Mormons Eat Dirt in First Tilt Here, 3 to 1; Sam Ross Has Runner-Ups at Mercy

Breaks Give Beavers Two Runs, Which Are Enough to Win; Bees Fail to Function When They Have Chance, Fast Fielding in Pinches Holding Them to Single Tally.

WITH Sam Ross, who pitched himself out of the morning game Memorial day, hurling invincible ball in the pinches, and the breaks coming Portland's way for the first time since McCredie's hitting help on his own greenwaded, the Beavers turned the heavy trotting Salt Lake club back on its first appearance here this season, Tuesday, 3 to 1.

Ross allowed six hits, and kept them well scattered throughout the nine innings. He committed a balk in the fourth inning and walked Sheely, filling the bases, but managed to get out of it by nailing Krug at the plate on Mulligan's grounder, the latter being doubled at first.

Leverens was the victim of the breaks, the two misplays charged to the Bees being more or less responsible for the two tallies chalked up by the Bees in the first inning. Portland's lone earned run was registered in the sixth, when Wed Kingdon broke his hitless streak with a single to center that scored Schaller.

PORTLAND FIELDING CLEAN
The Bees had a couple of men on in the first inning, but neat fielding spoiled their chances. Margert was hit by a pitched ball and took second on Johnson's sacrifice. Krug hit to Ross, and a moment later Mary was caught off first.

KOEHLER IS CAUGHT
Salt Lake garnered a couple of hits in the second, but Ross was unflinching off first for the third out. In the fourth, the Bees had a chance to break into the run column, but Ross was unflinching in the pinch. After Johnson fanned, Krug doubled to center. Rumlund drew a walk and Ross committed a balk, allowing the runners to move up. Sheely was passed and Mulligan hit to Ross, who named Krug at the plate, and Koehler picked Mulligan at first. It was a fast double.

Portland's third run was scored in the seventh on Schaller's double to right field, Cox's sacrifice, Koehler's walk and Kingdon's hit—the first he has made since when they meant ball ringers in a long time. Koehler moved up to third on the hit and Kingdon to second on the throw-in. With the hit and run right handed, Koehler started home, but was caught floundered as Ross missed the ball.

REIGER SUBSTITUTED
In the eighth, Jenkins was sent to bat for Leverens, but Ross was unflinching off first, and went to center, but Margert scored on a hit to center, but Margert scored Johnson out as he overran second.

Reiger finished the game for the Bees and with the aid of a snappy double play, retired the Mackmen with a run. Portland's lone earned run was registered in the first three innings and hit Hughes and Brown, who followed him on the mound, hard. Scott allowed 18 hits, but was backed by good teamwork.

Shannon Has Made Great Ring Record

By Bob

WHILE Joe Benjamin and Matchmaker Bobby Evans and the Portland boxing commission are haggling as to the choice of a referee of Benjamin's fight with Eddie Shannon at the Armyory Friday night, let's turn our attention to this boy Shannon and see why Benjamin is so nervous about the third man in the ring. Benjamin's rep, real or otherwise, has been hysterically pushed to the fore by his connection with Billy Gibson and Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard, while Shannon, a boy of undoubted and established class and unrepresented and himself too modest to brag about his ability, has been overlooked, while he has madly scrambled to put the stamp of our approval on this or that prospective flat bubble.

FEW FANS ARE AWARE OF THE FACT
That Shannon's achievements include victories over the best lightweights in the ring today and a no-decision affair with Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane. The record books will disclose that this is not mere talk but fact or puffery founded on insincerity.

Shannon battled Kilbane a little more than two years ago at Philadelphia when Kilbane was acknowledged king of all featherweights and when Shannon was 20 years old. By stipulation with the referee before the fight Kilbane barred the Shannon uppercut—a blow which no fighter in the world uses like Shannon and one of his most tantalizing punches. Even with his most effective weapon under the ban, Shannon held the featherweight champion even, and shamed him, in the opinion of some.

WENT DOWN FOR NINE
According to press accounts of the fight, Kilbane crossed Shannon to the law in second after the third round had begun and Shannon went down for the count of nine. He got up groggy, but later defeated Johnny Tillman; Shamus O'Brien, Pete Hartley, Harvey Thorpe, and last but not least, Mickey Donnelly, the boy who whipped Benjamin in Benjamin's last start in the East.

Shannon's Eastern record was cut short by the outbreak of the war, immediately after which he enlisted. Fans who saw Shannon mail Freddie Anderson and the tough Ever Hammer over a local ring, may have some idea of the task Benjamin has ahead of him in living up to the prediction that he will knock Shannon out in six rounds. Shannon fights better under attack than he does when he is loafing along and winning, and if Benjamin presses him, Benjamin is more than apt to find himself the object of a mad boy's retaliation.

INDICATIONS are that the fifty-five rule on football receipts, passed at last winter's meeting of the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate conference, will go by the boards at Saturday's meeting of the conference delegates in the Benson hotel.

California and Stanford, it is reported, are leaning toward Washington's side of the case, but whether Oregon, O. A. C. and Washington State college will break the tie that binds them remains to be seen. Should the "little three" hold together a deadlock is likely.

There is a little feeling against the "little three" because of their failure to send representatives to the meeting called at Palo Alto, Cal., during the conference. The "little three" are Oregon and O. A. C. both had good reasons for not sending representatives, because Professors Howe of Oregon and Dubach of O. A. C. were "campaigning" on the millage measure.

Washington has taken the stand that a fifty-fifty split is unfair, in view of the fact that they are raising $600,000 for a modern athletic stadium. California and Stanford, it is reported, are ready to stand by Washington.

Some other questions will find their way into the discussions, but the big fight will be centered on killing the split rule. It is not believed that any action will be taken toward forming a new conference as was reported in press dispatches a fortnight ago.

Yankees Are In 2d Place In A.L. League

By Henry L. Farrell

NEW YORK, June 2.—(U. P.)—Delegates pledged to the candidacy of Tris Speaker for the nomination as "miracle man of 1930" were getting their feet ready to jump.

A dynamic sweep down the stretch, which has given them $9 out of the last 30 games and nine in a row, is making the annual candidacy of the Cleveland native some look like a W. I. D.

By use of the talents that earned for them the early season sobriquet of "murderers' row," the Yankees have battered their way through the best pitching in the league to second place.

Headed by that demon cutter, Babe Ruth, the Yankees have a potent home run in every man, in the lineup. There is no Walter Johnson, Alexander or Williams among the pitchers, but Jack Quinn and Bob Shawkey can win a bunch of ball games.

Cuttler Loses Mat Contest
Casper, Wyo., June 2.—(U. P.)—Jack Taylor of the city defeated Charlie Cutler of Chicago in a hard fought wrestling match here last night, securing two out of three falls.
