listing without efficient organized central government.

NO CENTRAL GOVERNMENT
"China's four hundred millions have some semblance of local government that is functioning, but that vast nation is without effective central government. The semblance of a republic has been created for a mass of people who are more than 90 per cent illiterate, who speak a great variety of dialects and who lack the means of communication that might be a factor in creating unified national thought. The result has been a failure to create an efficient central government. Throughout the vast extent of Siberia there is political disintegration, and a breakdown of all financial and commercial machinery which is resulting in a return to primitive conditions of political and commercial life in the whole vast region from the Pacific to Lake Balkal.

SUCCESS LIES WITH PRIVATE CITIZENS, DECLARE LAMONT
San Francisco, June 1.—(U. P.)—The success of the consortium of English, American, French, and Japanese bankers for the benefit of China now rests "not upon government, but upon private citizens and their support," declared Thomas W. Lamont today in his first public expression since his return from the Far East.

Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., went to Japan and China as the spokesman of the consortium. He successfully overcame the objections of the Japanese government and bankers, with the result that Japan entered the consortium on an equal basis with the other nations.

Lamont said the maintenance of American trade in the Far East rests upon the success of the consortium. He was addressing the Commonwealth club at a luncheon. Immediately after the luncheon he left for New York.

The banker spoke of Ambassador Morris as occupying a "unique position of influence and strength" in Tokyo, and said he was received by the Japanese with utmost cordiality.

The Best Way of Practicing Dentistry
THERE is only one way to practice good dentistry at a moderate price to patients, and that is on a large scale and according to a system. Dentistry has too many branches and too many details for one man to do it well alone in a small office.
There is extracting, filling, treating, artificial plate-making, crown and bridge work, examinations, receiving patients, bookkeeping, collecting, record-keeping, buying supplies, paying bills, and many other business details to be looked after.
Under the E. R. Parker System a number of Registered Dentists, mechanical dentists, graduate nurses, stenographers, bookkeepers and attendants work together in much the same way as banks and other successful business enterprises are conducted.
Each has some particular kind of work to do, and thus becomes expert at it, doing it better and in less time.
Advertisements are put in the papers telling what good dental work is done by this modern System, and many patients come in and have their teeth cared for.
In this way better dentistry is given for less money, because where the practice is large, the price can be made smaller. This way of practicing dentistry is the modern way and the best way.
You are invited to call and see what an improvement has been made in dental work under the E. R. Parker System. When you call, your teeth can be examined and reliable advice given without charge.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE HALTED BY WOMEN

of Field City, Or., in accordance with a resolution from the war department. The memorial was presented to Bowman, who is a member of the United States army, with the Fifth Marine regiment, at the command of Commander F. K. Elder of the local navy headquarters.

The citation of Bowman declares: "On the night of November 10, under heavy artillery bombardment and withering machine gun fire, he exposed himself recklessly, without thought of personal danger, while dressing the wounded and giving relief to the dying. He carried three men across the Meuse river, that they might be carried on to the first aid station. This was in the Argonne-Meuse operation."

The program at the Auditorium followed the imposing parade, and was presided by Commander T. E. Stevens, with C. A. Williams, adjutant; W. T. Kerr, chaplain; and J. W. Jones, officer of the day.

PRESIDENT CHERISHED
Almost at the conclusion of the program, a white haired woman in the rear of the auditorium arose and cried: "Why was not one word spoken in all this program in respect to the President of the United States?"

A wave of applause followed, and Mayor Baker, city adjutant, W. T. Kerr, chaplain, and J. W. Jones, officer of the day, promptly commending the spirit that prompted this query and proposing three cheers for President Wilson, which were given with loud acclaim.

Dr. W. T. McElveen spoke of the memories of a nation as one of its great assets, reviewing the impression upon the life of this country made by Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley, Roosevelt and Pershing.

AMERICA AS LEADER
"They added glory to our annals and glory to our flag," said this speaker. "But, after all, it was the thousands upon thousands of the loyal and true and, if you will permit the term, the more ordinary men whose undaunted loyalty made possible the heroic attainments of these great leaders. To all must be given the full measure of praise."

The speaker dwelt on the need of purification in politics and a closer harmony and sympathy between employer and employe, the necessity for elimination of Bolshevistic tendencies, and the demand for an upright Americanism that will not be "two-headed."

SOLDIER GIVES ANSWER
The tense situation in his speech was developed, when the speaker told of what he had hoped as the outcome of the great world war, but said that he had been giving great study to the documents proposing the uniting of the nations into one league, and that he disapproved them.

"A group of predatory thieves put it over on our president," said Dr. McElveen, "and they put it over on you boys, too," pointing to the khaki-clad men in the audience. You thought that you were fighting for a principle, but actually you were fighting for some new trade channels, and for possession of certain oil wells. They put it over on you.

"Not on your life," cried out the young soldier in the center of the audience.

MEDFORD PAYS HONORS TO DEPARTED WAR HEROES
Medford, June 1.—Memorial day was observed in Medford under the joint auspices of the G. A. R., Women's Relief corps and American Legion post, with the annual decorating of the graves of the soldier and sailor dead in the cemetery in the forenoon, which closed with a salute to the dead fired by Company D, Fifth Oregon Infantry.

In the afternoon a parade of the G. A. R., American Legion posts, the W. R. C. chapter, the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion post, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Boy Scouts, Company D and civic organizations, ended at the Bear creek bridge by the Legion boys, accompanied by the firing of salutes, flowers were strewn over the water in memory of the dead sailors and marines. Then came the patriotic exercises in the theatre at which the chief speaker was Rev. J. R. Sannett.

JUSTICE BURNETT SPEAKER IN SALEM MEMORIAL DAY
Salem, June 1.—Justice Burnett of the Oregon supreme court delivered the Memorial address in Armory here Monday afternoon in Salem's Memorial day program. The morning program was featured by the presentation of an American flag by the Women's Relief corps to the Captain Post, American Legion, and the planting of two trees on the courthouse lawn, dedicated to Marion county men who fell in the world war. A parade participated in by the various military organizations and auxiliaries preceded the exercises.

PATRIOTIC ORDERS GATHER; HONOR FALLEN COMRADES
The Dallas, June 1.—Honors to departed soldiers were paid by members of the G. A. R., W. R. C., American Legion and D. A. R. at Odd Fellows cemetery Sunday afternoon with song, speeches and masses of beautiful blossoms.

Dr. J. C. Gormley, Wasco post, American Legion, paid a masterly tribute. Gurnett chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the Dallas post No. 18, American Legion, with a silk flag. Judge F. W. Wilson made the presentation speech, Francis V. Galloway responding for the Legionaries.

After the ceremonies, patriotic orders strewed flowers on the waters of Co-
