Can't Please 'Em All
Some people never are satisfied. It's either too cold or too hot; or too sunny or too cloudy or something. But that's the way those people get their pleasure out of life. They enjoy complaining. So don't waste sympathy on grumps. They won't appreciate that, either.

COX GOES TO FRONT

COX GOES TO FRONT BEHIND CULKIN SAYS CULKIN

Party of 127 Delegates and Others of Tammany Hall Stop Off in Portland En Route Home From the Democratic Convention.

Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic national committee, will probably be the ultimate choice of the convention at San Francisco for presidential nominee.

This opinion was voiced by Charles W. Cullin, acting secretary of Tammany Hall, who, with 127 delegates and members of the political organization, arrived Monday morning en route to their homes in New York.

The party was forced to leave the convention after the taking of the seventh ballot, due to previous arrangements, and the 19 delegates in the party left instructed proxies to continue the balloting for them.

Tammany Hall is against the Wilson administration and therefore throws its votes to the strongest opponent of McAdoo and Palmer—James M. Cox of Ohio.

COX OSTENSIBLE CHOICE
Because of their stand for Cox at the convention members of the party were ostensible of the opinion that Cox would be the final choice of the Democrats.

But Cullin, the leader of the delegation, candidly declared he did not believe Cox would break the deadlock. "The delegates are settling themselves for a long drawn out series of balloting," said Cullin. "At first it seemed as if McAdoo or Palmer would be able to hold out longer than Cox, but their game of sticking seems to have been outplayed by the Cox supporters. Cox delegates are backed by plenty of Ohio money to keep them at the convention indefinitely but the expenses of staying at the convention may play out the backbones of the Southern supporters of McAdoo or Palmer."

MAY PASS 40 BALLOTS
"When our party left San Francisco it looked as if the balloting might pass the 40 mark. The deadlock was absolute."

"Personally most of the members of our party believe that the selection of a dark horse will be necessary to break the deadlock and Cummings looks like the most likely man to come to the front when the votes begin switching around."

The Tammany hall delegates arrived shortly after 6 o'clock and are spending the day touring the city and the Columbia river highway. The members left at 8:30 o'clock for a 40-mile trip over the Columbia river highway, returning at 3 p. m. They will leave at 9:30 p. m. for Mt. Rainier national park and Seattle.

There are 127 members of Tammany Hall in the party. They left New York June 16, with 132 persons under the guidance of Thomas P. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall.

Best Wheat Crop in Prospect in Sherman

By Hyman H. Cohen
More, Or., July 5.—(Sherman county has in the making at this time one of its best, if not the biggest, wheat crop that this noted section has ever produced.

Barring unavoidable accidents—due to hot winds or other possible calamities, Sherman county will, for 1920, produce approximately 3,786,000 bushels of wheat that will net the producers a far greater sum of money than its 4,000,000 bushel crop reported a few years ago but which never fully materialized.

The usual happened in the section north of Wasco—the "blow" caused the farmers to reap considerable acreage during the spring. This area is doing well at the present time but in Sherman county, as in other sections of central Oregon, there is wheat planted with much chance as to whether the late planting will do well.

AREA PLANTED LESS
In the north end of the county the showing of wheat is well above the average. There is a slight decrease in the area planted there, as is true of the county generally, but the most excellent condition of the crop at this time indicates that this decreased area will be scarcely felt.

To the west end of the county the showing is likewise above averages for recent years.

From Wasco to More and even beyond the crop shows well filling heads and the generally is favorable. Around Elondike, growers are promised their best crop for several years.

Up toward Grass Valley it is but a repetition of the showing of other sections of the county. In fact the very good promise extends from within a short distance of Elondike to within a stone's throw of Shaniko.

HEADS LARGE SIZE
In reality the entire county in this season a vast wheat field. Imagine for yourself the huge distance from one end of the county to the other.

Wheat heads are unusually large-sized this season all through Sherman county. Fall wheat is practically out of all danger today and can be considered safely. With a rain or even moderately cool weather conditions will continue ideal for the spring planting.

Haying is over in most sections of Sherman county and the yields were good. Barley acreage this season is abnor-

CITY'S FOURTH SPENT OUTSIDE

Thousands Go to the Beautiful Spots That Abound in State and Enjoy National Holiday.

On mountain streams are they fishing; on mountain sides are they climbing; by riverbanks and roadsides are they picnicking; on the beaches are they bathing; at various parks are they dancing, speaking, ball-gaming, athletic contesting and band playing. And the small boys are still fire-cracking just outside the city limits.

Thus is Portland celebrating Independence day. Portland was deserted Sunday. Portland was deserted Sunday. Portland was deserted Sunday. Portland was deserted Sunday. Portland was deserted Sunday.

LABOR OUTLOOK GOOD
If labor available during haying is any sign to tie to there will be plenty of aid in harvest.

In summing up Sherman county's excellent wheat prospects at this time credit must be given for the liberal amount of moisture this season. Last week's rain was a great help. Let us forget credit must likewise be given to the Moro experiment station for its unceasing work in bringing out improved varieties of wheat. Turkey red has been so greatly improved at the station that it belongs much credit for the increasing importance of Sherman county as a wheat center as well as to putting more money in the pockets of growers by weaning them from soft wheat at lower prices to the harder varieties that sell around the top of the wheat price list.

Trace Is Found of Man Who Purloined Jewels of Woman

San Francisco, July 5.—(U. P.)—Trace of the bandit who bound, gagged and robbed Mrs. C. E. Mueller of New York, guest and traveling companion of Mrs. John F. Hyman, wife of New York's mayor, in the Fairmont hotel here last night, had been found by the police early today.

Eight diamond rings, valued at $4000, and $200 in cash, were taken by the robber.

C. H. Vyse Sought; He May Have Been Victim of Accident

Fearing that he has been the object of an attack, or an accident, the police are trying to find C. H. Vyse, 469 East Eighty-second street, who is said by his friends to have left for Seattle in his automobile Saturday night. Vyse's machine was found overturned by the roadside at Castlerock Sunday morning.

A telegram to the auto theft bureau caused a search to be instituted, but nothing had been learned of Vyse's whereabouts. Communications from his relatives made certain that he had not returned to his home, and that they had not heard from him.

Senator Smoot Is in Portland Few Days

United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah arrived in Portland Saturday for a few days' sojourn, called here by the illness of his daughter, Mrs. Grover Rebentush of Elgin, who is a patient at the Good Samaritan hospital. He is the guest of his brother-in-law, Ernest R. Eldridge, at the Arlington club.

COX IN DRIVE FOR VOICES OF 2 OPPOSITES

While McAdoo and Palmer Appeal to Each Other for Aid, Manager of Ohio Governor Slowly Nibbles Away at Their Support.

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1920, by The Journal)
San Francisco, July 5.—Long after midnight conferences between friend and foe at the Democratic convention, the McAdoo forces tried to convince the Palmer men that the attorney general had little chance and ought to support an "out and out Wilson man like McAdoo," and prevent the anti-administration forces from getting control of the Democratic party. The Palmer managers insisted that McAdoo had had his tryout and that while appreciating the force of the argument for pro-Wilson candidate, the obvious move would be for the McAdoo delegates to be thrown to Palmer.

Meanwhile Ed Moore, strategy expert of the Cox forces, took advantage of the rivalry between the Palmer and McAdoo camps to drive harder into the delegations held by each.

He was quietly undermining both the McAdoo and Palmer delegations, taking a few delegates here and there and lining up enough additional votes to give Cox more prestige on the opening ballots.

The only danger that faced the Cox managers was the inclination of the Palmer and McAdoo forces to recognize that they had a common ground—the Wilson administration. Little thought was given to the fact that Governor Cox only has supported President Wilson, but issued a statement not long ago expressing approval of the league of nations as the issue in the campaign. It was because the delegates from Illinois, New Jersey and New York, together with anti-administration influences in other states, had looked to the Cox standard that the Ohio governor's triumph was held up by the Palmer and McAdoo men as a manifest motion of loyalty to Wilson of the Ohio delegation.

As a matter of fact, New York and New Jersey and Illinois went to Cox because they believed him to be "Back home in the state election the advantage of a wet candidate on the top of the ticket is supposed to be considerable."

REACTIONARY AND WET IN M'ADOO FIGHT

Old Guard and Anti-Drys to Face New Leadership in Alliance Formed Against ex-Secretary; Boom for Davis Is Collapsing.

By B. F. Irvine
(Editor of The Journal)
San Francisco, July 5.—The battle on the floor of the convention is not a mere issue of the personality of the candidates. Other forces are fighting in the conflict. The wet and dry issue was not settled by the adopting of a platform which rejected a wet plank, nor by the action of the convention in turning down the very stringent prohibition plank offered by Bryan.

The convention in purpose is dry but holds to the view that the issue is as completely settled as in the slavery issue. But the wet delegates still cling to the hope of helping name the candidate. This is one force that is operating on the convention floor and is part of the strong opposition in the fight on McAdoo.

Another force is a minority of delegates who are at heart reactionary and wedded to the old political ideas. They are the forces that nominated Parker in 1904. They are in the alliance against McAdoo.

As a matter of principle the McAdoo men have determined to go down the line for their candidate in resistance to these forces. The remarkable recuperative powers shown by McAdoo Saturday night when he rose to 35 1/2 votes after going down to 27 1/2 has encouraged his supporters and they are on the ground today pledged to a last ditch. They may not win but there are more than 300 of them who will go down with their colors flying, the Oregon delegation among them.

In the opinion of many experienced observers the opposition forces have shown all their strength. But there are (Continued on Page Three, Column Six)

JAPAN TO OCCUPY POINTS IN SIBERIA

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Tokio, July 3.—(Delayed.)—Uncertainty as to Japan's actions in Siberia was cleared today when it was officially announced that "for the purpose of upholding Japan's prestige and pending the establishment of a legitimate government in Siberia," Japan will occupy points in Saghalien and will maintain sufficient troops in Vladivostok and the Harbin region to keep order.

In a diet speech Premier Hara said the government is seriously considering the Anglo-Japanese alliance. He said he was gratified at the formation of the Chinese loan consortium.

The Shantung question, unsettled, he said, because of the failure of the Chinese to accept Japan's proposals. Negotiations are proceeding.

The Nikolaevsk massacre calls for positive action, he said.

CHILD, 3, IS KILLED CROSSING HIGHWAY

George Ruokonen, 3-year-old son of S. W. Ruokonen, 1176 Albina avenue, is dead as the result of being run over by a sightseeing automobile on the Columbia river highway at 6:30 Sunday evening.

The most serious of several traffic accidents occurred on the highway.

The Ruokonens had parked their car by the Vista House and were just preparing to leave. Little George was across the road.

The highway, two autos were passing. The child dodged the first, but was struck down by the second, a machine of the Broadway Auto service company, driven by A. R. French, 410 1/2 Morrison street, and owned by Ed Tonkin, Altona apartments. The child died on the way to Emanuel hospital.

Jack Almaker is held in the county jail in default of $250 bonds on the charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Mrs. Almaker, his wife, is in a local hospital and Mrs. C. L. Griffin is under medical attendance at her home in Milwaukee, as the outcome of an automobile collision on the Foster road about two miles beyond Lents Sunday night.

Almaker's machine was run into the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Griffin of Milwaukee were riding, and both cars were badly wrecked, while the two women were seriously injured. Mrs. Griffin was taken to her home. At the jail Almaker admitted he had been drinking.

Struggling out to avoid a parked car at Union avenue and Killingsworth, a machine driven by Bradley Sizar was struck when C. P. Hyatt, following in another car, attempted to cut in front of Sizar to avoid an oncoming streetcar. The accident occurred Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The two cars were thrown to the pavement and bruised.

Jackerman is in the county jail on a charge of driving an automobile truck while intoxicated, which resulted Sunday in the injury of Mrs. C. O. Vanolot, 884 Uphur street.

Ackerman is said to have run into an automobile driven by Mrs. Vanolot's husband at Ninety-second and Foster road, according to Motorcycle Policeman C. N. Anderson.

Lieutenant Ervin of the traffic bureau arrested a driver on Union avenue and Almsworth street Sunday night for driving his automobile in a reckless manner with improper lights. His bail was set at $25. He will appear in court on Tuesday.

Wives Should Be Grateful

By Ring Lardner
San Francisco, Cal., July 4.—(Sunday.)—The only difference between today and other days was that the praying was done in church.

The convention has been adjourned till tomorrow on the nominal grounds that they haven't agreed on no compromise candidate's compromise enough to be eligible but that's just a stall.

The boys are now waiting till the Pullman Company can build enough new upper berths to accommodate the delegates from Iowa. The delegates from Iowa claim they can't sleep in a upper berth and that's the reason they want one. They've been sleeping all wk. and are tired of it.

The women of the United States owe a great deal to the democrat party for keeping their husbands away from home so long. That is judging by what I seen of the husbands to date. But I suppose a person shouldn't never ought Indiana Swings 29 Votes to McAdoo, Including 19 Which Had Been Given Cox; Washington Also Jumps on McAdoo Wagon.

Auditorium, San Francisco, July 5.—Total on thirtieth ballot: McAdoo, 403 1/2; Cox, 396 1/2; Palmer, 165; Underwood, 2; Davis, 58; Owen, 33; Cummings, 4; Clark, 24.

Auditorium, San Francisco, July 5.—(U. P.)—A drive to nominate W. G. McAdoo was launched in the Democratic convention shortly after 1 p. m. today.

The Indiana delegation, which had been voting Cox 19, McAdoo 11, swung to McAdoo on the twenty-ninth ballot, giving him 29 votes and Davis 1.

This was believed to be the beginning of the effort to "put over" McAdoo, his managers claiming to have assurances from Georgia that that delegation would vote for McAdoo also.

As Indiana cast her vote for McAdoo a demonstration was turned loose. The understanding with Taggart was that if a big McAdoo movement failed to develop on two or three ballots, the Indiana votes would be withdrawn.

Washington McAdoo delegates said their vote expected to swing 14 votes to McAdoo on the twenty-ninth ballot.

INDIANA VOTES M'ADOO
When Indiana cast 29 votes for McAdoo on the twenty-ninth ballot the McAdoo supporters were thrown into a delirium of joy. This represented a gain in Indiana over the last ballot of 18 votes and a loss for Cox of 19, Davis also taking one from the Ohio vote.

Indiana carried its standard into the aisle and planted it in front of the rest room. It was followed by a shouting chorus of "McAdoo, McAdoo," Wyoming, Michigan, Montana, North Dakota, Delaware, Wisconsin, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, South Carolina, Nevada, and Texas soon were in line.

STRENGTH FOR STANDARDS
In the Georgia section delegates hung onto their standard and refused to let McAdoo supporters put it into line.

A handful of New York delegates took the Springfield standard and attempted to get in line. A scramble followed in which the name plate was restored to the standard.

The McAdoo New Yorkers were in the minority and the standard remained in the state section.

Senator King of Utah took the gavel from Senator Robinson and pounded for order.

STAND FAST FOR M'ADOO, S SLOGAN

Auditorium, San Francisco, July 5.—Cone Johnson of Texas opened the pow-wow today, urging the delegates to stand fast. Dr. Jenkins, in a stentorian verbal barrage that resounded through the hotel corridors, warned that representatives of candidates would come to them today and try to wheedle away a few votes for their men "just as a compliment."

"The time for compliments is past," Jenkins thundered.

Mrs. Peter Olson, secretary of agriculture and a member of the Iowa delegation, which heretofore has voted for Cox, declared his delegation had refused to quit when McAdoo telegraphed in session all day trying to decide what to do and that it probably would swing to McAdoo.

MISSISSIPPI IS WOBBLING
Ex-Governor Brewer of Mississippi, whose state voted for Cox for 21 ballots, announced it would—cast one more ballot for Cox and then, if he is not chosen, would swing to McAdoo.

Mrs. Peter Olson, Minnesota, gave assurance that all the women on the convention floor who are awaiting for McAdoo would stand pat. Indefinitely.

Francis J. Hehey of California predicted McAdoo gains in that delegation.

It was about the most wide open candidate's caucus on record. The speakers' voices could be heard in the halls outside.

TEXAS FIRE AS EVER
Thomas B. Lowe, national committeeman from Texas, who was described by Jenkins as the man who was "The whole McAdoo organization," who refused to quit when McAdoo telegraphed that he did not want the nomination, issued the following statement:

JOURNAL ON FOURTH WEEK OF DELIERS

The fourth week of unbroken operation of The Journal's newspaper express service by hydroplane will be opened Monday afternoon when Victor Vernon, general manager of the Oregon Washington & Idaho Airplane company, leaves the landing basin at Lewis and Clark field with bundles of papers for the popular ocean resort.

Pilot Vernon plans to make today's flight in the big Seagull, and will have one passenger. He will return this evening with another passenger who will make the trip down Saturday afternoon.

The wide interest, taken in this system of newspaper distribution has led to a clamorous demand for the same service to the other beach resorts, but for the present this cannot be done as the airplane company's duty has more business than it can handle.
