BIG CELEBRATION MONDAY

Monday will ensue the major celebration of Memorial day with the decoration of the graves in the different cemeteries, the Memorial day parade and services in The Auditorium.

At 8:30 a. m. details from the G. A. R. posts, camps of Spanish War veterans, Sons of Veterans, Women's Relief corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Ladies' auxiliary of the U. S. W. V., will go informally to Riverview, Grand Army, Greenwood, I. O. O. F., Ahaval Sholom, Mount Zion and Mount Calvary cemeteries and decorate the graves of soldiers and sailors of the wars. All people interested are invited to join.

At 9 o'clock comrades from all posts and camps detailed for the purpose will assemble at Lone Fir cemetery where, assisted by the W. R. C. and pupils of the Sunnyside, Buckman and Hawthorne schools, will decorate the graves of the war veterans. At the same hour other comrades, assisted by pupils of the schools designated, will decorate graves as follows:

Greeting—Corps President Mrs. Gable.
Song—"America," by audience.
Invocation.
Song—"My Own United States," by Mrs. Letha Fowler Miller.
Decorating of the Cenotaph.
Oration—Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by Ethel Johnson.

BIG PICNIC FEATURE

As a reflex Memorial day feature, the Masters', Wardens' and Past Masters' association of Portland is giving the largest outing and picnic at Forest Grove ever known in the state. The Master Masons, Royal Arch, Eastern Star and other Masonic bodies are actively cooperating and every lodge and chapter in the state will be represented. Forest Grove Masons are being assisted by the entire population to make it a success. Hospitality is extended to everybody by the citizens of the town. The occasion is to inspect the beautiful site of the Masonic and Eastern Star home, the cornerstone of which will be laid Wednesday afternoon, June 16, by the Grand lodge and Grand chapter.

While there will be an immense attendance of parties going in automobiles, arrangements have been made for a fare and a third for the round trip over both the Oregon Electric and the Southern Pacific lines. Committees to look after parking of the autos and the locating of parties coming by trains, have been selected.

TO MEET IN GROVE

Nylor's grove has been selected as the place where nature and children shall be blended. There are swings and shade and plenty of room; benches, tables, conveniences, concessions and opportunity to rest and refresh the soul and the body. There are a long list of games, contests and special stunts to keep the people interested. Dr. F. H. Damish has charge of the committee on sports and games, and he has a most attractive program.

The invitation to enjoy the hospitality of Forest Grove is not confined to members of Masonic organizations and their families.

One of the busiest men in Portland during the week has been George Kinnear, past master of Sellwood lodge, A. F. and A. M., who is chairman of the picnic and outing committee. The local committee of Holyoke lodge of Forest Grove and the citizens of that place have cooperated.

Reckless Driving Is Charged; Woman Is Injured in Accident

F. L. Warren, 618 Kearney street, must face a reckless driving charge in the municipal court Tuesday, as the outcome of an accident Friday night at Tenth and Taylor streets, with a machine in charge of Ralph Rufner, local manager of the People's theatre.

According to evidence obtained by Patrolmen Tully and Frieberg, Warren is said to have been driving his machine at a high rate of speed and in a reckless manner. Mrs. W. M. McBride, who was a passenger in the Rufner machine, was severely bruised. She was confined to her bed Saturday.

Fan Tan Suspects Arrested by Police

A fan tan game Saturday afternoon at 63 Second street was interfered with by Patrolmen Meacham and Ragan, who held the game to be a violation of the law and arrested five Chinese. Ah Tom and Ah Sam are charged with being the conductors. They were released on $250 bail each. Three alleged players were released on $100 bail each. Trial will be Tuesday in the municipal court.

FRENCH DECORATE AMERICAN GRAVES

Heartfelt Devotion to Common Cause Is Shown by Loyal Women Overseas.

American mothers need not fear that resting places of their beloved dead in France will be neglected on this or any other Memorial day so long as those sacred sacrifices to the American crusade rest in the Land of the Lily.

Take it from one who was there last Memorial day and saw the great overwhelming wave of devotion and sympathy pouring out to the departed Americans from a land already mourning the death of 1,500,000 of its own.

One could not watch those processions of French men, women and children, tramping to the fields wherein were interred those being left behind by the khaki clad legions from the west without a great feeling of pride.

FRENCH MOTHERS FAITHFUL

If American mothers could only have seen French mothers, many with toil-reddened and roughened hands, decking those graves with the same consummate care bestowed upon their own, they would have been greatly comforted. And hardly one of these loving ministrants there was but who thought of her own father or brother or son lying with the vast French army of the dead keeping everlasting vigil along the frontiers of the north.

The picture here was taken by a member of The Journal staff in France last year. The soldiers buried under these crosses were not killed in action. They were of railroad operating organizations, for the most part; men who had been killed in accidents or who had died of disease. They had heard the roar of guns to the north and had helped to transport to that zone thousands of men and their supplies.

And most of those men had come back and gone on to their homes again, leaving these mute heroes behind.

There are, or were, hundreds of these little cemeteries with the big American wooden crosses scattered over France. One saw them at the base ports; at all the towns, big and little, along the network of railways that the Americans took over; at those sequestered and beautifully quiet spots where the hospitals were located; in the outskirts of Paris and in the quaint little churchyards of the mountain villages in the southeast, where American foresters had worked and died.

On last Memorial day many of these boys had already been left behind. Not one of the buddies who had survived remained near them.

GRAVES NOT NEGLECTED

But the graves were not neglected, not one, it is verily believed, for the vast sympathy and sentiment of the French people, one of the elements of the soul of France, one thinks as he looks back on those things, reached out to every one.

The big hearted American doughboy and leatherneck played too large a part in France in two years for its people to forget. The graves will be decked again this year by the same loving hands with the same old fashioned flowers, and they will be ministered to, not only on Memorial day, but on every day of the year, just as long as our soldier dead remain there.

THESE GRAVES WILL BE REMEMBERED

PORTLAND MELTING POT, SAYS CENSUS

258,288, the native born, that is natives of the United States, number 196,127. The native citizens in 1910 numbered 156,902, the increase in 10 years amounting to 24.7 per cent.

FOREIGN BORN 62,161

The foreign born population of Portland this year numbered 62,161 and this is 24.6 per cent of the total. Foreign population has slightly increased in 10 years, as the total in 1910 was 50,312. This was 24.3 per cent of the total population in 1910.

Native-born citizens of the United States, but natives of states other than Oregon, numbered 131,091 this time and in 1910 there were 104,873 of these resident in the city.

Portland has no residents who were born in the Windward islands, or Guam, our tiniest possession out in the middle of the Pacific. Nor has it any natives from the Virgin islands, acquired from Denmark and formerly known as the Danish West Indies. But Porto Rico has given us five natives, Alaska 66 and Hawaii 70. The Philippines have contributed six.

Native American citizens, but born abroad—there are 328 of these in Portland, and seven are here who were born on the high seas.

The largest number of residents, by the way, from any one group of states are those from the Middle West. Taking the arbitrary group from Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, the total is 36,111.

WOULD ROUTE NEW ROAD ALONG RIVER

City Commissioner Mann to Try for Highway From Gresham to Mount Hood.

Effort to have the state highway commission route the new state highway from Gresham to Mount Hood along the Bull Run river directly through the forest reserve will be made by City Commissioner John M. Mann, according to his statement Saturday.

Mann was given authority by the city council to appear before the highway commission at its next meeting and intercede in the city's behalf. If the road is routed along Bull Run river a saving of six miles as well as $100,000 would be effected, says Mann. The highway commission is said to favor another route through Clackamas county. Mann points out that the city will contribute $85,000 toward building the road, the county $85,000 and the government $170,000. Clackamas county does not contribute to the road, according to Mann.

"In case of a break in a water main carrying the city's water supply from Bull Run lake, the road, if routed through the reserve, would be indispensable to hurry a repair crew over," said Mann.
