

TIMBER TRACT IS SOLD FOR MILLION

Marshfield, July 1.—In a deal involving a million dollars the last tract of timber on the lower Umpqua country passed into the hands of operative companies. Wednesday. The sale was closed by Adel, Sparger & Conrad, acting as agents in selling the interests of William Kroll, in what is known as the Sparrow & Kroll timber tract.

The sale transfers 500,000,000 feet of timber, 50 per cent of which is spruce. It is located on Lake Tatenich near Kroll station, north of Reedsport. The buyer is the Lake Timber company of which W. F. McGreggor and Frank Patton, Astoria bankers, R. K. Booth, Astoria retail lumber dealer, and James Manary, Columbia river logger, are chief owners. McGreggor and Booth are also interested in the Tatenich Timber company which owns an adjoining tract of timber now being logged.

The new company will at once operate the tract purchased and a mill will later be built at Kroll station to handle the logs from the two timber companies. Adel, Sparger & Conrad are closing negotiations for the purchase of all of the Gardner Mill company holdings which were not previously sold, and will divide the timber holdings in units which will be sold to operators, who will build mills on the lower Umpqua river. The deal will also include the Gardner Mill company plant at Gardner which will be operated.
