

RIPARIAN OWNERS' RIGHT TO FLOW OF STREAMS UPHELD

Salem, June 15.—Interference with the natural flow of a stream, insofar as it interferes with rights of riparian owners thereon, is forbidden under the Oregon law, according to an opinion written by Justice Benson and handed down by the supreme court this morning.

The opinion is based on appeal in the case of John P. Logan vs. the Spaulding Logging company. Logan is the owner of a grist mill located on the banks of the Luckiamute river in Polk county, the mill having been in operation for 60 years.

For some 20 years the Spaulding Logging company has been sluicing logs down the river, this operation, according to Logan's contention, greatly interfering with the operation of his mill. In March, 1918, the public service commission issued an order granting the logging company a franchise for the use of splash dams in its logging operations on the river, whereupon Logan brought suit to prevent the use of the splash dams as depriving him of his riparian rights.

The lower court upheld Logan and enjoined the logging company from any increase or decrease in the natural flow of the stream. This decree is so modified by the opinion of the supreme court as to limit the inhibition of the use of the splash dams to such a use as works an injury to the rights of the riparian owner.

Other opinions handed down were: Victor Nault, appellant, vs. R. R. Palmer, et al., appeal from Baker county; controversy over water rights. Opinion by Justice Burnett. Judge Gustave Anderson affirmed.

R. H. Brown vs. Donald McCloud, appellant; appeal from Harney county; action for trespass by sheep. Opinion by Justice Bean. Judge Dalton Biggs affirmed.

Marius Jansen vs. Pacific Diking company, appellant; appeal from Clatsop county; controversy over contract. Opinion by Justice Johns. Judge J. A. Eakin affirmed.

Hey Winn vs. Moses Taylor, appellant; appeal from Umatilla county; litigation over lease. Opinion by Justice Johns. Judge Fred W. Wilson affirmed.

George A. Hartman, et al., representing Commercial association of Pendleton, vs. city of Pendleton and Pendleton library board, appellants; appeal from Umatilla county; petition for rehearing denied by Chief Justice McBride and former opinion modified.

State of Oregon vs. State Board of Dental Examiners, appellants, appeal from Multnomah county; petition for rehearing denied by Chief Justice McBride.

G. O. P. ACCUSED OF BETRAYING FARMER

By Harding L. Rogers
Washington, June 15.—(I. N. S.)—Thoroughly angered by what he considers the betrayal by the Republicans of the farmers of America, Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary and director of legislation of the Farmers' National council, today embarked upon a campaign of publicity planned to convince politicians the farmer vote is a power to be reckoned with at election time.

Marsh has just returned from Chicago, where he presented the platform of the farmers' national council to a committee of the Republican national convention.

"The section of the Republican platform on agriculture does not contain a single declaration to reassure the farmers of America," said Marsh.

"While it expresses the belief of the Republican party that the crux of the present difficulty in the farming industry lies in prices, labor and credit, and that the situation can be improved by adequate farm representation in appointments of government officials and commissions, it does not pledge this representation. Why not?"

Marsh asserted the platform mentions several specific evils in the agricultural situation without attempting to provide a remedy for them and declared no suffering patient could ever be persuaded that a diagnosis is as good as a cure.

Failure of the platform to provide for amendment of the federal farm loan act to facilitate acquisition of farm land, lack of a pledge to enact legislation to give farmers long time credits and failure to authorize continuance of the federal trade commission were other shortcomings with which he charged the framers of the Republican platform.

Portland Welcome Pleases Kiwanis

"I never saw such a greeting in my life," said W. H. Daughenbaugh of Pittsburg, Pa., a prominent Kiwanis member, who arrived at the Hotel Multnomah this morning. The welcome given at the Union station by the women of Portland and the liberality shown in the distribution of roses impressed Daughenbaugh.

CONVICTED MAN'S ADVANCED YEARS BRING LENIENCE

William Jacobson, second-hand dealer, pleaded guilty in circuit court this morning to a charge of receiving stolen property and was sentenced to a fine of $200 and a jail term of six months. On account of his age, however, the jail sentence was suspended. This action was taken in the midst of the draft of a jury and followed the action of another jury in finding guilty his two sons-in-law, Harry and Alex Goldstein, on like charges.

The younger men were convicted after the jury had been out less than an hour. Their sentence will be pronounced Thursday.

Counsel for the defendants has served notice of appeal to the supreme court on the ground that trials were not started promptly after return of the indictments. Under a previous conviction, Alex Goldstein was found guilty of having stolen clothing in his possession and was sentenced to six months in jail.

GOWANLOCK ADMINISTRATOR OF HIS BROTHER'S ESTATE

Ralph C. Gowanlock today was appointed by Circuit Judge Taswell as administrator of the estate of Clyde C. Gowanlock, his brother, who died June 1. The estate is estimated at not less than $10,000. The heirs are the brother and sister, Ralph C. and Edith M. Gowanlock of Portland, and James Kenneth Gowanlock of Seattle.

Miranda J. Hinkle, widow of the late William J. Hinkle, who died May 24, was appointed administratrix of his estate, which consists of personal property valued at $8700.

Jury Fixes Property Value

A jury in the circuit court Monday brought in a verdict setting the price of $4500 on six lots owned by Susie E. Hielitz and which school district No. 1 desired to have condemned for school purposes. The lots are sought for the Dixon school. The owner first asked $7200, but when the condemnation suit went to trial her figures were reduced to $5750.

Capital Stock Increased

Supplementary articles of incorporation were filed with the county clerk today by the Strand Theatre company showing the action of its stockholders in voting to increase the capital stock to $100,000. The articles were filed by J. Aronson, M. Gusterson and Frank S. Bayley, directors.

Mrs. Joanna Irving

Mrs. Joanna Irving, for 40 years a resident of Portland, died Monday night at St. Vincent's hospital at the age of 77 years. Her death was due to a fall from a stepladder at her home at 146 Porter street Monday, by which her skull was fractured.

Stars and Stripes Publication Staff In First Anniversary

After the last issue of the "Stars and Stripes," the famous newspaper of the A. E. F., had been tucked away, the men who had helped to enliven the spirits of the doughboys gathered to celebrate the passing of the never-to-be-forgotten newspaper. They picked out a little cafe in the Montmartre district of Paris. That was on the night of June 15, 1919.

Another celebration was held Sunday night in Portland. It was the first anniversary celebration and was held in accordance with promises made in the Paris cafe a year ago. It was agreed then that each year, wherever two or more of the former members of the staff should be together, a celebration was to be held.

Oregon contributed a large number of men to the newspaper organization—more than any other state except New York. The celebration brought out five Portlanders and two visitors from San Francisco. The visitors heard about the anniversary and reported for duty.

Following a dinner the men met at the Press club and decided unanimously in favor of the former members of a speedy return to Louis's little cafe in Pigalle, Paris, and made tentative plans for a permanent organization on the Pacific coast. The visitors telegraphed to Harold W. Ross, formerly managing editor of the Stars and Stripes, now editor of the American Legion Weekly, and to Richard C. Chairman of the Stars and Stripes in Washington, D. C.

Portlanders attending the anniversary Sunday night were: L. L. Davies, C. M. Bristol, Frank W. Barton, Harry W. Ketterman and E. B. Chalmers. The visitors were H. J. Miller of Dubuque, Iowa, and R. E. Walker of Fort Worth, Texas. Other Oregon men who were with the gang in Paris and who were unable to be present are Seth T. Bailey, Rex Lammpan, Alton T. Gerber, Leonard Gilbert and Harry Critchlow.

GRAND CHAPTER OF EASTERN STAR IN SESSION HERE

All grand officers of the grand chapter of Oregon, Order of Eastern Star, arrived in Portland Monday to participate in the thirty-fourth annual session. A most cordial reception was given Monday evening by the grand chapter to the members. By special invitation the most worshipful grand master of the grand lodge of Oregon, A. F. and A. M., Earl C. Bronaugh, and his staff of officers were present. Monday was spent mainly in registering delegates.

There are 121 Eastern Star chapters in the state, nearly all of which are represented at the session. Four hundred delegates or their alternates are expected. All meetings will be for members only. One of the features of the session will be the floral ceremony, to be given tonight by the worthy matrons of Portland chapters. The election of grand officers will take place this afternoon. Wednesday morning the annual memorial service will be held under the direction of Mrs. Ida Umbach, associate grand matron, Oriental chapter. At 3:30 p. m. Wednesday the members will meet at Forest Grove to witness the cornerstone laying at the Masonic and Eastern Star home. Officers of the grand chapter who have arrived in Portland are: Mrs. Alberta S. McMurphy, worthy grand matron, Eugene; Ed E. Kiddle, worthy grand patron, Island City; Mrs. Ida Umbach, associate grand matron, Lakeview; Leslie S. Parker, associate grand patron, Portland; Mrs. Mary E. Johnson, grand treasurer, Pendleton; Mrs. Minnie Letson, grand conductress, Ontario; Mrs. Therese Castner, associate grand conductress, Hood River; Mrs. Miriam Burnett, grand chaplain, Salem; Mrs. Lena C. Emmal Strenholm was badly bruised and shaken up when he fell from a building this morning at Thirteenth and Everett street while doing repair work. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital.

Children Run Down; Escape Uninjured But Badly Scared

Harry M. Parks is under arrest, charged with reckless driving, as a result of an accident in which he ran down Erma and Charlie Perry, small children who live with their father, E. Perry, at 412 Tenth street.

According to Parks' story, he was driving at the rate of five miles an hour when W. H. Hewitt, who was with him and teaching him how to drive, saw the children and reached for the wheel. This action and the proximity of the youngsters unnered Parks and the accident resulted. No serious injuries were sustained by either child.

KIWANIS CLUBMEN THROUGING CITY

vention opens at 10:30 Wednesday morning.

Politics of the organization is being discussed in a friendly manner, but few contests are expected for the big honors this convention has to confer.

An international office, probably the second vice presidency, will come to the Pacific coast this year for the first time, and Portland probably will be honored because it is the convention city.

George A. Lovejoy, general convention chairman of the Portland club, is prominently mentioned as the nominee. John F. S. D'Aule of Los Angeles, heading the California delegation, pledged his support to Lovejoy today and British Columbia delegates are also said to favor Lovejoy. The attitude of the delegates from Puget Sound has not been learned, but President Elliott is decidedly in favor of Pacific coast representation, and said Monday he would swing his support to any man who is backed by the majority of the Pacific coast Kiwanians.

For the chief office of the club, J. Mercer Barnett of Birmingham, Ala., now first vice president, probably will be elected without opposition. Barnett talk is heard from all sections, Canadians and Kiwanians of the States alike being pledged to his support. Barnett has already said he would give six months of the forthcoming year to the work of the clubs in the event he is elected.

OHIO DELEGATION STRONG

Much depends on the election of other officers on the powerful Ohio and Pennsylvania delegations, many of the members of which have not yet arrived.

In this convention, President Elliott announced today, will come up the matter of extension of the Kiwanis movement overseas, and this will be the most important undertaking of the new period about to be inaugurated. Kiwanis has already proved itself as a trade medium for members residing in widely separated districts, and that this service can be

TAX LEVY FAVORED BY S. A. MURHARD

S. A. Murhard, candidate for school director at the election of Saturday next, June 19, is strongly in favor of the proposed special $ mill tax levy which is to be approved or rejected by the taxpayers of the city at the coming election.

In a statement issued by Murhard, in which he outlines the position taken by him as a candidate for the directorship, he says:

"I strongly favor the proposed $ mill tax for school building purposes, and in the erection of school buildings, I believe due consideration should be given to the method of expenditures therefor, and the manner of construction, so that these buildings may become a credit to our district and the interests of the children and taxpayers properly safeguarded.

"In view of the experience and close work of the teachers and principals of the various schools with the daily problems of our educational system, I favor and would seek to inaugurate, a plan of holding meetings once a month by the board with the instructors of the various schools to discuss and determine the best methods for building up and maintaining an educational system which would be equal, if not superior, to any in the country."

Chlorine Plant for The Well House at The Dalles Planned

The Dalles, June 15.—The water commissioners will shortly install a chlorine plant in the well house at Weeks reservoir. While the water supply here is pure, vegetation is causing gas to form in the pipe. The proposed plant will cost $1000.

Thousands of fine trout are in cold storage here after a two day drive by Jack Chambers and army Isaac Walton to get enough fish to tickle the palates of visiting Shriners June 21.

Vandals are cutting limbs from bearing cherry trees here and committing other depredations in orchards. They hack off limbs and then strip them of fruit. Deputy sheriffs and owners are patrolling orchards day and night.

Rain fell Sunday afternoon and night and most of Monday. Farmers in this section state that the rainfall of late has practically doubled the crop.

Condon to Celebrate
Condon, June 15.—Frank Burris post, American Legion, has made extensive preparations for one of the biggest three-day Fourth of July celebrations ever held in Condon.

Here is a photo-drama that will open the hearts of all you who live and love and glorify things beautiful. "Romance" has been one of the sensational stage successes of recent years and Doris Keane, beautiful, talented, richly-gifted, has carried "Romance" to international fame. It is, indeed, a rare privilege to present this splendid artist in her exquisite film creation of what has been hailed as the "most beautiful love story of the stage."
