lovely and as happy as if you were just down town at work. They were at home yesterday and the L. W. and the o. m.—that's me—had a happy chat and the Little One went to sleep in the o. m. arms, and it was a real happy party. And in a couple of weeks we will go down to town and to bring you to the old home, and we know you are going to have a happy two weeks, and you will be glad you came and so will the rest of us. And now I am going up to again see the L. W. and present her with a letter from the Little One, and also one for the Little One, and the happiness of the L. O. W. will be considerably increased. And now with fatherly advice to be good and not work too hard to banish loneliness, I am as always, Your loving FATHER.
