"GAS" SIGN LETS TALKS AUTO TRIPS

Tourists Find Supply in Many Oregon Cities; Columbia Motorists Suf- ficient; Many Abandon Cars.

Travel incident to two such holidays—Sunday and Memorial—has greatly depleted the supply of available gasoline. Autoists who took to the road during the two days have with many woe-filled tales of their inability to get fuel, descriptions—and all of variety—greeted them.

"Out!" This is a cry that is heard in many a garage tomorrow and "Whaddy" were blazoned on most of the signs. Any man who had more than a few gallons or who had a few gallons could be hailed as a deliverer. At a point that gasoline prices were being probed the city created more than a new sign. When the tank did not have a drop of gas, a crowd met it with noisy descriptions—and all of variety—greeted them.

Without the state, from east to west, from the Columbia to the Sierra Nevada, the need of gasoline offers no hope of relief. Salem is reported to be rationing gas. Albany never hopes to see a drop again. Corvallis is talking of putting a small bottle to put in its archives as a relic, and Roseburg and Grants Pass, it is said, have ceased to believe there are such things as oil gushers.

UNION STATION TO BE MADE TERMINAL

Memorial Tribute Halted by Woman Who Asks Cheer For the President

In the midst of an impressive memorial day service at The Auditorium Monday afternoon, two episodes not on the program testified to the patriotism and loyalty of the great throng. A gray-haired woman rose and elicited strong applause when she inquired why, during the exercises, no mention had been made of the president of the United States, who was the commander-in-chief of the American army and navy during the late war.

The result of her inquiry was that the concourse gave three rousing cheers for President Wilson on the proposal of Mayor George L. Baker.

McELVEEN HITS SNAG

"The other incident was the retort of a stalwart service man in khaki, who shouted 'Not on your life!' when the Rev. W. T. McElveen of the First Congregational church made the charge in his Memorial day address that the American soldiers were deceived, that the president was deceived, into believing America's participation in the war was to uphold the great principles of human brotherhood. The real reason for the war, so far as America was concerned, McElveen declared, was for the opening of new trade channels and possession of certain oil wells.

SPEAKER DRIFFS ELSEWHERE

The soldier was also loudly cheered and the speaker turned to other subjects.

Honor to a living hero and tributes to the departed men who served under the American colors were united at the service held in The Auditorium. The distinguished service medal was formally awarded to Alvin Lester Bowman.

CHAOS FOUD ENDOWMENTS IN FAR EAST BY VANDERLIP

Economic Pandemonium Reigning Among Half Billion Peoples and America Must Not Shirk Responsibility, Says Banker.

San Francisco, June 1.—(U. P.)—Frank A. Vanderlip, banker, today pleaded that Americans recognize a responsibility as regards the Far East "that ought to lead us to something better than destructive criticism."

Vanderlip has just returned from China and Japan. "I have returned," he said, "with a feeling that the political chaos in the Far East is greater than the American people realize."

He addressed the San Francisco meeting of the California Civic league, saying in part:

"I doubt if there is any adequate conception in the United States of the disorganization of society that exists today in half the world. A year ago I tried to give some exposition of the economic chaos that had fallen on Europe. At that time the people generally thought the picture overdrawn. Without regard to the truth of that picture, however, there was a general disposition by Americans to close their minds to the state of affairs existing in other countries. There was an inclination to avoid, if possible, shouldering responsibility for other people's affairs."

"There has now come a realization of the seriousness of the economic disorganization in Central Europe, but there is still a disinclination to feel that we have a national responsibility for helping Europe towards economic recovery."

FISH HAWKS OR EAGLES, EXPERTS FIND GOOD CAUSE FOR CONJECTURE

Ornithological experts of Portland today are sitting on the case of a strange cargo of live stock received at the office of the bureau of parks in the city hall this morning.

The yavous screams of the young inhabitants of the apple box container were heard throughout the building and across the street, that the strange fledglings were anything from young ostriches to baby bald eagles or buzzards.

The birds were brought in by Anton Buedall, school teacher of Tumalo, Or., who said that he found them nested in a juniper tree 34 feet from the ground, and about four miles west of Tumalo.

Buedall claims that the birds are young fish hawks, but other experts declare they are eagles. They have the coloring of eagles, and the curved beaks that would put to shame the birds that appears on the fall side of a silver dollar.

But, eagles, buzzards, fish hawks, ostriches or what not, they are the loud-mouthed additions to the zoo in years. Lifting the lid of the box is signal for a volley of sound that makes conversation in the immediate vicinity an impossibility.

Two of the birds are to be given to the zoo, and Buedall plans to raise the third one himself.

AMERICAN KILLED BY FRENCH GUARD

Berlin, June 1.—(U. P.)—General Lerond, chief of the French commission to Eppes, Russia, has been asked by the American mission to investigate the shooting of Arnold Heide, American lecturer, killed by a French guard in Beuthen yesterday.

The only information which the American mission has been able to obtain so far concerning Heide and his presence in Beuthen was contained in a report from the French mission stating that they had had an American passport in Heide's possession. The American mission has no record of his presence in the country.

Only vague reports of the actual shooting have been obtainable. They said the French authorities stopped a train on which Heide was riding, that he was arrested, and while disputing with the soldiers was shot by one of the French guards.

By Harold E. Jacobs
Chicago, June 1.—(U. P.)—The committee at the opening of the Republican national committee's annual hearings today were that Deane Wood would lose another chair delegation at large.

A subcommittee reporting on Florida contest, involving three delegates, indicated it would recommend the "regular" pledged delegates Wood. It previously slighted group pledged to Governor E. C. Kelly.

ANTI-WOOD MEN FAVOR THE GROUP

The third group, apparently headed by H. L. Anderson, was headed by H. L. Anderson, and was designated only as "anti-Wood." Further time for argument was granted the two delegations. The committee's first task today was hearing of a contest from the state of Columbia.

Two regular delegates from the district of Columbia were seated. The contest was held in the district of Columbia. The contest was held in the district of Columbia.

The delegates seated were H. L. Anderson and James B. Conner. W. C. Gallinger and Dr. Charles W. Wood.

The four delegates at large who will receive certificates of election from the district delegation four years ago, moving the action of 1916 be retained, and that none of the groups be seated. That motion was lost.

Asked how many Republicans there are in Washington, W. C. Gallinger said there were 417,000 persons in the district.

"We are close to the administration," he said, "and outside official positions. We believe there is a Democrat here."

Excess delegates will be seated on their state delegations if the recommendation of a subcommittee is adopted by the main committee. The committee, comprising H. O. Brown of New Mexico, A. K. Campbell of Oregon, and E. C. Kelly of Florida, will tabulate of New Hampshire, will offer the recommendation today.

STATER CHOOSE NIGHT

Adoption of the recommendation would mean the seating of from 60 to 65 delegates. The committee and architects to agree that space could be provided. The situation arose when in dealing with factional differences in the states less than 100 delegates were seated.
