SHORTAGE IN FUND RETARDS WORK OF DREDGING HARBOR

North Portland Business Men Appear Before Port Board and Tell of Need of Deep Channel.

Dredging of entrance to the harbor at North Portland is a serious question that confronts the Portland manufacturers having big interests there and also the Port of Portland, on whom the work of dredging will probably fall. Deep water is deemed necessary by the lumber and other industries adjacent to the North Portland harbor in the interests of off shore shipping.

Members of the Port of Portland commission agree that this is correct, but F. M. Warren, chairman, pleads lack of funds to carry on the enterprise. A shortage in the fund for this work, according to Chairman Warren, amounted to $100,000 annually, with no prospects of relief for the next four years.

DEEP WATER NEED PRESSED

A. A. Aya, representing the North Portland Development league, acted as spokesman for the delegation of manufacturers who pressed the need of deep water in the North Portland harbor at the meeting of the port on Wednesday. When Chairman Warren stated that the port was in sympathy with the improvement idea and cited the lack of funds, he said:

"Why don't you gentlemen get together and assist in the financial end of this matter, and the port will help you out?"

"If that is a bargain," said Aya, "we are on, and our contention with the board is at an end."

Action of the board resulted in the granting of authority to Engineer Polhemus to obtain outside help for making a survey of the needs, depth of water and the approximate cost of cutting out the mouth of the harbor.

Appearing before the board in efforts to get deep water in the North Portland harbor was Percy Allen of the Murphy Lumber company. He outlined the demands for coastwise and foreign shipments that could not be filled on account of the inability of steam schooners to reach the mills' docks on the old Oregon slough. The plant is now cutting 200,000 feet daily, and he assured the port that double that amount would be sawed if facilities were adequate for water transportation.

STEAMER RATES LOWER

Julius Dossche, president of the Pacific Products company, spoke of the differential in rates on oyster shells from gulf ports. Rail rates were quoted at $13.75 f. o. b. Portland, while steamer rates were $5.50 any direct dock.

B. C. Darnall, manager of the Swift plant, owners of the Monarch Lumber company, made the statement that on the ruins of the old plant, which burned several weeks ago, a new plant would be built. Whether this would involve the expenditure of only $250,000 to supply demands or $1,250,000 to meet the business of the off shore trade offerings depended on deep water in the North Portland harbor. The Swift company was willing to invest the latter amount if ships could come to the docks.

CHANNEL NEEDS EMPHASIZED

John S. Deall of the Coast Culvert & Flume company, agreed to double the operations of his plant if the channel in North Portland harbor was deepened to admit the entrance of steam schooners. Other operators spoke along the same lines. Deep water is necessary but the Port of Portland is without funds.

Reports of engineers who had investigated the matter stated, according to Aya, that from 40 to 50 feet of water was in the slough. The obstructions were two or three lumps at the lower end which could easily be removed by dredging. Again lack of funds.

Wing dams were suggested; blowing out of the dike at the upper end of Hadyn Island; assistance of the U. S. engineers. The engineers are agreeable to the cleaning out of the channel but the maintainance must fall on the Port of Portland. Some more, no funds.

DOCK AT FOOT OF MORRISON STREET TO BE BUILT OVER

Reconstruction of the dock at the foot of Morrison street, north side, has been decided on by the Meier & Frank company, who control the property. Merrill's boathouse, which for the past 18 years has been a landmark at the west approach to the Morrison street bridge, will be a thing of the past after July 1.

To accommodate the demands of river business, a temporary dock will be built, with a gangway leading from the bridge, for the accommodation of passengers. Later it is the intention of the owners to construct a $500,000 warehouse.

MARINE MEN END MEETING; VANCOUVER IS SELECTED

Winding up the session of the first get-together conclave of the Masters, Mates and Pilots, Columbia harbor No. 17 of the national association nominated Vancouver, B. C., as the next meeting place. Closed session for members only was the finale of the three days' session of the conclave. This morning at 9 o'clock visiting delegates will be taken over the Columbia highway, with lunch at Bonneville.

Captain Ames, United States inspector of hulls at Seattle, was in attendance at the convention. Captain Ames will leave the party at Bonneville and will proceed to Seattle via Yakima. Captain Ames' party consists of four touring cars with delegates as passengers.

WEDDED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hudson

J. S. Hudson, mayor of Troutdale, and his wife recently celebrated their silver wedding in the third largest city of Multnomah county at their home, and were hosts to practically the entire population.

They were married in Oregon City June 11, 1895, and Hudson has filled every public trust within the gift of his fellow townsmen since moving there 13 years ago. Once a year Mayor Hudson goes on a fishing cruise on the lower Columbia river for two weeks, but the remaining fifty weeks of the year is on the job 24 hours a day.

HARKINS AGENT DAY WILL MAKE TOUR OF THE EAST

J. J. Day, agent for the Harkins Transportation company, will leave this evening for an extended trip through the East. He will be accompanied by his daughter Lois, aged 17. Worcester will be the port of final docking for Jack. On the Eastern trip stops will be made at St. Paul, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo and New York. H. A. Hoffman has been named as agent for the Harkins line during the absence of Day.

ALL ALONG THE WATERFRONT

Frank O'Connor, local agent of the Admiral Line steamships, is in Seattle on business. He will return on Monday.

With passengers and freight from San Francisco the steamship Rose City arrived up this morning and docked at Ainsworth.

Sailing from Astoria this morning, the steamer Klamath of the McCormick line carried a full list of passengers for San Francisco and San Pedro. Lumber for San Pedro constituted the cargo.

Major Cartwright of the Columbia-Pacific Shipping company has been trodding the sands where Omar Khayam got his inspirations. Major Cartwright returned to his office yesterday for a brief period.

JEWELL'S BODY IS TAKEN FROM RIVER

City Grappler Brady of Portland Finds Remains of Former District Game Warden.

Oregon City, June 12.—The body of Bert L. Jewell, former district game warden, who was drowned in the Clackamas river Wednesday, was found this afternoon two and a half miles below River Mill dam, just above Hackett's Point and a quarter of a mile below where the drowning occurred.

City Grappler Hugh Brady of Portland discovered the body at the bottom in 10 feet of water. The body has been turned over to Coroner Ed Johnson, who will hold an inquest Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Jewell, who was a motorcycle officer of the Portland police force before becoming game warden, was fishing with Matt Story and Charles Straight when the accident occurred. Their boat became snagged on a rock and capsized. Straight and Story reached shore safely but Jewell struck out across swift water, according to his companions, and sank. He was wearing heavy boots and was unable to swim.

Jewell is survived by his wife and five-year-old daughter. He was 42 years old.

Twin Falls Bonds, Free From Income Tax, Sell Rapidly

That investors are realizing the fact that municipal bonds are selling at exceptionally low prices and return high yields for the reason that they are wholly exempt from the federal income tax is well evidenced by the rapid sale of the $400,000 issue of city of Twin Falls, Idaho, 7 per cent improvement bonds that are being offered by the Lumbermens Trust company.

Among new corporation issues, the trust company offers a block of Hershey Chocolate corporation first lien 7½ per cent 10-year sinking fund gold bonds. These mature June 1, 1930, and at the offering price, 97.50 and interest, yield 7.85 per cent. It is the largest manufacturer of milk chocolate in the world. The net income for the last five years exceeds 5½ times the interest requirements on the new note issue.
