London, May 13.—(I. N. S.)—Fifty persons perished when the Italian ship Asiria struck a mine near Leghorn, said a Central News dispatch from Rome today. The Asiria is a small vessel of 1405 tons and hailed from Genoa.

Marshall Field's Will Is Attacked By Elihu Root

Chicago, May 13.—(I. N. S.)—Some of the best legal talent in New York and Chicago were lined up today in a court battle by which the heirs of the late Marshall Field hope to obtain a distribution of his residuary estate, estimated at $100,000,000.

It is the contention of the heirs that the estate should be divided among them but this is opposed by the trustees, who declared that, if it is left untouched, it might reach a total of $1,000,000,000. One of the attorneys representing Captain Field read a brief prepared by Elihu Root attacking the will of the late Marshall Field as typifying "accumulation for accumulation's sake" and declaring that the will "was against public policy."

Meredith Operated On
Washington, May 13.—(U. P.)—Secretary Meredith of the agriculture department expected to return home today from a local hospital, where he submitted to a minor operation a week ago.

Conwell's Wyoming Gasoline Supply Is Untapped, He Says

When Martin I. Conwell, who operates a gasoline filling and service station at 156 Union avenue, dropped a few facetious remarks about giving motorists all the fuel they wanted because of the unlimited supply he drew from his wells in Wyoming, the tale spread rapidly.

"Yes," Conwell is reported to have remarked, "I can let you have all the gas you want. I have pioneer's rights in Wyoming oil fields, and owing to the downhill grade to Portland I can pipe the juice right to my back door. Come in and fill up."

Conwell was apologetic when asked as to his reported gasoline hoard. "No, shucks," said he, "that was all a joke. I'm selling one of the regular brands at the regular price. I guess some cows are grazing on my oil holdings in Wyoming. There's never been any oil in 'em so far as I know."

Baker Points Out They Overlooked Displaying Flag

San Francisco, May 13.—(I. N. S.)—Mayor George L. Baker of Portland made his appearance at the national foreign trade convention known at the session Wednesday, when he made a suggestion that the American flag be displayed on the speaker's stand, pointing out that none was visible. The suggestion was referred to the committee on arrangements and will be carried out.

Seattle Police Seek $60,000 in Canadian Liquor

Seattle, May 13.—(I. N. S.)—Federal operatives today are combing this city for $60,000 worth of whiskey declared to have been smuggled here from British Columbia aboard a launch. The craft, say federal officers, came up the Sound from British Columbia through Lake Washington canal locks into Lake Union and from there the liquor was loaded on trucks and distributed to various places in the heart of the city.

In the first of a series of raids planned to locate the contraband, officers recovered, as it turned out, a quantity of the Northern hotel in the downtown business district early today.

OPEN SHOP LETTER TO GARY ADMITTED

fronted with obstacles after obstacle, so that I have become entirely discouraged as to the success of our negotiations," the statement continues.

LETTER ATTACKS ROGERS
"A concrete example of some of the things I have been up against is contained in the following extract from a letter written to Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation:

"Seattle is turning to the open shop plan in industry. The shipyards are to open up shortly. Our association has been working with them for open shop thinking it will be successful. We have one obstacle in our way in this direction—David Rogers. It is reported that he is trying to buy No. 1 yard of Skinner & Eddy in this city, and judging from past experience with him, he will unlose any yard he may acquire. I am wondering if it is possible for you to assist us in any way that will not jeopardize your interests? As we know that you favor the open shop, if Rogers opens a yard here he will unite with us for grants by union officials here. If he does so it will follow that the other yards will be forced to do the same. I presume that he will come to you or your corporation for steel contracts, and your influence might change his attitude."

PERSONAL AIMS DENIED
"My motive in again starting shipbuilding activities in Seattle was not actuated by the necessity of employment for myself or for making large profits, but rather my purpose was to provide employment for the thousands of unemployed and produce a permanent and positive prosperity for the city in general, and I sincerely hope that those who predict the yards will open will be able to accomplish the same results for the prosperity of all concerned as my project would have done."

"I heartily thank those of my friends who have earnestly endeavored to assist in my honest and very truly, DAVID ROGERS."

Helena, Mont., May 13.—(I. N. S.)—J. Stevens, former fire marshal of Portland, Or., and at present head of the Pacific Coast Fire Prevention bureau, spoke before the Rotary club here today on the subject of fire prevention. His talk was illustrated by slides of Portland and of fires which he said were 99 per cent preventable. The Rotary club, in response to his plea, will agitate legislation for the removal of fire traps in this city.

Change in Successor To Governor Asked

Nine propositions, five proposed amendments to the state constitution and four proposed statutes, have been submitted by the special session of the legislature for approval or rejection by the voters of Oregon at the special election to be held May 21. For the information of the voters The Journal will present a brief and concise statement of the purpose and intent of these various proposals, only at a time until the entire list has been covered, taking them in the order in which they will appear upon the official ballot.

The fifth proposed amendment to the constitution to be on the ballot at the special election, is known by the short title of "Successor to Governor" amendment.

It provides that "in case of the removal from office of the governor, or his death, resignation, absence from the state or other inability to discharge the duties of his office, the president of the senate shall become governor until the disability be removed or until the vacancy is filled at the next general biennial election."

It also provides that in event both the governor and the president of the senate should be unable to discharge the duties of their offices, the speaker of the house shall become governor to serve until the disability be removed, or until the next biennial election.

WILL UNEMPLOYED TERM
The proposed amendment provides, also, that a governor elected to fill a vacancy shall serve for the unexpired term of the governor whose death, resignation or other disability brought on the office. The proposed amendment attains the same end sought by the lieutenant governor amendment twice repudiated by the voters of the state by most decisive majorities. But there are other and more vital objections to it than to the lieutenant governor amendment concerning which the electorate spoke so plainly in the negative.

The adoption of the amendment by the people would make of every legislative organization fight a quasi convention for the election of a potential governor, not by direct vote of the electorate, but by indirect and, more than probably, by manipulation.

An abiding conviction is expressed by more than a few that the chair of the state senate is more often than not filled by those of gubernatorial caliber than otherwise. Within the relative recent past Jay Bowerman was president of the state senate, and he was repudiated as a candidate for governor by the people. W. Lair Thompson also held the office. He has not submitted himself to the ballot. Gus Moser held the presiding position and the voters of the state registered their opinion of him as a gubernatorial candidate. He is the author of the proposed amendment.

The election of a president of the senate is pretty badly involved in inside politics as it is. The office comes, all too often, from secret combinations made and promises given both inside and outside the legislature.

EVILS ARE SEEN
With the president of the senate standing in the role of a possible governor, as would be the case under the amendment, not only would all manner of additional and invidious influences be injected into the election, but the situation would tend to engender hostility and conflict between the executive and the legislative branches of the state government, even to a greater degree than is at present the case and that, usually, is bad enough.

Finally, the amendment would throw the election of a possible interim governor into the hands of 38 men and take it away from the people as a whole. Whether the present constitutional provisions, now adjudicated and made definite in meaning by the supreme court, by which the secretary of state succeeds to the governorship in case of necessity be ideal or otherwise, it yet gives to the entire electorate of the state the opportunity to measure candidates for that office with that contingency in mind.

VOTERS CAN CHOOSE
The voters of the whole state can choose for secretary of state, among the entire list of candidates who present themselves, that man who, in their opinion, would best serve as secretary of state and in time of necessity, as governor as well. Under the terms of the proposed amendment the voters of each senatorial district, and representative district as well, will choose among local candidates men for the senate and house, any one of whom may be elevated to the governorship by forced circumstances, irrespective of qualification or popular desire.

Socialists Hope To Win Favor by 2-Syllable Words

New York, May 13.—(I. N. S.)—For the first time in recent years the leaders of the Socialist party are abandoning today their assortment of stock phrases such as "Down with capitalism!" and "Dictatorship of the proletariat," and are preparing to go out and bid for the votes of laboring men this year by appealing to their logic rather than to their class prejudices.

The ultra-radical, or "left wing" faction, has been defeated on the national convention floor and the conservative element, led by such men as Morris Hillquit, Victor Berger, Oscar Ameringer, Cameron King of Judges and Judge Fankon of New York, are in control of the party's destinies.

The Hillquit program for political action during the coming campaign, which triumphed over the "soviet" program of extremists from Chicago, is designed to appeal particularly to "the man in the street." It is a primer of Socialism, with all words of more than two syllables barred from it.

"That has been the trouble with us socialists for 40 years," said Victor Berger. "We have prated about Marxism, Socialism and 'proletarianism' in all our campaigns. And not one man in 30 knew what we were talking about."
