N. Y. Man Weds Portland Girl Wednesday

By Helen H. Hutchison MISS BLANCHE WILSON became the bride of Lester Capell Guenther of New York city, Wednesday at 4 o'clock. The service was read in the presence of 75 relatives and friends by the Rev. J. J. Staub.

The bride wore a smart tailleur of blue icotine with a small blue turban. Her flowers were an old fashioned bouquet of orchids and small blossoms. Miss Lenore Blaesing, maid of honor, wore a frock of blue taffeta and a large black hat. Jules Guenther of Scattle attended the bridegromm.

Following the ceremony an informal wedding reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Guenther of Seattle received with the bridal party.

Mrs. Gordon B. Raymond and Mrs. Herman J. Blaesing presided at the supper table from which the wedding collation was served. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. Charles Petheram, Miss Bernadean Grebel, Miss Marion Hilton and Miss Katherine Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Guenther will make their home in New York.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lawson of 767 Montgomery drive, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday at high noon, when their daughter. Agnes G. Lawson, became the bride of Roland P. James A. Lawson, brother of the bride, acted as best man. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, followed by a reception at which more than 100 guests were present. The rooms were beautifully decorated, the dining room being in Richmond roses, and the ball and living rooms in tones of and the hall and living rooms in tones of blus. Mr. Prentys and his bride left on the evening train to spend a few weeks in Glacier National park and will be at home after September 1 in their new home which is being built for them on Montgomery drive.

Interesting visitors in Portland are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murphy of New York City, who will be here for about 10 days. Mrs. phy was Miss Matilda K. Crane before her marriage and left with her hus-band in 1915 for San Francisco where they made their home for two years, going from there to New York. Mr. Murphy is angaged in newspaper cartoon feature work, and is the producer of the "Toots and Casper" series. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy are at the Benson hotel.

Mrs. Lucius Allen Lewis and daughter will leave Tuesday for their summer home at Ecola, Cannon Beach, to be gone for the remaining summer months. Miss Clementine will take her saddle horses. She will be one of the partici-pants in the races at the Hunt club Saturday.

Mrs. F. A. Underwood of Baker, for-Mrs. F. A. Underwood of Baker, for-merly proprietor of the Underwood hotel, and W. M. Lindsey of Jordan Valley were quietly married in Vale Saturday evening. AN INTERESTING feature of Mrs. Fiske's Portland engagement at the Hellig for the rest of the week will be the final appearance of Hamilton Re-velle, her leading man, in the role of Georges Durand. When the curtain falls Georges Durand. When the curtain falls on the closing performance next Saturday night, Mr. Revelle will have played the part nearly 500 times. The condition of his health as well as the necessity of preparing himself for another role next season compel him to withdraw from the cast at the conclusion of the Portland engagement.

Mr. Revelle's reappearance in Ports

Mr. Revelle's reappearance in Port-land revives the echoes of one of the most sensational episodes of theatrical history, for it was he who carried Olga Nethersole up a flight of stairs to fame and notoriety on the occasion of her memorable production of "Sapho." It will be recalled that a suit was brought will be recalled that a suit was brought to prevent Nethersole and Revelle from reappearing in this play, the litigation causing a storm of discussion from one end of the country to the other. During the course of the trial, a staircase was erected in the courtroom and Mr. Revelle and Olga Nethersole actually had to enact the disputed scene before a judge and jury to prove that there was nothing objectionable in the manner in which Mr. Revelle transported Sapho to her boudoir.

Coyote was trotting along across the Green Meadows not far from the Smilit: He had already tried for Danny Meadow Mouse and failed to catch him. He knew that Johnny and Polly Chuck and all the little Chucks were in bed by his time. He had thought of going over to the Smiling Pool after Grandfather Frog or some of his numerous children and grandchildren, but somehow he didn't feel like a Frog dinner. There would be time enough to come back for that if he failed to get anything better. He knew that somewhere in the Green Forest were Thunderer the Grouse and Mrs. Grouse. The trouble was he didn't know in just what part of the Green Forest they were and it might take him all night to find them, or more likely still he might not find them at all. But the more he thought about them the more he was inclined to go over there, on the chance that he might stumble on them.

So just before he reached the Smiling Pool he turned toward the Green Forest. He trotted along swiftly and silently But nose and eyes and ears were wide open for any little smell or movement or sound that might lead him to a dinner. It is always that way with Old Man Coyote. He never forgets for an instant what his wonderful nose and eyes and ears were given him for. He was nearly past the Smiling Pool when from over where the Laughing flows into it two faint, sounds reached him. They were so faint that had you or I been in his place we wouldn't have heard him at all. That was because he was quite a distance away. One sound was a faint thump and the other sound was a still fainter

Old Man Coyote didn't stop. He simply turned and headed straight towards the place where those sounds had come from and he trotted a little faster if anything. You see his ears are no keener than his wits are quick.
"That thump was made by Peter The no Rabbit," muttered Old Man Coyote, a Debt.

"And that splash was made by Jerry Muskrat. They were together over there and Peter saw or heard danger and warned Jerry. Probably Hooty the Owl happened along and Peter saw him. Now you remember that is exactly what did happen. Old Man Coyote's quick wits had guessed instantly from those two faint sounds just what had hunt for his dinner and hadn't quite happened over there by Jerry Muskmade up his mind just where to look for rat's new landing where the Laughing "If it was Hooty the Owl who frightened them," continued Old Man Coyote frightened long. They know that hav-ing missed them Hooty will waste no time around there, but will go else-where to hunt. Probably Peter hid close by the place where he thumped. Jerry Muskrat will wait a while and then will come back on shore. I'll just hide close to that place the sounds came from. I've plenty of time and can afford to be patient on the chance of getting a

So Old Man Coyote trotted on swiftly As he drew near the rushes on the shore turned and headed straight the place where those sounds he from and he trotted a little he was just creeping. And all the time he was using his wonderful nose and his eyes and ears as only he can.

Big Aria From "Aida" Is on Program

INDICATIONS are that The Auditorium I will be filled to capacity Friday night, when Leah Leaska (Miss Leah Cohen) appears there in her debut as concert artist under the auspices of the Music League of America, Inc., and sponsored by the Oregon Federa-tion of Women's Clubs.

Only two singers have so far been able to attract enough people to fill the huge building. They were John McCormack and Luisa Tetrazzini. Many line parties have been arranged and several organizations have secured blocks of seats, among these being the Monday Musical club.

The program is unusually well chosen and one that will put the Portland singer to a most severe test, for it includes such gems as the aria "Ritorpa Vincitor," from Verdi's "Aida"; "Le Nil," by Xavier Beroux; "Eili Eili," by Kurt Schindler; "L'Oasis" and "Le Papillon," by Felix Fourdrain; the en-Papillon," by Felix Fourdrain; the entrance scene aria from Puccini's "Madam Butterfly," Grieg's "A Dream," Wilson's beautiful "Carmena," and the following closing group: "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair" (Haydn), "Corals" (Treharne), "The Cry of Rachael" (Salter), "The Rivals" (Tom Dobson), and "At the Well" (Hageman).

J. Hutchison will be at the plane pico productions of Rubinstein's "Stac-cato Etude." as played by Mischa Le-vitzki, and "Liebestraume," by Liszt, as played by Leo Ornstein.

Spring caught black muskrat fur is the finest grade procurable. From this class downward, there are so many different qualities that one is bewildered in thinking of them—the principal determining features being, where caught, when caught, what size and what color.

Muskrat is a durable fur—one of the best wearing furs known, exceed-ing in this virtue several of the more costly though less pientiful animals. It is fair then to presume that if muskrats were less plentiful, the fur would sell at a much higher price. Besides being so durable, muskrat fur is always in strong demand be-cause it can be used in almost any condition—natural, plucked, blended, dyed or sheared.

In all these conditions, however, it is not sold as muskrat, for the unreliable fur dealer can get a better price for it as mink, brook mink, water mink, Hudson seal, electric seal, Red river and numerous other kinds of seal, none of which exists—and, when sheared, as moleskin.

Regardless of the many lower grades of muskrat fur, which can be doctored to sell at higher prices than they are worth, other skins of still lower value than the poorer muskrat are "treated" and sold by conscience-less dealers as the genuine.

At least, a poor diamond will wear.

Few people would consider entering the store of a diamond merchant of unknown standing and buying a stone merely on his word that it was "the real thing," perfectly cut, first water, etc., yet there is more room for deception in selling muskrat fur, and most people know less about it than about gems.
