35,000 Shriners See Columbia Highway; Many Staying Over

Fully 35,000 Shrine visitors have seen the Columbia river highway since Sunday and the success of handling the large crowds is a tribute to the people of Portland who responded so generously to appeals for cars, Ira P. Powers, chairman, declares.

All the cars which can be obtained both today and Saturday can be readily used, as many of the Eastern visitors are staying in the city until Sunday. Scores of persons who earlier in the week took the trip over the highway are returning to headquarters to make the trip through the residential districts.

The streetcar specials which go through all sections of the city, have been popular, and daily thousands of visitors have been passengers. "Although there were times when we could have used more cars, the people have responded splendidly as a whole to our appeal, and to them the success of this phase of the entertainment of our guests is due," Powers said.

POLICE AND FIRE CALLS FEW ON CONVENTION DAYS

Portland has successfully staged the largest convention with less crime, serious accidents and fires than occur during normal times.

Captain Circle, chief of inspectors; Captain Lewis of the traffic bureau and Fire Marshal Grenfell all speak glowingly of the good fortune that has surrounded their respective bureaus during the four days in which more than 100,000 people were visitors of the city.

Not a single fatal automobile accident occurred during the Shrine convention. Records at the traffic bureau show one minor traffic accident involving automobiles, streetcars and pedestrians during a normal four day period.

VETERAN PLACED IN BAD POSITION

B. A. McGILLIS, veteran of the world war, twice wounded and a victim of circumstances that placed him in the position of a deserter from the forces of two nations, left Portland Thursday on the last leg of the journey that will place him right in the eyes of the government.

McGillis is on his way to navy headquarters in Philadelphia to answer charges against him. Navy orders place him on honor and require that he pay his own transportation.

McGillis joined the naval militia at Saginaw, Mich., in July, 1915. In July, 1917, he went to Windsor, Ont., and joined the Sixty-third battery, field artillery, Canadian Expeditionary force. Mayor Voices City's Appreciation of Fine Reception to Shriners Appreciation to the people of Portland for the splendid reception given to the Shriners was voiced in a message written by Mayor George L. Baker Thursday at the suggestion of the Shrine leaders. It said:

"To the public: Portland people have done many big things, but never before have they cooperated so generally and so generously as they did during the past week in making the Shrine convention a success. Because it is impossible to extend thanks individually to all those who are entitled to thank, I take this means of expressing the gratitude felt by the Shriners and the various committees in charge of arrangements to all who contributed to the reception and entertainment. It has demonstrated to the world that Portland and Oregon are made up of live wires, who put the final finishing coat of brown on anything and everything they undertake regardless of size.

"Only by the generous cooperation of the entire public was it possible for Portland to send her thousands of visitors away thoroughly satisfied with their treatment, their entertainment and our country. And Portland has been well repaid by being presented with a wonderful performance by the visitors.

So again in behalf of those who had the responsibility of the reception and entertainment, I extend sincere thanks to every man, woman and child who contributed time or effort in any one of the thousand activities necessary and it gives me great pleasure to say that this takes in about every man, woman and child in the city of Portland.
